

Bombshells

By Joanna Murray-Smith

directed by Rachel Gorman

Three women on the edge, all of them bombshells... more precisely human bombs at various stages of implosion. Meryl, mum of three, struggling through the day with a heavy dose of parental guilt and a severe caffeine deficit. Tiggy, piecing together the remnants of her broken marriage, and finding solace in her love of cacti. And Theresa, just minutes from saying "I do" when she realises that she hasn't given much thought to the actual marriage until now. This hilarious and heartfelt play explores that universal struggle of reconciling our private and public selves.

CAST

Meryl Louise Davenport Amy

Dobbert

Theresa McTerry Alyssa Wagner

Tiggy Entwhistle Jackie Poplar

CREW

Stage Manager Rachel Gorman

Lighting John Ricker

Sound Barend Linders

Stage crew Frieda Jacobowitz

IN PLAY ERS

The InPlayers are Amsterdam's oldest English language theatre group. We are an amateur group, love theatre and are all volunteers. We are a passionate group of individuals from all over the world - a melting pot of creative minds, even if we say so ourselves. We vary in age, experience, mind-set and opinion. Add this to the emotional theatre environment, and you get a mix of free spirits, strong personalities, fierce ambitions, creative expression and powerful energy.