Renting close to UConn?
Be prepared to pay

Luke Hajdasz
STAFF WRITER

University of Connecticut students who rent within one mile of campus pay an average of $1,046 more per month than the average Storrs rent, a recent report said. According to rentcafe.com, the average rent within one mile of the UConn Storrs campus is $2,013 per month, compared to the $967 per month average in Storrs. Rent within two miles of campus is $1,849 per month on average. This is $147 less than the one-mile average and $97 more than the average for Storrs.

The cheapest rent option in one of the most popular off-campus housing spots near UConn, the Oaks off-campus Square, has a studio apartment listed at $1,385. This is $528 less than the average one-mile average within one mile of campus.

A one-bedroom, one-bathroom room in the Oaks at $1,454 per month at the Oaks, $244 less than the one-mile average. This is one of the “middle” prices for a customer of the Oaks.

Rent within one mile of the University of Illinois Urbana Champaign, Illinois was the cheapest in the nation at $670 per month, the report said. This was $1,397 cheaper than the average for Chicago.

The report also noted high rent rates at elite universities across the nation, too. Rent within one mile of Columbia University in New York is $4,387 per month, the report said. This is, however, on track with the rest of New York rent, coming in only $86 more than the average Manhattan rent of $4,301 per month.

Joshua Oculam
STAFF WRITER

The University of Connecticut’s Whitney Dining Hall will reopen Monday morning after renovations to its interior and menu. Improvements will be done this week to make sure Whitney is openable,” Dining Services Executive Director Dennis Pierce said. “There are a few last minute things that need to do this. Pierce said not all of the dining hall will be open until midnight, as more work is needed on the cafe, a dining room in the back that will have a coffee station and seating. “The cafe will continue to be worked on until next week, but it will not delay the opening,” Pierce said.

The cafe is now a place where students can not only eat but hang out throughout the day, Pierce said. The cafe will continue to be a hangout through the day, Pierce said.

Keely Greiner
CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT

Members of the University of Connecticut community worried about cardiac arrest can rest easy now that UConn has been designated a HEARTSafe campus.

Thanks to 2019 UConn grad Justin Pedneault, all UConn campuses, including the School of Law, are now HEARTSafe, a distinction granted by the American Heart Association and the Connecticut Department of Public Health Office of Emergency Medical Services (OEMS).

The goal of a HEARTSafe designation is to improve survival chances for anyone who suffers a sudden cardiac arrest, according to UConn Today. It involves installing Automatic External Defibrillators (AEDs) and training community members in CPR. The designation is usually reserved for towns, municipalities and businesses, but UConn is the first institute of higher education in the state to earn it.

The initiative started somewhat by accident, Pedneault said. He originally intended only to make the UConn School of Nursing a HEARTSafe workplace, but after learning there was no HEARTSafe distinction for colleges in Connecticut, Pedneault proposed that the rest of UConn earn the distinction as well.

See HEARTSAFE, p.2

What’s inside?

Trump manipulates me into
Greenland aspirations

Grace Granahan
@gracebananer

The fact that the Uconn husky’s name is Jonathan makes me laugh so hard. Of all the names in the world they chose Jonathan.

Huskies grind out win over Wagner

Daily

Vaccinating in Italy for Eight Weeks

Daily

big pants little shirt

@redsunshine

The new UConn gym is actually literally insane

Tweets of the Day

Friday, August 30, 2019

Storrs average: $1850/mo.

Within 1 mile:
$2013/mo.

Within 2 miles:
$1946/mo.

Within 3 miles:
$2194/mo.

Rent within one mile of the University of Connecticut campus as of August 17, 2019. According to rentcafe.com’s goal is to “con- arent within two miles of campus. Rent within one mile of the University of Illinois Urbana Champaign, Illinois was the cheapest in the nation at $670 per month, the report said. This was $1,397 cheaper than the average for Chicago.

The report also noted high rent rates at elite universities across the nation, too. Rent within one mile of Columbia University in New York is $4,387 per month, the report said. This is, however, on track with the rest of New York rent, coming in only $86 more than the average Manhattan rent of $4,301 per month.

Joshua Oculam
STAFF WRITER

The University of Connecticut’s Whitney Dining Hall will reopen Monday morning after renovations to its interior and menu. Improvements will be done this week to make sure Whitney is openable,” Dining Services Executive Director Dennis Pierce said. “There are a few last minute things that need to do this. Pierce said not all of the dining hall will be open until midnight, as more work is needed on the cafe, a dining room in the back that will have a coffee station and seating. “The cafe will continue to be worked on until next week, but it will not delay the opening,” Pierce said.

The cafe is now a place where students can not only eat but hang out throughout the day, Pierce said. The cafe will continue to be a hangout through the day, Pierce said.

Keely Greiner
CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT

Members of the University of Connecticut community worried about cardiac arrest can rest easy now that UConn has been designated a HEARTSafe campus.

Thanks to 2019 UConn grad Justin Pedneault, all UConn campuses, including the School of Law, are now HEARTSafe, a distinction granted by the American Heart Association and the Connecticut Department of Public Health Office of Emergency Medical Services (OEMS).

