Margaret Drake Elliott 1904-1999

In 1999 Margaret was inducted into the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame. She was epitomized by the term "Superwomen". She had been a writer, poet, herbalist, biologist, botanist, teacher, lecturer, and leader and organizer. She was a long-standing journalist with the Muskegon Chronicle.

She was one of the first outdoor writers in the U.S. and helped educate readers for sixty-two years about the natural world and gave a greater appreciation for all living things.

Margaret was an officer of the Michigan Audubon Society, a member of the Muskegon County Museum. She was the first woman to become a member of the Muskegon Conservation Club.
