Introducing Anneli Blundell

A multi-award winning professional, Anneli is on a mission to humanise the leadership landscape and change the way we see each other. Known affectionately as the 'Professional People Whisperer' (don't hold that against her), Anneli has become the trusted advisor for many executives and leaders when it comes to increasing their influence, engagement and interpersonal impact for better business results.

Anneli uses her vast knowledge and decades of experience decoding people, to bring the everyday behaviours and communication habits to the forefront of getting results.

Whether she's on stage delivering a keynote on gender equality, running a masterclass in communication, or working 1:1 with her coaching clients, Anneli is passionate about the impact of communication and connection skills.

Anneli's client list includes Mercedes-Benz, Ernst and Young, Telstra, Victoria Police, NAB, JB Hi-Fi, The Good Guys, and many more. She has been featured as an expert on the documentary 'The Gender Narrative' (8-episode series) as well as across other multi media publications.

Oh and she's a nifty parallel parker, a keen runner and a salsa dancing addict who loves any meal cooked by someone else! :)

“ I first saw Anneli present at a conference I attended and I was very impressed with how she handled what was a relatively dry and challenging audience. In my constant desire to bring the best providers to EY I looked into how we could use Anneli’s obvious expertise in influence and communication to support our people in developing these skills. The initial route was through her coaching services and she has coached a number of our Directors in their executive presence and impact, and the feedback has been impressive, not only from the individuals themselves, but also from those who work closely with them. Anneli is one of those impressive individuals who fits an awful lot into her working life – an accomplished speaker, mentor, author and a highly experienced coach, and I am very appreciative that we get to work with her at EY.

-James Skinner, Oceania Executive Development Coach, Talent, EY

“ I had the pleasure to engage Anneli to provide communication coaching. It was possibly the single most important personal development I've received in my career, and was delivered with incredible skill, patience and thoroughness.

-Jon Eaves, Chief Architect

“As the current Managing Director of the largest professional association for Coaches in Australia and New Zealand and the former Director of Learning and Development for AIG and AIA, I have developed an extensive network of high caliber speakers, trainers, coaches and facilitators. There are many professionals in the network who excel in one or more of these modalities, but there are few like Anneli who are able to excel across all of these areas. I invited Anneli to provide a keynote presentation at our recent National Coaching Conference and she was a standout highlight amongst her peers and a clear top-of-the-pack leader against the other 21 speakers at the event.

-Sally Parrish, MD

“Anneli is a masterful coach. She understands people and works in a caring & respectful, yet challenging manner. I am appreciating the shifts in my thinking that she is facilitating and can see the impact of the resulting changes.