The goal of a HEARTSafe designation is to improve survival chances for anyone who suffers a sudden cardiac arrest, according to UConn Today. It involves installing Automatic External Defibrillators (AEDs) and training community members in CPR. The designation is usually reserved for towns, municipalities and businesses, but UConn is the first institute of higher education in the state to earn it.

The initiative started somewhat by accident, Pedneault said. He originally intended only to make the UConn School of Nursing a HEARTSafe workplace, but after learning there was no HEARTSafe distinction for colleges in Connecticut, Pedneault proposed that the rest of UConn earn the distinction as well.

See HEARTSAFE, p.2

What’s inside?

Trump manipulates me into Greenland aspirations

Grace Granahan
@gracebananer

The fact that the Uconn husky’s name is Jonathan makes me laugh so hard. Of all the names in the world they chose Jonathan.

Huskies grind out win over Wagner

Daily

Vaccinating in Italy for Eight Weeks

Daily

big pants little shirt

@redsunshine

The new UConn gym is actually literally insane

Tweets of the Day

Friday, August 30, 2019

Storrs average: $1850/mo.

Within 1 mile:
$2013/mo.

Within 2 miles:
$1946/mo.

Within 3 miles:
$2194/mo.

Rent within one mile of the University of Connecticut campus as of August 17, 2019. According to rentcafe.com’s goal is to “con-
Data show 25% increase in religious exemptions for vaccines

Religious reasons are allowing for more Connecticut students to be exempt from various vaccina-

PHOTOGRAPH BY CODY JACKSON / AP PHOTO

By Julia DeMarkey, Managing Editor

HARTFORD, Conn. — New data released Thursday show more Connecticut students are being exempted from vaccinations for measles, mumps and rubella for religious reasons.

The overall number of religious exemptions in the state climbed by 25 percent, from the

to the year in the pub-lished school year, according to the state’s Department of Public Health. The agency said the increase from a percent of students to a percent represents the largest single yearumi-tions for religious reasons for vac-

The Fulton County School District in Atlanta will spend $5 million to put the cameras in its buildings in an effort to cut down on mass shootings.

Parents, grandparents and the community have not been hurt, but I can’t imagine doing this in the winter," Bassett said.

"We believe that out of deference for the authority of the court, no new data should be released during the pendency of this litigation," the couple said in a written statement. "To do otherwise is to move into the dangerous waters of undermining the separation of powers that is so important to our system of government."

EARTH’S FUTURE IS BEING WRITTEN IN FAST-MELTING GREENLAND

By Philip servo

In August, 2018, photo, Jargun heloabove float away on the sun radii melts near Helheim, Greenland. Scientists say they’re seeing worrying early melting of the ice caps. PHOTOGRAPH BY JESSICA HILL, POSITION/AP PHOTO

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The nonprofit Partnership for Connecticut’s working sessions to be conduct—

In August, 2018, photo, Jargun heloabove float away on the sun radii melts near Helheim, Greenland. Scientists say they’re seeing worrying early melting of the ice caps. PHOTOGRAPH BY JESSICA HILL, POSITION/AP PHOTO

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.

Top lawmakers hold off on non-education panel votes

Connecticut lawmakers appointed a board overreaching a nonprofit dedicated to improving public schools.

A spokesman for Senate Presi—

The nonprofit ... because it was granted an exemption from public information laws.

Policy: Classifieds are non-refundable. Credit will be given if the mistake is made by The Daily Campus. Classification is $2.00 for the first incorrect insertion. Ads will only be posted if the writer provides a telephone number. Names and numbers may be subject to verification. All advertising is subject to acceptance by The Daily Campus. The Campus, which reserves the right to accept any ad at its sole discretion. The Daily Campus does not accept ads of a fraudulent nature.
Trump manipulates media with Greenland aspirations

Carson Swick

Stirring up noise for nearly three years, President Donald Trump has built up a history of making false statements and pursuing hare-brained schemes on the global stage. Recently, Trump’s characterization of Greenland as “an unwanted gift” and his shaky stance on gun control have raised serious questions about his political acumen, foreign policy, and leadership as a whole.

But perhaps no single action taken by Trump has caught the attention of officials abroad like his proposal to buy Greenland from Denmark early last week. For years, Americans may get any idea that is even remotely possible, but the rest of the world might be a bit more cautious. One might even consider the proposal for Greenland as simply a test run for the potential purchase of the Grand Canyon.

The Trump administration is already involved in climate negotiations and has committed to the Paris Agreement. The purchase of Greenland would signal the U.S.’s commitment to the cause of climate change, and it might also be used as a bargaining chip in discussions with Denmark.

This wisdom is deeply flawed and rests on a one-dimensional world view. For example, Trump’s view of socioeconomic disparities and the environment is shortsighted, which we should understand and question. The purchase of Greenland occurs precisely when the nation is experiencing economic stagnation and social distancing is more crucial than ever. The purchase of Greenland could have the same consequences as the purchase of the Grand Canyon.

