

Riverside Park Fishing Pier Options

Why are we still talking about the fishing pier at Riverside Drive?

Last year the fishing pier was moved from the original location, to about 60 feet to the east. The original site was better for reaching the fish cribs but was considered too close to the road by some. Moving to the east was a safer location. As it turned out after the placement, there were weeds in the water around the current location.

What are our options?

1. Leave the pier where it is.
2. Move the pier back to the original location.

Is moving the fishing pier to the original location unsafe?

The issues with moving back to the original site include the narrowing of the path and the closeness to Riverside Dr.

I will work through the Parks and Recreation Committee next Wednesday for a determination on whether we are ok to move the fishing pier location to the original site with or without the guardrail.

What will be the costs of moving the pier location?

Guard Rail Cost $400

Cement base Cost $700

Trail Extension Cost $200

How much money is on hand to move the pier?

$3,879 in the River and Trails account

$1,440 remaining from the Brantmeyer donation (included in the above amount)
