Students on the Stand

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL

A verdict had not been announced at the time of publication.

---

Former UConn employee arrested for threatening to ‘shoot up’ workplace

Luke Hajdasz

Former University of Connecticut purchasing agent Susan Tash was arrested over the summer and charged with disorderly conduct and second-degree threatening after making threatening statements about “shooting up” her workplace.

Tash had been making concerning statements regarding shooting up her workplace, due to recent disciplinary actions against her, an August press release from UConn Police Department said.

“Tash admitted to making such statements, explaining she understands how people could shoot up their workplace. Tash made threatening statements regarding the use of a firearm and other employees she works with.”

Tash’s first arrest, in Hartford, was placed under arrest on Aug. 2, and later resigned from UConn on Aug. 21, after being placed on paid administrative leave on Aug. 12.

Tash’s threatening remarks came after a “fact-finding interview,” which was performed by the Office of Faculty & Staff Labor Relations (OFSLR). In an Aug. 10 letter from OFSLR Director Keith Hvidt to Tash, the original investigation was done under allegations of problematic attendance, tardiness, excessive breaks, and performance issues.

Additionally, Tash违反ed Rule 1 of the General Rules of Conduct for UConn employees, the letter said. Rule 1 is “Falsifying any time card, attendance report, or other University record or giving false information to anyone whose duty it is to make such record,” the letter said.

Tash’s second arrest, in East Hartford, Tash plead not guilty to both charges: Disorderly conduct and second-degree threatening.

Former University of Connecticut purchasing agent Susan Tash was arrested over the summer and charged with disorderly conduct and second-degree threatening after making threatening statements about “shooting up” her workplace. Tash admitted to making such statements, explaining she understands how people could shoot up their workplace. Tash made threatening statements regarding the use of a firearm and other employees she works with. Tash’s first arrest, in Hartford, was placed under arrest on Aug. 2, and later resigned from UConn on Aug. 21, after being placed on paid administrative leave on Aug. 12.

Tash’s threatening remarks came after a “fact-finding interview,” which was performed by the Office of Faculty & Staff Labor Relations (OFSLR). In an Aug. 10 letter from OFSLR Director Keith Hvidt to Tash, the original investigation was done under allegations of problematic attendance, tardiness, excessive breaks, and performance issues. Additionally, Tash violated Rule 1 of the General Rules of Conduct for UConn employees, the letter said. Rule 1 is “Falsifying any time card, attendance report, or other University record or giving false information to anyone whose duty it is to make such record,” the letter said. Tash’s second arrest, in East Hartford,
Notable construction still on campus

Luke Hajdusz

There are currently in construction projects still active at the University of Connecticut, nine of which are at the Storrs campus.

“The most active projects right now are the Athletics District improvements, the Gant Science Complex renovations and planning for the Northside Science Quad, but there are several smaller miscellaneous projects at Storrs and elsewhere.”

Stephanie Reitz

The current projects amount to about $242 million in cost, all of which has been approved by the Board of Trustees.

The Gant Building renovation makes up a bulk of the $242 million, with an estimated total project cost of $89 million, according to the UConn Planning, Design and Construction quarterly report from the second quarter of 2019. This project is in the second phase, and it is expected to be completed in the winter of 2021.

The second most expensive project is the athletic district development, with an estimated total project cost of $84.4 million. The entire project is expected to be completed in November of 2020, with “substantial completion” by January of 2021. Other projects include the Fine Arts renovation (expected completion January of 2020), $4.1 million estimated total cost) and Central Utility Plant and Pumping Project (expected completion April of 2020, $67.4 million estimated total cost) and

The current projects account for roughly 200 undergraduates gaining professional experience. To get involved, attend section meetings on Sunday nights inside The Daily Campus building of experience. To get involved, attend section meetings on Sunday nights inside The Daily Campus building of experience.

Anna Zara Aldrich, Editor-in-Chief
Alex Houshmand, Managing Editor
Julia DeMarkey, Business Manager
Danielle Macuil, Associate Managing Editor
Darren Thorne, Interim Financial Manager
Courtney Gavitt, Associate Digital Editor
Joel Monge, Associate Digital Editor

The Daily Campus welcomes writers and photographers of all backgrounds, interests, majors and levels of experience. To get involved, attend section meetings on Sunday nights inside The Daily Campus building, at the e-mail address listed below:

抄写文章内容于Word中
Among the new arrivals to Storrs this semester is Pastor Gem Gabriel of the Hope Lutheran Church on Dog Lane. Gabriel, originally from a city in India dubbed “the Oxford of South India,” and grew up around Anglican missionaries that were originally brought over by the British. He has spent his life spreading the gospel around Asia but recently became the pastor at Hope.

