THE IGLOO PEOPLE

By Daniel M. Weintraub/The Orange County Register

It was Murray posied nervously across the largely empty capitol of the office building, where he had been waiting for his chance to talk to the governor. Murray had been called in by a friend who worked for the governor's office, hoping to catch a break. Murray was not a stranger to the world of public service, having spent time in the governor's office, but this was his first time in a public speaking event.

是谁的主意

Antonio Villaraigosa: The Democrat from Los Angeles, wanted to present a serious challenge to the incumbent Republican, and he had been working on his campaign for months. Murray, on the other hand, was a relative newcomer to the political scene.

The idea for the speech came to Murray during a meeting with his friends in the governor's office. They had been discussing the success of the incumbent, and Murray thought it was time to step up and challenge him.

The capitol was packed with people, and Murray stood nervously at the podium. He started with a few words of introduction, then launched into his speech.

"The people of this state deserve better. We need a governor who will work for them, not just the wealthy few. It's time for change."

As Murray delivered his speech, the crowd behind him began to cheer and applaud. Murray felt a surge of energy, and he continued speaking, addressing issues like education, healthcare, and the environment.

Murray's speech was well-received, and he received a standing ovation at the end. He was quickly approached by reporters and politicians, and his name began to circulate as a possible candidate for the upcoming election.

THE IGLOO PEOPLE

CHAP...
SECRET MEMO

After SB 332 passed the Senate, the Grocery Manufacturers of America hoped to kill the measure in the Assembly. But supporters of the bill obtained a copy of the GMA's lobbying plan and leaked it to the media to make it harder for Gov. Gray Davis and others to sign on to the grocery manufacturers' strategy. This is the first page of a six-page memo.

The GMA planned to pay a public-relations firm up to $100,000 to advertise and in a public-relations firm to tell reporters that the recycling bill would be a burden on consumers.

The GMA planned to pay a public-relations firm up to $100,000 to advertise and in a public-relations firm to tell reporters that the recycling bill would be a burden on consumers.

The grocery manufacturers hired former Democratic Rep. Vi Paso to arrange a meeting between Daniss and company executives. Paso was close to Davis and set up the meeting with the governor's office.

The GMA planned to pay a public-relations firm up to $100,000 to advertise and in a public-relations firm to tell reporters that the recycling bill would be a burden on consumers.

The GMA planned to pay a public-relations firm up to $100,000 to advertise and in a public-relations firm to tell reporters that the recycling bill would be a burden on consumers.
The Capitol, August 1999.

McGrady was in a foul mood. The sun was setting behind a cloud bank just off the horizon, and the glow of the setting sun was reflecting off the Capitol dome. He was in a bad mood, and his secretary knew it. He had just stormed out of his office, slamming the door behind him. His face was red and his voice was loud.

"I've had it with these damn legislators," he exclaimed. "They're all just a bunch of lazy bums, and they don't care about the people they're supposed to represent."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm tired of hearing about all these problems and issues," he continued. "We need to get something done, and we need to do it now."

The sun was setting behind the Capitol, and the sky was painted with hues of orange and pink. McGrady walked out onto the balcony of his office, clearing his throat and trying to find the words to express his frustrations.

"I'm ti...