

Grace Groups Questions

1 Corinthians 11:7-34

1. Why are meals for memorable for us? What is it about eating together that builds community and memories?

We are usually more comfortable and less scripted. We share something vital together and let each other into our lives.

2. If we all take communion together, what are some ways we fail to “recognize the body” or see and serve each other?

By not making the effort to associate outside of the Sunday service, or being part of the church for what it gives and not who it is.

3. Why is it important that we continue to proclaim Jesus’ death?

We need the reminder because we forget the truth of the gospel everyday. A consistent reminder, even through communion, brings us back to the central truth of our lives.

4. How can we use self-examination and avoid condemnation of others and ourselves?

By seeing it as a way of revealing a repentant heart rather than slathering on the guilt. It should also keep us from judging others because we know they, like us are under Christ’s grace.

5. How could the Lord us communion to bring spiritual renewal to the church?

In the consistent reminder of the cross, the Lord could work among us to bring a sense of unity and community around our identity in Christ alone.
