

Photo courtesy Steve Sands/GC Images

You've also worked with Amy Schumer in her Emmy-winning series, Inside Amy Schumer. What has been your favourite sketch so far?

Yes, Amy has been gracious enough to include me in all three seasons of her show. She's a truly wonderful person, and an amazing talent. My favorite sketch has to be the "Love Tub" sketch, which was basically a parody of The Bachelor.

Do you have any stand out moments while working with Schumer?

It's hard to pick a single stand out moment working with Amy. It's always so much fun. I've never met anyone as quick as her in my life. That said, the best moments are when we have a little room to improvise during a sketch. You never know what's going to happen, and that's such a fun feeling.

Photo Courtesy of Ali Goldstein

Who is one Canadian actor that you would love to work with that you haven't yet?

Oh gosh, I'd absolutely love to work with Martin Short. Or Catherine O'Hara. Or Eugene Levy. This question is too hard.

What is the craziest fan encounter that you have experienced?

Ha! I'm not nearly famous enough to have had a crazy fan experience, but, I was doing Bud Light commercials in Canada as a character named "Budd Light" from 2008-2010 and during that time people were dressing up as the character for Halloween, so that was a pretty surreal experience.

To learn more about Ryan Farrell, follow him on Twitter.

Are you a Jessica Jones fan? Tweet us at @popandpress