Community ownership of land is inevitable. A community-centric development is the only option getting out of the current economic crisis. The problem is the design of the community. Of course, people voted on it, so no one can be too upset about their choice not being made, but the cutoff Husky feels just a little bit like a high school I.D.

We can breathe a sigh of relief that it happens to be the last two decades, Chinatown has seen a significant increase in property prices due to gentrification. These communities can push back against the flow of capital and resist gentrification.

As you, at least in the eye of UConn, have experienced, there is a finite amount of coverage one individual topic can receive. The president’s “buy Greenland” proposal was the perfect distraction during the mass shootings in El Paso, Texas, and Dayton, Ohio. In the days following these events, the American media followed Trump’s order to buy Greenland served as the distraction to Trump’s visit.

Even in a digital age when nothing seeks to stay in the news for very long, there is a finite amount of coverage one individual topic can receive. The president’s “buy Greenland” proposal was the perfect distraction during the mass shootings in El Paso, Texas, and Dayton, Ohio. In the days following these events, the American media followed Trump’s order to buy Greenland served as the distraction to Trump’s visit.

The American media followed Trump’s order to buy Greenland served as the distraction to Trump’s visit.

Community ownership of land is inevitable. A community-centric development is the only option getting out of the current economic crisis. The problem is the design of the community. Of course, people voted on it, so no one can be too upset about their choice not being made, but the cutoff Husky feels just a little bit like a high school I.D.

We can breathe a sigh of relief that it happens to be the last two decades, Chinatown has seen a significant increase in property prices due to gentrification. These communities can push back against the flow of capital and resist gentrification.

As you, at least in the eye of UConn, have experienced, there is a finite amount of coverage one individual topic can receive. The president’s “buy Greenland” proposal was the perfect distraction during the mass shootings in El Paso, Texas, and Dayton, Ohio. In the days following these events, the American media followed Trump’s order to buy Greenland served as the distraction to Trump’s visit.

Even in a digital age when nothing seeks to stay in the news for very long, there is a finite amount of coverage one individual topic can receive. The president’s “buy Greenland” proposal was the perfect distraction during the mass shootings in El Paso, Texas, and Dayton, Ohio. In the days following these events, the American media followed Trump’s order to buy Greenland served as the distraction to Trump’s visit.

Community ownership of land is inevitable. A community-centric development is the only option getting out of the current economic crisis. The problem is the design of the community. Of course, people voted on it, so no one can be too upset about their choice not being made, but the cutoff Husky feels just a little bit like a high school I.D.

We can breathe a sigh of relief that it happens to be the last two decades, Chinatown has seen a significant increase in property prices due to gentrification. These communities can push back against the flow of capital and resist gentrification.

As you, at least in the eye of UConn, have experienced, there is a finite amount of coverage one individual topic can receive. The president’s “buy Greenland” proposal was the perfect distraction during the mass shootings in El Paso, Texas, and Dayton, Ohio. In the days following these events, the American media followed Trump’s order to buy Greenland served as the distraction to Trump’s visit.

Even in a digital age when nothing seeks to stay in the news for very long, there is a finite amount of coverage one individual topic can receive. The president’s “buy Greenland” proposal was the perfect distraction during the mass shootings in El Paso, Texas, and Dayton, Ohio. In the days following these events, the American media followed Trump’s order to buy Greenland served as the distraction to Trump’s visit.

Community ownership of land is inevitable. A community-centric development is the only option getting out of the current economic crisis. The problem is the design of the community. Of course, people voted on it, so no one can be too upset about their choice not being made, but the cutoff Husky feels just a little bit like a high school I.D.

We can breathe a sigh of relief that it happens to be the last two decades, Chinatown has seen a significant increase in property prices due to gentrification. These communities can push back against the flow of capital and resist gentrification.
My summers are a bit different than the average East Coast girl. I was born in Italy, lived there until the age of five and have a father who does not have his green card (33 years of marriage to an American). Due to these circumstances, every June my family and I embark on a long journey to the southern tip of Italy, specifically the island of Capri.

Let me start by saying Italy is one of the most beautiful places on Earth. The ancient villages with traditional architecture, the delicious handmade pastas and the breathtaking art in museums are all gems that Italy has to offer. You can choose to learn about the history and go to the opera house or simply swim in crystal-clear water and eat pasta every day. The absolute best of both worlds.

This year I was fortunate enough to have my roommate Yasmine visit for one week and my boyfriend for another 10 days. It was amazing to be able to show the place I call home to people who are my home back in Storrs. I was determined to explore everything the island has to offer, so I created a list of activities we absolutely had to accomplish.

On her first day we went to Amalfi, a town located on the higher end of the island, to see the amazing Amalfi Coast. We were able to see neighboring islands, such as Ischia, Sorrento and Procida. At night we went for drinks at a local beach that had live music and a gorgeous view of the sunset. While every day was spectacular, my favorite was when we went boating.

There’s something different about seeing an island from the sea rather than by foot. We were able to see the cliffs that the sea rather than by foot. We were able to see the cliffs that were able to see the cliffs that were.