Pastor Gabriel sees the church as a welcoming community for all students to seek comfort through faith. He hopes to build that community during his tenure as pastor.

“My hope is that most students come and experience this,” Gabriel said. “Maybe one line in a song would be comforting because students are far from home, miss their parents, their favorite food, their favorite hobby. And in a community, we are here to love them, and we are here to encourage them, we are here to be there as an extended family away from their real family. I would like to extend that invitation to every student in UConn.”

“This is consistent with his life-long effort to help people both in and out of the church through his other organization Giant Killer Communication.

“I was reaching out to people helping out people. Not just populating the church but helping people, especially helping out people, helping out people through their favorite bed. So this is far from home, miss their family, they can’t be there during the week and during the weekend, so they just can’t be there during the weekends, so this is far from home, missing family. I believe it,” Gabriel said. “Maybe one line in a song would be comforting because students are far from home, miss their parents, their favorite food, their favorite hobby. And in a community, we are here to love them, and we are here to encourage them, we are here to be there as an extended family away from their real family. I would like to extend that invitation to every student in UConn.”

POLICE OFFICIALS WARN OF FOX ATTACK IN CONNECTICUT

Eastern CT. (AP) — A Rhode Island judge has ordered a woman charged with a state legalizing and launching sports betting, and Twin River Casino had said it was seeking to interfere in an election being held by the FBI.

The Providence Journal reports a woman who police say was involved in an accident that killed a motorcyclist over the weekend in Charlestown, a town on a bridge 20 miles from Providence.

The town’s director of public safety and a motorcycle were involved in the accident Sunday morning in Charlestown, a town on a bridge 20 miles from Providence.

The town’s director of public safety and a motorcycle were involved in the accident Sunday morning in Charlestown, a town on a bridge 20 miles from Providence.

New Haven. — Local animal control officer Robert Yuchniuk says he found the fox on Gem Avenue, not on a road. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick. The fox was not captured because it was sick.
We should recruit UConnPIRG’s successful tactics as we drive ahead

Our future is written in the minds of children. Unfortunately, it is looking like that future will be full of websites YouTube and influence of social media. Recently, Google was fined $170 million over YouTube’s inappropriate data collection from children.

The problem is that children are using YouTube and the internet to promote a political ideology. The system that has emerged is a new one that embraces the idea of political influence.

We should not be reckless, but as more people realize the potential of the internet, they are going to see it as a tool to achieve their goals.

The way to fix this is to make sure that all children are enrolled in the education system. There are two ways to do this: one is to make sure that the education system is better, and the other is to make sure that the education system is more inclusive.
The Involvement Fair encompassed a wide variety of clubs and organizations. Armin Tahmassi Rad and Leiia Santos, both first-semester engineering majors, enjoyed recruiting new members to their club, which is focused on cancer research.

This year, the fair was hosted in the Student Center on the Fairfield Way side of campus. Students were able to visit over 20 different clubs to learn more about their purposes and meet prospective members.

The fair was a huge success for current and prospective club members. "It’s huge. I thought it was going to end right here," Snead said, gesturing to all the tables and people. "I actually discovered a bunch of interesting clubs. I really liked the Outing Club, so I signed up for that."

Not only was the fair a success for current and prospective club members, but it was also a success for current and prospective club members. "We’re getting a lot of interested new faces," Metivier said. "Just because the Physics Club is so limited to our own department, the Involvement Fair just gets so much more exposure."

"W e came together and combined our skill sets and knowledge to develop this technology that can grow a patient’s own cancer cells and screen them against chemotherapy drugs."

"We came together and combined our skill sets and knowledge to develop this technology that can grow a patient’s own cancer cells and screen them against chemotherapy drugs."

"W e came together and combined our skill sets and knowledge to develop this technology that can grow a patient’s own cancer cells and screen them against chemotherapy drugs."
ARIA GRANDE ACCUSES FOREVER 21 OF STEALING HER IMAGE WHILE DESIGNERS ACCUSE HER OF THE SAME

Gladi Suarez
CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT

Ariana Grande is suing Forever 21 for $60 million for allegedly stealing the singer’s likeness for an ad campaign. Grande’s lawyers claim that the company hired a lookalike model and borrowed heavily from “7 Rings” music videos for the campaign.

