TELLING YOUR STORY WITH JESUS AS THE HERO

Telling Your Story With Jesus As The Hero

The story of God is the story of everything, which includes you and I. We each have a story, and our small story has a place in the greater story of God. Using this resource, you can find and share how your personal story fits into God's greater story.

The following outline uses the same structure as the Creation To Restoration story. Use this to share your story with Jesus as the hero!

Creation

In this part of your story, you will talk about your early life, your origin, and some of the fundamental influences in your life.

1. Where are you from?
2. What was happening in your family at the time you were born?
3. What was your family like?
4. Early in life, what or who were some of your biggest influences?
5. What did you believe about God?

Brokenness

In this part of your story, you will discuss how you begin to see brokenness in your world and in yourself. You'll talk about some painful moments from your past that have shaped you into who you were and who you are today.

1. What were some of your most painful experiences growing up?
2. What things in your life were broken? Relationships? Family? Health? Your personal behavior?
3. Who was to blame for the brokenness?
4. What things did you do to try and fix the brokenness?

Redemption

Here you will talk about how Jesus rescued you from brokenness (and how he is still redeeming brokenness in you currently).

1. How did you come to know about Jesus?
2. How did Jesus fix brokenness in your life that other things or people couldn't?
3. In what areas is Jesus still fixing brokenness in your life today?

Restoration

Finally, shift the focus to today-into-the-future.

1. What things in your life are you looking forward to Jesus fixing and restoring?
2. How is your life coming into alignment with the identity and purpose that God gave people in the original creation?
3. What part of the restored world are you most looking forward to?