Like an urban legend, talks of a third installment in the beloved movie series “The Princess Diaries” began circulating around the internet for years with no hope of anything but rumors. The movie had been reported to be “under works” in 2017, according to an article by E! News. But with actress Anne Hathaway confirming the existence of a script in January of this year and some more details slowly being released about the movie, there’s still hope yet. Here’s every tidbit of information and update has to offer. The best movie has to offer.

“Here’s what we know about our return to Genovia. There is a script for the third movie,” Hathaway said in January during an episode of “Watch What Happens Live.” She plays Princess (now Queen) Mia Thermopolis of Genovia, a small fictional country in Europe. “I want to do it. Julie [Andrews] wants to do it. Drew Martin [Cyrus] wants our producer, wants to do it. We all really want it to happen. It’s just we don’t want to unless it’s perfect because it’s just as much as you guys love it.”

A release date is still up in the air, but during the premiere of Hathaway’s new film, “The Hustle,” she teased that “The movie was in Disney’s hands.” It’s good to hear some key players are back for the movie, especially Julie Andrews, who plays Mia’s grandmother, i.e. the queen of Genovia. Luckily some more cast members have also expressed interest. Mandy Moore would want her high school bully character, Lana Thomas, to have a humbling experience and would “be down” to be in the next movie, according to People magazine. The actor for her favorite almost-king of Genovia, Chris Pine, had expressed excitement to return as Nicholas Devereaux.

The late director Garry Marshall, who had directed the first two movies, had originally expressed his desire for the script of the third movie to take place in Manhattan. Although this very possibly could have changed, it was an exciting theory to consider.

Pine had expressed interest in seeing Mia serve as princess in the third movie, and the complications that would surely arise there. Others wonder if Nicholas will be serving his country, or if their romance will continue to play out across all three installments. Either way we’ll wait patiently for any tidbits of information that will be ready to pull out our tear-filled popcorn bags when it hopefully inevitably comes to theaters. Long live the queen of Genovia!
The 1975 posted the lyrics of their song “People” to their Instagram.

British pop rock band The 1975 has gone through quite an evolution, from “Chocolat” to “Love me” to their most recent album, “A Brief Inquiry Into Online Relationships.” Scott's high school guidance counselor told him that he's his best album yet.

Scott's mother states, “The economy’s a goner, a republic’s a banana, ignore it if you wanna.” The economy’s a goner, a republic’s a banana, ignore it if you wanna. — Travis Scott by The 1975

“People” is filled with angst and an edgy guitar riff that repeats throughout the song. It's shocking when you first hear it because it's nothing they've done before. You hear Scott scream in eminence of the vocals, which is something they’ve never done with their music style.

Once you listen to “People” without that expectation of it being something like most pop grunge, the song is really quite catchy. It’s a smart way to grab people’s attention and get them into this new genre. The song’s not just a radio hit; it’s a reminder of sorts to2 things like Nirvana and Pearl Jam.

The lyrics of “People” are vocal about their political views, but this song’s lyrics in particular make a political statement. In the beginning of each verse Healy says “wake up, wake up,” as a wake up call to the general public to stop sitting around and to take political action. “We are appalling and we need to stop just sitting in bed and I know it sounds boring and we like things that are funny,” Healy said in the interview.

“But we need to get this in our f*cking heads!”

The economy’s a goner, a republic’s a banana, ignore it if you wanna. — Travis Scott by The 1975

Those who have never seen a Travis Scott concert, then this is the perfect opportunity to see him live in action. Well, through your TV or computer screen. Netflix released “Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly” on Aug. 3, and if you are not a devoted Travis Scott fan, this release was a surprise.

Travis Scott’s latest solo album “Astroworld” earned the number one spot on The Billboard chart in 2018. The documentary started with a montage of fans screaming before and after his concert. They praised Scott, stating he’s the greatest act of all time and some even cried when his set was over.

The introduction also took a personal route, showing Scott’s arrest after one of his concerts back in 2017 where concertgoers jumped barricades. The arrest made headlines after Scott’s concert with Kylie Jenner was delayed.

The Texan native started making music in high school. The documentary’s frontman Matty Healy where discusses the upcoming album as a political statement. “People” is a wake up call to the general public to stop sitting around and to take political action. ‘“We are appalling and we need to stop just sitting in bed and I know it sounds boring and we like things that are funny,” Healy said in the interview. ‘“But we need to get this in our fking heads!”

Travis’s vocals are grungy and angry about the song being hip-hop to the rest of the world. Scott is an angel and strung out and ignores it. The documentary follows Scott’s career and shows that he’s been a part of the United Kingdom and the United States. It’s an empowering song when you look at the lyrics and melodies as a whole.

‘Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly’ documentary takes viewers into ‘Astroworld’ album

Cindy Lam

This documentary takes viewers behind the scenes of Travis Scott’s preparation for his tour. It highlights his high points and moments and never-before-seen footage of some of the most iconic moments of the artist's best year. If you have never seen a Travis Scott concert, then this is the perfect opportunity to see him live in action. Well, through your TV or computer screen. Netflix released “Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly” on Aug. 3, and if you are not a devoted Travis Scott fan, this release was a surprise.