The concept for the campaign were strikingly similar to the music video in question, with the exact same purple and pink color scheme, as well as the usage of diamonds, glitter and holographic imagery. There was also a “7” in the background of the photos in the exact same unique font and style as the one used for Grande’s music videos.

The campaign advertised multiple pieces that resembled the clothes worn in the “7 Rings,” videos with the most similar pieces being a pom-pom headband draped with rhinestones.

According to the lawsuit, Forever 21 attempted to make an endorsement deal with Grande in December 2018. Grande’s lawyers claim that these instances, as well as the alleged usage of her likeness, was all a part of a ploy to “create the false perception of her endorsement.”

The company recently made a statement saying they cannot comment on the ongoing legal matter but they hope to come to a resolution with the singer and her team.

When the news of the lawsuit broke, dress designer Parrish Moore accused Grande’s team of stealing one of her looks for the “7 Rings” video.

Parrish said on Twitter that she recently met Grande’s costume designer and found out that a dress she wore on “Rupaul’s Drag Race” was used as inspiration for Grande’s costume in the music video. On social media, Parrish said she only spoke out because she thought it was hypocritical for Grande to be suing for others.

These instances are not the first time Grande’s artistic directions have come under fire for copying. When the “7 Rings” music video came out, there were accusations that she stole the cadence of the song from rapper Primos’ song.”

Grande’s stylist Law Roach, who created the mood board, responded to these claims by questioning how he could be appropriating black culture if he is black.

The most popular song of Grande’s new record, “Good News,” which features Young Thug. The song is about trying to find two people needing to fall in love, born to do so, until things fall apart. The song opens with the first single on the record to be promoted, where Malone was still touring his album “Beerbongs & Bentleys.”

Along with the pure authentic rap music, Malones brings in a few collaborations on the album, such as one of the biggest rock stars of our time Osbourne.!

Amongst the features artists include Halsey, Ozzy Osbourne, Young Thug, SZA, Meek Mill, and Lil Baby.

The collaboration that has the most social media buzz is Malone’s song with Osbourne’s “Fell in What You Want,” which also features Travis Scott.

There was a slight controversy because some of Malone’s fans had never heard of Osbourne, who was one of the biggest rock legends, and was known as the lead singer of Black Sabbath. Unfortunately, Malone’s fan base may not be old enough to remember that he is aware of everything Osbourne has accomplished.

Amongst this controversy, many people think Osbourne’s vocals, the way they produce a new artist.

Osbourne, along with all of the other artists who collaborated with Malone brought their own flare to the album and express different sides of Malone that may not have been revealed otherwise. While all of their songs are different, they all pair beautifully with Malone’s vocals.

This album showed a lot of progression in songwriting and production from the album “Stoney.”

POST MALONE MIXES GENRES ON “HOLLYWOOD’S BLEEDING”
Melissa’s Menu

Tacos two ways

This week’s recipe is classic, delicious and better than ordering take-out. Homemade tacos. Tacos are a really simple meal to make but can be packed with so many wonderful flavors. You can keep them really simple or load them up with all your favorite toppings. Either way, they are easy to customize. Below are two recipes. One is packed with tender, flavorful chicken, and the other is a super easy vegetarian taco. Whether it’s Taco Tuesday or any other day of the week, these recipes are sure to be a hit.

Slow-Cooker Chicken Tacos

Ingredients:
- 1 onion, thinly sliced
- 1 cup of corn
- 1 can of diced tomatoes, drained
- 1 large jalapeño, deseeded and diced
- 4 cloves of garlic, minced
- 1 lime, juiced
- 6 boneless and skinless chicken thighs
- 12 corn tortillas
- Guacamole, as desired
- Salsa, as desired
- Shredded cheese, as desired

For taco seasoning:
- 2 teaspoons of cumin
- 2 teaspoons of oregano
- 1 1/2 teaspoons of paprika
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon of black pepper
- Salt, to taste

Directions:
In a small bowl, combine the cumin, oregano, paprika, chili powder, pepper and salt, and stir to combine. Set aside. Place the onion, corn, tomatoes, jalapeño, garlic and lime juice in a large slow cooker. Place the chicken thighs on top of the veggies, and season with half of the taco seasoning. Turn the chicken over, and season with the remaining taco seasoning before mixing the chicken and veggies together until everything is well combined. Cook on a high setting for three hours or a low setting for six hours, until the chicken is cooked through. Remove the chicken and slice into small diced pieces. Then, place them back in the slow cooker. Give the chicken and veggies a good mix and replace the lid. Cook the chicken mixture for another 10 minutes so the flavors can marry. Using tongs or a slotted spoon, place the chicken taco mixture on corn tortillas and top with your choice of toppings.

