

Dillinger was removed to the Alexian Brothers Hospital, at which place he arrived at 10:35 P. M., where he was pronounced dead. Subsequent thereto the body of Dillinger was taken to the County Morgue.

An examination of the body disclosed two fresh wounds on his chest, one of which was located just below his heart. A fresh bullet wound also appeared to have been caused by a bullet entering the rear of the skull and emerging from the lower portion of the right eye above the cheek bone. Complete details concerning the location of the bullet wounds are being obtained from Frank J. Walsh, Coroner, Cook County, Chicago, Illinois, and same will be forwarded to the Division at the earliest possible date.

At the time of his death Dillinger was wearing the following clothes:

1 pair white buckskin Nunnbush shoes, size 9-D, manufacturer's number 369...105721.

1 pair black socks; no manufacturer's name.

1 pair red Paris garters.

1 pair shorts (Hanes), white in color, with blue stripes, size 34, bearing manufacturer's identifying number 186A-350SE-34.

1 pair gray pants containing laundry mark in pocket, No. 355 (40).

1 black belt with silver buckle - no monogram.

1 white broadcloth shirt, Kenilworth brand.

1 red printed necktie, bearing tag of Paul Boldt & Sons, 2724 North Clark Street, Chicago, Illinois.

In addition to the clothing which he was wearing, Dillinger was in possession of the following:

1 gold ring with ruby set, containing the following inscription on the inside of the ring: "With all my love, Polly".