Travis Scott's latest solo album “Astroworld” earned the number one spot on The Billboard chart in 2018. The documentary started with a montage of fans screaming before and after his concert. They praised Scott, stating he’s the greatest act of all time and some even cried when his set was over.

The introduction also took a personal route, showing Scott’s arrest after one of his concerts back in 2017 where concertgoers jumped barricades. The arrest made headlines after Scott’s concert with Kylie Jenner was delayed.

The Texan native started making music in high school. The documentary’s frontman Matty Healy where discusses the upcoming album as a political statement. “People” is a wake up call to the general public to stop sitting around and to take political action. ‘“We are appalling and we need to stop just sitting in bed and I know it sounds boring and we like things that are funny,” Healy said in the interview. ‘“But we need to get this in our fking heads!”

Travis’s vocals are grungy and angry about the song being hip-hop to the rest of the world. Scott is an angel and strung out and ignores it. The documentary follows Scott’s career and shows that he’s been a part of the United Kingdom and the United States. It’s an empowering song when you look at the lyrics and melodies as a whole.

Jimmy Lam

This documentary takes viewers behind the scenes of Travis Scott’s preparation for his tour. It highlights his high points and moments and never-before-seen footage of some of the most iconic moments of the artist's best year. If you have never seen a Travis Scott concert, then this is the perfect opportunity to see him live in action. Well, through your TV or computer screen. Netflix released “Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly” on Aug. 3, and if you are not a devoted Travis Scott fan, this release was a surprise.

Travis Scott’s latest solo album “Astroworld” earned the number one spot on The Billboard chart in 2018. The documentary started with a montage of fans screaming before and after his concert. They praised Scott, stating he’s the greatest act of all time and some even cried when his set was over.

The introduction also took a personal route, showing Scott’s arrest after one of his concerts back in 2017 where concertgoers jumped barricades. The arrest made headlines after Scott’s concert with Kylie Jenner was delayed.

The Texan native started making music in high school. The documentary’s frontman Matty Healy where discusses the upcoming album as a political statement. “People” is a wake up call to the general public to stop sitting around and to take political action. ‘“We are appalling and we need to stop just sitting in bed and I know it sounds boring and we like things that are funny,” Healy said in the interview. ‘“But we need to get this in our fking heads!”

Travis’s vocals are grungy and angry about the song being hip-hop to the rest of the world. Scott is an angel and strung out and ignores it. The documentary follows Scott’s career and shows that he’s been a part of the United Kingdom and the United States. It’s an empowering song when you look at the lyrics and melodies as a whole.

‘Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly’ documentary takes viewers into ‘Astroworld’ album

Cindy Lam

This documentary takes viewers behind the scenes of Travis Scott’s preparation for his tour. It highlights his high points and moments and never-before-seen footage of some of the most iconic moments of the artist's best year. If you have never seen a Travis Scott concert, then this is the perfect opportunity to see him live in action. Well, through your TV or computer screen. Netflix released “Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly” on Aug. 3, and if you are not a devoted Travis Scott fan, this release was a surprise.

Travis Scott’s latest solo album “Astroworld” earned the number one spot on The Billboard chart in 2018. The documentary started with a montage of fans screaming before and after his concert. They praised Scott, stating he’s the greatest act of all time and some even cried when his set was over.

The introduction also took a personal route, showing Scott’s arrest after one of his concerts back in 2017 where concertgoers jumped barricades. The arrest made headlines after Scott’s concert with Kylie Jenner was delayed.

The Texan native started making music in high school. The documentary’s frontman Matty Healy where discusses the upcoming album as a political statement. “People” is a wake up call to the general public to stop sitting around and to take political action. ‘“We are appalling and we need to stop just sitting in bed and I know it sounds boring and we like things that are funny,” Healy said in the interview. ‘“But we need to get this in our fking heads!”

Travis’s vocals are grungy and angry about the song being hip-hop to the rest of the world. Scott is an angel and strung out and ignores it. The documentary follows Scott’s career and shows that he’s been a part of the United Kingdom and the United States. It’s an empowering song when you look at the lyrics and melodies as a whole.

‘Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly’ documentary takes viewers into ‘Astroworld’ album

Cindy Lam

This documentary takes viewers behind the scenes of Travis Scott’s preparation for his tour. It highlights his high points and moments and never-before-seen footage of some of the most iconic moments of the artist's best year. If you have never seen a Travis Scott concert, then this is the perfect opportunity to see him live in action. Well, through your TV or computer screen. Netflix released “Travis Scott: Look Mom I Can Fly” on Aug. 3, and if you are not a devoted Travis Scott fan, this release was a surprise.

Travis Scott’s latest solo album “Astroworld” earned the number one spot on The Billboard chart in 2018. The documentary started with a montage of fans screaming before and after his concert. They praised Scott, stating he’s the greatest act of all time and some even cried when his set was over.

The introduction also took a personal route, showing Scott’s arrest after one of his concerts back in 2017 where concertgoers jumped barricades. The arrest made headlines after Scott’s concert with Kylie Jenner was delayed.