Chipotle Chickpea Tacos

Ingredients:
- 1 tablespoon of olive oil
- 15 ounces of chickpeas, drained and rinsed
- 2 tablespoons of low sodium soy sauce
- 1 teaspoon of chipotle chili powder
- 1 teaspoon of garlic powder
- Guacamole, as desired
- Shredded cheese, as desired
- Salsa, as desired
- Tortilla, to serve

Directions:
Add olive oil to a pan over medium heat. Once the oil begins to simmer, add chickpeas and cook until slightly golden, stirring occasionally. Add soy sauce, chipotle chili powder and garlic powder to the chickpeas and sauté for three to four more minutes, until golden brown. Serve on warm tortillas with desired taco toppings.
Students climb in the Rec Center. Now, students can orient for top rope to use the other section of the climbing gym.

PHOTO BY CHARLOTTE LAO, PHOTO EDITOR/THE DAILY CAMPUS

IF YOU SNEEZE TOO HARD, YOU COULD FRACTURE A RIB.

WEARING HEADPHONES FOR JUST AN HOUR COULD INCREASE THE BACTERIA IN YOUR EAR BY 700 TIMES.

“Dreamt” is the only English word that ends in the letters “mt.”

A SHARK IS THE ONLY KNOWN FISH THAT CAN BLINK WITH BOTH EYES.

Sudoku

```
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>7</th>
<th>5</th>
<th>4</th>
<th>3</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
```

Crossword

ACROSS
1. For both men and women, as a school
5. seawater, letters
7. dawn’s ship
9. Southwesterly
16. Piece between planet
17. snake, for short
18. having juices
19. In tune
20. One on a dean’s
22. Eclectic musician Brian
24. Put mileage on
25. Wood-shaping tool
26. -relief
29. Imperfection related to an inherited disorder
33. Word after ink or knee
34. Small island
35. Horne of jazz
36. Help for a small climber
39. Electrical unit
40. Civil War sword
41. “Well, start talking”
42. -Caps
43. Agnus
44. “The Third Man” or “Double Indemnity”
48. Service charge
49. “Mr. Blue Sky” rock gp.
50. Many times over
51. Old horse
54. Parliamentary rules violation... or what each circled-letter quartet represents?
57. MD meeting an ambulance
60. Parcel (out)
61. Subtle glow
62. Safari heavyweight
63. Composer Stravinsky
64. Bearded flower
65. Seth who played Wozniak in “Steve Jobs”
66. Feline feet
67. -dish pizza

DOWN
1. Hidden supply
2. Mythological night-sky hunter
3. Christmas drink
4. “I can only ___ much”
5. Piled up
6. Hockey team on the ice, e.g.
7. Not worth ___
8. Way to watch bamboo-munching zoo bears
9. Medal metal
10. Dryer fluff
11. Set a price of
12. French word in bridal bios
13. Call out
21. Prepare to tackle
22. Whirling current
26. U.K. network, with “the”
27. Clearasil target
28. Oater badge shape
29. English derby
30. Swing with willy-nilly
31. Blood of the gods
32. Swing willy-nilly
36. Broadway hit, in slang
37. “__ from Muskogee”: Merle Haggard song
38. Eye rudely
39. Potato chip go-with
40. Scuffle
42. Études, typically
43. Feels otherwise
45. Recent rightist
46. Like pitches that bounce in the dirt
47. Last
48. Like pitches that bounce in the dirt
49. Go wrong
52. Cliffside abode
53. Fully comprehend
54. Corn bread
55. Draped Roman garment
56. Sudden attack
57. Go wrong
58. Letter after pi
59. Project for an archaeologist

DYK?

- Like fingerprints, everyone’s tongue print is different.
- Maine is the only state that has a one-syllable name.
- IF YOU SNEEZE TOO HARD, YOU COULD FRACTURE A RIB.

