

Criddle Park Light Option

There was a request from a neighbor of Criddle Park that we install a security light there. The neighbor had graffiti painted on his home a few weeks ago and thought it may have come from the people that hang out in the park in the evenings. He felt that a light would be a deterrent people staying in the park after hours. Most of our parks and shelter areas have some form of lighting.

Sean Grady of Stoughton Utilities estimated a price for placing a pole in the park and running the electric to the location. $500

He also estimated that an electrician for installing the meter socket could be as high as $800.

Total Cost estimate: $1300