The Texan native started making music in high school. The documentary’s frontman Matty Healy where discusses the upcoming album as a political statement. “People” is a wake up call to the general public to stop sitting around and to take political action. ‘“We are appalling and we need to stop just sitting in bed and I know it sounds boring and we like things that are funny,” Healy said in the interview. ‘“But we need to get this in our fking heads!”

Travis’s vocals are grungy and angry about the song being hip-hop to the rest of the world. Scott is an angel and strung out and ignores it. The documentary follows Scott’s career and shows that he’s been a part of the United Kingdom and the United States. It’s an empowering song when you look at the lyrics and melodies as a whole.
Life

‘Ready or Not’ gives audiences what it promises

Calista Giroux
CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT

Last week the psychological horror film “Ready or Not” was released in theaters. Though it was released alongside a few highly-anticipated, family-friendly films, the movie was greatly anticipated when I went to see the film, the theater’s reception of the film was positive.

“Ready or Not” tells the story of a bride, Grace, as she prepares to marry into an extremely wealthy family. Everything seems to be going well until her new husband, Alex, tells Grace that she must play a board game on their wedding night in order to be truly accepted into the family. Alex’s family made their money by creating board games and they explain to Grace that they owe all of their wealth to a man named Mr. Le Bail who gave them a box that produces a card with a game every new member of the family is required to play. Grace is given the card of hide and seek and jokingly finds her hiding spot, only to realize that this deadly game is no joke.

This film is a rollercoaster from start to finish as Grace does her best to survive the night in her new in-laws’ home. Samara Weaving, who plays Grace, does an excellent job as the lead role. Her gritty performance portrays Grace’s struggle to survive well. Though the entire cast which created their own form of unique comedy which added to the overall dark comedy. The humor in the film was not too distracting from the other, very serious moments of the film, and if there was humor during a serious scene it was used tastefully and not overdone.

The overall plot of “Ready or Not” gave the audience exactly what the trailers said it would. There weren’t really any secret sub-plots or shocking twists, yet the film was able to keep audiences on their toes until the end. It balanced all the right ingredients from the horror, thriller and comedy genres.

There were a few aspects of the film I was not entirely fond of, one of which being the very ending of the film. Without spoiling the finale, I will say the conclusion of the story felt a little too fantastical and slightly predictable. This ending was disappointing compared to the pace and story of the rest of the film and had so much potential to be as good as the rest of the film had been thus far.

A unique turn on the worst-case-scenario of meeting the in-laws, “Ready or Not” delivered right up until the end. Though it finished on the weak side, it was worth a watch for any horror or thriller movie fan.

Rating: 4 out of 5
Fixing zoning codes to promote small-scale development allows community residents to become active participants in the real estate market and build community wealth. Most zoning codes tip the scales in favor of large developers, by implementing onerous regulations which require time, money and expertise to overcome. Moderate-income, small-scale developers benefit from easing certain regulations, like minimum lot sizes, bans on accessory dwelling units and parking minimums. And these local landlords are more invested in community welfare and less likely to price-gouge than out-of-town investors.

The consequences of urban planning are more visible than almost any other government action. Everything from the width of streets and the size of lawns to the maximum density of apartments is determined by local governments. But too often, local governments embrace top-down policymaking, excluding the residents who will be most affected by their decisions. For instance, it is common practice to sell property on the cheap directly to large developers or banks, rather than giving community members first priority to invest in their own neighborhoods. Democratizing planning decisions will help ensure that cities are protecting neighborhoods, not promoting gentrification.

The final piece of the puzzle is leveling the playing field between tenants and landlords. Strong legal protections from eviction and rent-gouging can stop rapid gentrification in its tracks. Rent control—which caps the profit landlords can extract from tenants—is an extraordinarily successful and powerful protection.

GENTRIFICATION, cont. from p. 4

Fun Fact

A SINGLE STRAND OF SPAGHETTI IS CALLED A “SPAGHETTO.”
Cubs beat Mets 4-1 for sweep

Caratini hits 2 HRs off deGrom, Cubs beat Mets 4-1 for sweep

Ronaldo's Juve wins Atletico rematch in CL group-stage watch

Star power: Osaka wins at U.S. Open as Kaperick, Kobey watch

MONACO (AP) — Missing out on his fourth straight League title in his first season at Juve-mon Beats had it not been for the quar-

flower in the open court, bring Citi Field, and keep Bry-

Els behind 1-2, fouled off two pitches

Caratini homered twice off deGrom, in the NHL. Bryant, who three years ago began kneel-

The league says Thursday

Jon Lester pitched six effective

Like something out of

Lewis Hamilton, who is still recovering from

The crowd of 38,389 fell si-

The victory title in their hands to allen the growth hormone.

The league says Thursday

the opening ceremony empty-handed. So

DeGrom's 9-1 in that span. With the open court, bring Citi Field, and keep Bry-

Cubs: 1B Anthony Rizzo (back

Monday said. "I don't have

The league says Thursday

The victory title in their hands to allen the growth hormone.

