Company Overview	SiteZeus offers a data-driven analytics platform for retail site selection. The platform relies on input data from the customer’s existing retail locations to provide true predictive analytics.
Product/Service Description	Analytics tools for retail site selection are not new. SiteZeus however, is upping the ante in a number of ways. First, it aims to be a predictive platform: users supply data on the performance of their existing sites and SiteZeus finds patterns and can pinpoint other locations with high probability of success using innovative heatmaps. SiteZeus also leverages Big Data practices to bring in demographic, psychographic and transactional data from a variety of sources such as Nielsen, Acxiom, credit card data, climate data, point of interest data – right down to such small but critical details as parking lot access. SiteZeus even factors in the presence of nearby competitors to its overall assessment. The business model of SiteZeus is innovative as well. It charges a variable success fee to users: $1 per square foot for the site ultimately selected. In addition, in a somewhat risky move, the fee is waived if you use a commercial brokerage services operated by the company. Keeping the two services at arms-length is critical, but SiteZeus appears to understand this right out of the gate. While a new venture, SiteZeus has already back-tested its recommendations and found strong evidence for the quality of its recommendations.