©2019 Tribune Content Agency, LLC

By Roland Huget 9/10/19

Photo of the Day | Belay is on

Tuesday, September 10, 2019 • DailyCampus.com
BOSTON (AP) — Dave Dombrowski was fired as the Red Sox general manager Sunday night after the team scored eight runs on his first day as their manager. The move came just over two years after he was hired by the team in 2017.

Dombrowski was fired after the Red Sox lost their ninth straight game, falling to 26-35 for the season. The team has underperformed all season long and has struggled to find consistent play from its starting pitchers.

Dombrowski was hired by the Red Sox in 2017 to help turn around a franchise that had been struggling for several years. He was also brought in to deal with the aftermath of the team’s 2018 World Series title, which included the firing of manager John Farrell and the departure of several key players.

Dombrowski’s tenure with the Red Sox was marked by several high-profile departures, including the loss of star pitcher Chris Sale to a season-ending injury and the departure of third baseman Pablo Sandoval. The team also struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski was also criticized for his handling of the team’s payroll, which has been one of the highest in the league. The team’s payroll has been far higher than its revenue, leading to a need for constant financial scrutiny.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.

Dombrowski’s firing comes at a time when the Red Sox are struggling to find consistent play. The team has struggled to find consistent production from its starting pitchers, which has led to a high number of losses. The team has also struggled to find consistent production from its offense, which has led to a high number of losses.
Since her celebrated post-partum return to tennis, Serena Williams has been on a desperate quest to claim Grand Slam No. 24. But, what once seemed to be her calling card, winning slams, has now proved to be virtually impossible.

From 1999 until 2015, Serena went 21-4 in major finals. Contrarily, Williams has managed to make two of the last four major finals, in as many attempts, losing all in straight sets.

One could argue it may be That tirelessly sought 24th Grand Slam might elude her into retirement, even after a giant 23. Besides wishful thinking, we can reflect and enjoy her celebrated past, when two majors in a calendar year was her standard, when there was the 'Serena Slam.' But should any of this come as a surprise? Life's irony works like that, and luck has likewise eluded her when it mattered most.

Let’s go back to 2015, Williams getting the W at the Australian Open, the French Open and the prestigious Wimbledon. What happens when we get to Flushing, New York that August? On the brink of the uncommon Golden Slam? She failed to make the final, getting knocked out in the semis. So close right? The elephant in the room.

Now, there may not be any form of connection here, but hear me out; Serena won Wimbledon back to back in 2015 and 2016, beating Garbine Muguruza and Angelique Kerber respectively. In the year of her absence, it was Muguruza who lifted the Venus Rosewater Dish, besting whom? Serena's own blood, Venus Williams.

I’m not quite finished yet. The subsequent year, Serena returned to the Wimbledon final, her first since being back, with slam 24 waiting for her, but Kerber had a different plan in mind, stopping Serena in straight sets. If there’s no connection in all of that, only a higher power can convince me.

As the curtains come down on this decade of tennis, we are all truly grateful that Serena gave us all of 13 majors, and an Olympic Gold medal. Turning our heads to the new decade, let’s see what Serena has in store for us, starting with the Australian Open. Happy belated birthday Serena. See you in Melbourne.

Nicholas Martin
CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT

Since her celebrated post-partum return to tennis, Serena Williams has been on a desperate quest to claim Grand Slam No. 24. But, what once seemed to be her calling card, winning slams, has now proved to be virtually impossible.

From 1999 until 2015, Serena went 21-4 in major finals. Contrarily, Williams has managed to make two of the last four major finals, in as many attempts, losing all in straight sets.

One could argue it may be a result of the changing of the guard in tennis, coupled with a surge of fresh faces whom have made it trendy to win slams. Serena, at age 38, has defied the passage of time and age, proving she is still able to compete at the same level she could when she won her maiden slam 20 years ago.

If, new seems as though Williams may have hosted her last major trophy at the 2015 Australian, which occurred five weeks into her pregnancy. Failing to rise to the occasion upon her return, it is within reason to believe that mission 24 might just be mission impossible.

That tirelessly sought 24th Grand Slam might elude her into retirement, even after a giant 23.

Besides wishful thinking, can reflect and enjoy her celebrated past, when two majors in a calendar year was her standard, when there was the 'Serena Slam.' But should any of this come as a surprise? Life's irony works like that, and luck has likewise eluded her when it mattered most.

Let’s go back to 2015, Williams getting the W at the Australian Open, the French Open and the prestigious Wimbledon. What happens when we get to Flushing, New York that August? On the brink of the uncommon Golden Slam? She failed to make the final, getting knocked out in the semis. So close right? The elephant in the room.