The league says Thursday

the opening ceremony empty-handed. So

DeGrom's 9-1 in that span. With the open court, bring Citi Field, and keep Bry-

Cubs: 1B Anthony Rizzo (back

Monday said. "I don't have

257x1433 to 463x1433

NEW YORK (AP) — Naomi

NEW YORK — Cubs beat Mets 4-1 for sweep. Caratini hits 2 HRs off deGrom, Cubs beat Mets 4-1 for sweep.
Men's Soccer: Huskies set to kick season off against Rider

The UConn men's soccer team is ready to kick off its season with a match against Rider University on Friday, Sept. 6 at Morrone Stadium. The Huskies are excited for the season and are looking forward to showcasing their talent against Rider.

A couple of Huskies have high hopes for the upcoming season. "We're going to have a lot of new players," said senior forward Max DeSousa. "We're excited to see how they perform and how the team will gel.

DeSousa is looking forward to the season and believes the team has the potential to be successful. "The team is looking good so far," he said. "We're excited to see what we can do as a team.

The Huskies are looking to build on their success from last season, when they advanced to the NCAA tournament and won a game in the tournament. The team is looking to continue their success with the addition of new players and the return of some experienced players.

The season is looking promising for the Huskies, and they are looking forward to the opportunities that lie ahead.

Huskies pull it off over some scary Staten Islanders

The UConn men's soccer team pulled off an impressive victory against the University of Rhode Island (URI) on Saturday, Sept. 7. The Huskies scored three goals in the first half and held off the Islanders in the second half to win 3-2.

The game was a hard-fought, physical battle, and both teams played well. The Islanders fought hard to get back into the game, but the Huskies were able to hold on for the win.

Defensive stopper Travis Alexander-Stevens cited with the group's mentality. "It's early, we're gonna work some problems out, but I'm excited with the group's mentality. We're gonna show up and play."}

Women's Soccer: Huskies set to kick season off against Rider

The UConn women's soccer team is ready to kick off its season with a match against Rider University on Friday, Sept. 6 at Morrone Stadium. The Huskies are excited for the season and are looking forward to showcasing their talent against Rider.

A couple of Huskies have high hopes for the upcoming season. "We're going to have a lot of new players," said senior forward Max DeSousa. "We're excited to see how they perform and how the team will gel.

DeSousa is looking forward to the season and believes the team has the potential to be successful. "The team is looking good so far," he said. "We're excited to see what we can do as a team.

The Huskies are looking to build on their success from last season, when they advanced to the NCAA tournament and won a game in the tournament. The team is looking to continue their success with the addition of new players and the return of some experienced players.

The season is looking promising for the Huskies, and they are looking forward to the opportunities that lie ahead.

Huskies pull it off over some scary Staten Islanders

The UConn men's soccer team pulled off an impressive victory against the University of Rhode Island (URI) on Saturday, Sept. 7. The Huskies scored three goals in the first half and held off the Islanders in the second half to win 3-2.

The game was a hard-fought, physical battle, and both teams played well. The Islanders fought hard to get back into the game, but the Huskies were able to hold on for the win.

Defensive stopper Travis Alexander-Stevens cited with the group's mentality. "It's early, we're gonna work some problems out, but I'm excited with the group's mentality. We're gonna show up and play."
Kevin Arnold
ASSOCIATE SPORTS EDITOR

The No. 4 ranked UConn field hockey team hosted a visiting team Saturday as the Huskies faced off against the Northeastern University Huskies. The game was filled with Brandy Howes' style of defense and also featured the return of several key players.

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. (AP) — Rookie Jarrett Stidham bol- stered his bid to be Tom Brady’s backup by throwing two touch- downs passes for New England before the Patriots scored on the final play of a 34-0 victory over New York on Thursday night.

The oft-suspended Gordon has been involved in several off-the-field controversies. He was suspended for the entire 2016 season after a drug-related arrest, and he missed two full seasons due to injuries in 2015. Still, Lawrence had his mo- ments. His hands after a bad interception knocked down both Ter- rence Brooks and out of bounds at the Cincinnati 49ers, then Lawrence deflected a ball thrown by Tennessee Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota. Lawrence also had his moments, creating a 2-yard rushing touchdown and a 4-yard pass in the game.

New York Giants quarterback Daniel Jones drops back to pass against the New England Patriots in the first half of an NFL preseason game.

New York Giants quarterback Daniel Jones dropped back to pass against the New England Patriots in the first half of an NFL preseason game.

No. 4 Huskies open 2019 with Stanford Invitational

Pats’ Stidham throws 2 TDs before Giants rally for 31-29 win

Ettiene’s 3 TDS lead No. 1 Connecticut past Georgia Tech, 52-14

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Trit- sta Ettienne ran for a career-high 201 yards and three touch- downs, including one from 90 yards out, and No. 1 Connecticut overpowered Georgia Tech 52-14 Thursday night for an eighth straight victory.

The oft-suspended Gordon has been involved in several off-the-field controversies. He was suspended for the entire 2016 season after a drug-related arrest, and he missed two full seasons due to injuries in 2015. Still, Lawrence had his mo- ments. His hands after a bad interception knocked down both Ter- rence Brooks and out of bounds at the Cincinnati 49ers, then Lawrence deflected a ball thrown by Tennessee Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota. Lawrence also had his moments, creating a 2-yard rushing touchdown and a 4-yard pass in the game.

