Suspicious Activity Reporting

The New Jersey Office of Homeland Security and Preparedness (NJOHSP) encourages law enforcement, first responders, and our private and public sector partners to report suspicious activity. The “See Something, Say Something” campaign benefits families, friends, and neighbors by bringing suspicious behavior to the attention of law enforcement. Reporting suspicious behavior could potentially stop the next terrorist incident. Even if you think your observation is not important, it may be a piece of a larger puzzle.

Law Enforcement Corner

New Jersey’s law enforcement community is a top force multiplier in the fight against terrorism. Case studies of terrorist attempts or successful attacks have shown that the attackers live within our communities and have prior contact with local law enforcement not only during the planning stages, but also during the execution phase or immediately after.

Public Engagement

Suspicious activity reports have led to investigations that thwarted several terrorist plots in the tristate area. Read the New Jersey Suspicious Activity Reporting Success Stories to learn how these reports helped detect and deter possible attacks.

Information Sharing

NJSARS shares suspicious activity information to law enforcement partners throughout the State. NJSARS is also linked to the FBI’s national SAR system known as eGuardian, which partners with the Nationwide SAR Initiative (NSI) to form a single repository accessible to thousands of law enforcement personnel and analysts nationwide.