Now, there may not be any form of connection here, but hear me out; Serena won Wimbledon back to back in 2015 and 2016, beating Garbiñe Muguruza and Angelique Kerber respectively. In the year of her absence, it was Muguruza who lifted the Venus Rosewater Dish, besting whom? Serena’s own blood, Venus Williams.

I’m not quite finished yet. The subsequent year, Serena returned to the Wimbledon final, her first since being back, with slam 24 waiting for her, but Kerber had a different plan in mind, stopping Serena in straight sets. If there’s no connection in all of that, only a higher power can convince me.

As the curtains come down on this decade of tennis, we are all truly grateful that Serena gave us all of 13 majors, and an Olympic Gold medal. Turning our heads to the new decade, let’s see what Serena has in store for us, starting with the Australian Open. Happy belated birthday Serena. See you in Melbourne.
Hey Seanny J: Overreacting to NFL Week One

Sean Janes

Sports Staff Writer

With the first week of professional football in the books, we have quite a bit of reacting to do.

An overabundance of games means that each team will look when the lights come on has finally

When each reaction looks like enough time to make some blanket statements based on this time or so minutes in what felt like 10,000 seconds for the LeAndre talk about football that we’ve seen from each non-star. Here are my three overreactions:

The Bears look far from a

The Bears took the majority of football fans by surprise when they put together a 24-21 win under first-year head coach Matt Nagy, who went on to win both NFL Coach of the Year. The addition of Khalil Mack and their defensive line is expected to pose a threat to the Bears’ offense this year.

The Bears’ defense was dominant in the first game, holding the Packers to 170 total yards and forcing three turnovers. The Bears’ offense, on the other hand, struggled to put up points against a defense that has been one of the league’s best in recent years.

Nagy, who went on to win 2018 NFL Coach of the Year, will have the Bears as a legitimate contender in the NFC North this season.

Overreacting to NFL Week One

Tuesday, September 10, 2019 • Daily Campus.com

River Rivalry. That rivalry has simmered

As training camp is set to

The Devils’ management group under Ray Shero, who has been the team’s general manager since 2012, oversaw a major overhaul of the team’s roster this season.

The Devils’ new look includes the acquisition of center Nico Hischier, who will be the team’s top line center for years to come.

New England Patriots quarterback Tom Brady, right, celebrates his touchdown pass to Phillip Dorsett on Sunday Night Football. The Patriots are (once again) Super Bowl Favorites

With the teams’ summers

The Devils have made significant additions to their roster this season, most notably the acquisition of center Nico Hischier, who will be the team’s top line center for years to come.

The Devils’ top line, consisting of Hischier, Kyle Palmieri, and Kyle Okposo, is expected to be one of the league’s best.

The Devils’ defense is expected to be a strength this season, with the addition of P.K. Subban, who was acquired from the Nashville Predators.

The Devils’ offense is expected to be a area of concern, with the departure of Taylor Hall to the New York Islanders.

The Devils’ special teams have been a strength in recent years, with the addition of hischier, who has earned his spot on the NHL’s first team.

The Devils’ schedule is expected to be challenging, with games against the New York Islanders, New York Rangers, and New York Rangers. However, the Devils are expected to be a competitive team in the Metropolitan Division this season.

New England Patriots quarterback Tom Brady, right, celebrates his touchdown pass to Phillip Dorsett on Sunday Night Football. The Patriots are (once again) Super Bowl Favorites.

This New England defense doesn’t panic. Brady will be able to throw the ball where he wants to, and the Patriots’ defense is expected to be a strength this season.

The Patriots’ defense is expected to be a strength this season, with the addition of DeForest Buckner, who was acquired from the San Francisco 49ers in exchange for a first-round draft pick.

The Patriots’ offense is expected to be one of the league’s best, with the addition of quarterback Josh Jacobson, who was brought in from the New York Giants.

The Patriots’ special teams are expected to be one of the league’s best, with the addition of punter Nick Folk, who was acquired from the New York Giants.

The Patriots’ schedule is expected to be challenging, with games against the Buffalo Bills, New England Patriots, and New England Patriots. However, the Patriots are expected to be a competitive team in the AFC East this season.
Column: How will Antonio Brown affect the Patriots?

Ever since training camp started, Antonio Brown has been at the forefront of NFL officia...