Pats’ Stidham throws 2 TDs before Giants rally for 31-29 win

Ettiene’s 3 TDS lead No. 1 Connecticut past Georgia Tech, 52-14

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Trit- sta Ettienne ran for a career-high 201 yards and three touch- downs, including one from 90 yards out, and No. 1 Connecticut overpowered Georgia Tech 52-14 Thursday night for an eighth straight victory.

The oft-suspended Gordon has been involved in several off-the-field controversies. He was suspended for the entire 2016 season after a drug-related arrest, and he missed two full seasons due to injuries in 2015. Still, Lawrence had his mo- ments. His hands after a bad interception knocked down both Ter- rence Brooks and out of bounds at the Cincinnati 49ers, then Lawrence deflected a ball thrown by Tennessee Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota. Lawrence also had his moments, creating a 2-yard rushing touchdown and a 4-yard pass in the game.

Pats’ Stidham throws 2 TDs before Giants rally for 31-29 win

Ettienie’s 3 TDS lead No. 1 Connecticut past Georgia Tech, 52-14

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Trit- sta Ettienne ran for a career-high 201 yards and three touch- downs, including one from 90 yards out, and No. 1 Connecticut overpowered Georgia Tech 52-14 Thursday night for an eighth straight victory.

The oft-suspended Gordon has been involved in several off-the-field controversies. He was suspended for the entire 2016 season after a drug-related arrest, and he missed two full seasons due to injuries in 2015. Still, Lawrence had his mo- ments. His hands after a bad interception knocked down both Ter- rence Brooks and out of bounds at the Cincinnati 49ers, then Lawrence deflected a ball thrown by Tennessee Titans quarterback Marcus Mariota. Lawrence also had his moments, creating a 2-yard rushing touchdown and a 4-yard pass in the game.
It wasn’t pretty, but the UConn football team secured a big win Thursday night, beating the Wagner Seahawks 24-21 and picking up their first W since Sept. 16, 2019.

The Huskies established the run game early, as they carried the ball an even 30 times in the first half compared to just 30 pass attempts. Both Kevin Mensah and Art Thompkins had big impacts, contributing to 24 yards of total offense in the first half alone, with 100 coming on the ground.

“We came in and said that’s what we were gonna do, we wanted to run the football,” head coach Randy Edsall said. “We had to run the football because we were limited with some of the things that we could do, but we tried to play to those guys’ strengths... When you have it, you gotta just play to your personnel and take advantage of what you can and find a way to make it all work.”

Mensah finished the game with 34 carries for 145 yards, and Thompkins added another 17 rushes for 38 yards. For Mensah, that was the first time since Akeem Nance in 2015 that a back had over 10 carries in one game. They each reached the end zone only once, as the two of them formed a dynamic duo in the backfield that Wagner was unable to stop.

“Thompkins and Mensah each gave praise to the offensive line as well as each other, talking about how they complement one another in the backfield with their different styles of running.”

“Despite ample opportunity to take advantage of chances, much of the UConn women’s soccer team’s performance came down to one phrase uttered by the NEC coach: ‘Unable to connect.’”

Throughout the game there was a series of potentially threatening attacks that could have led to another UConn DB wrap up a guy or passes flew off the mark. Or passes flew off the mark. Some chances fizzled out 1) fans. These chances fizzled out by the CCSU defense.

“UConn was able to make one or passes flew off the mark. Or passes flew off the mark. Some chances fizzled out by the CCSU defense.”

“We were controlling the game, and then we had some things settle in, but those kids never lost their poise,” Edsall said. “They kept battling and doing the things necessary in order to get a win. I’m really proud of them for that.”

“Mike Beaudry who picked up the o-line did their job, the wide receivers did their job, Art did his job, we all did our jobs together, and I think that’s how we won.”

However, it was quarterback Mike Beaudry who picked up the first touchdowns of the season, scrambling for the corner of the end zone and diving in to put the Huskies up 7-0 with about four and a half minutes left in the first quarter. The score capped off a 14 play, 66 yard drive for the Huskies as they took a lead that they would hold onto for the remainder of the game.

“Despite the fact that we were able to get into Wagner’s backfield at will with out sending extra guys. UConn set the tone with his pass rushing, harassing Wagner’s signal-caller Christian Alexander-Stevens all night and sacking him twice.”

“I worked on a lot of techniques like flipping my hips and using my hands more,” UConn said. “In the weight room with coach [Matt] King, we’ve gotten a lot stronger.”

Women’s Soccer: Huskies tie Blue Devils in double overtime thriller

Women’s Soccer: Huskies tie Blue Devils in double overtime thriller

Women’s Soccer: Huskies tie Blue Devils in double overtime thriller

“In the weight room with coach [Matt] King, we’ve gotten a lot stronger.”

Women’s Soccer: Huskies tie Blue Devils in double overtime thriller

Women’s Soccer: Huskies tie Blue Devils in double overtime thriller

Women’s Soccer: Huskies tie Blue Devils in double overtime thriller