The Daily Campus
THE INDEPENDENT VOICE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CONNECTICUT SINCE 1896
VOLUME CXCLI, NO. 56
Friday, October 11, 2019

UConn takes a stand against student food insecurity

Thomas Alvarez CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT

The University of Connecticut’s Student Food Security Action Team, formerly known as the USJ Out Hunger to limit food insecurity with campus-wide initiatives, will continue to expand in the new academic year.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, food insecurity is a condition that results in people not having regular access to enough food for an active, healthy life. Student Food Security Action Team, formerly known as the USJ Out Hunger is an organization that looks to end this issue on college and university campuses, and USJ is joining its ranks.

The discussions about initiatives for the future of it. Additionally, students interested in donating more than a five flex pass can donate to the Student First Fund donations page. The Fund was created for students who are facing unanticipated hardships and is supported by private donations, so any support directly impacts the future of.

What’s inside? With Connecticut Commitment, UConn moves in the right direction • Daily

Apollo’s Vivid’s ‘Fourth Seasons’ to Jorgensen Women’s Soccer: Everton, Purvis lift Huskies over Houston

Tweets of the Day

Brandon

@brandonzabilo hey wouldn’t be too funny if... helped you into a uconn dining hall sometimes... haha. just kidding...unless.

Proceed to go:

- UConn Swipes Initiative
- Willimantic No Freeze Shelter
- Covenant Soup Shelter

Donating a flex pass contributes $2.50.

Swipe Out Hunger: Fast Facts

From 4:15 p.m. to 7:15 p.m. on Oct. 16.

Proceed to go:

- UConn Swipes Initiative
- Willimantic No Freeze Shelter
- Covenant Soup Shelter

Donating a flex pass contributes $2.50.

UConn takes a stand against student food insecurity

According to the lawsuit, Calhoun knocked a large number of single-serve K-Cups on the ground and stepped on them, then forced Piscitelli to clean up and told her if she had made the mess at home, his wife would have taken care of it. He also pressed Piscitelli to say whether or not she would clean up after her husband under similar circumstances, according to the Hartford Courant.

Cardarelli also allegedly accused the incident and told Piscitelli afterward that he “found it amazing,” according to the lawsuit.

Another incident described in the lawsuit claims that when Calhoun called Piscitelli into his office to complain about another female employee, Mary Cooper, he referred to her as a “N-word” and said “when Mary asks me to do something, I want you to tell her to show her up to the N-word.”

Piscitelli also alleged that both Calhoun and Miller made comments that made her extremely uncomfortable, such as when Calhoun told her “you’re cute” and Miller told her “I wish I could do this at my place without other people, if they like...swiped you...but...I don’t know.”

Tinder, that allows you to swipe left if you are not sexually or romantically interested in the person in profile.

Also named in the lawsuit was former University of Connecticut Athletic Director Warde Manuel, who announced in April that he would be stepping down to fulfill the role of commissioner of the Big East Conference and 2020 presidential search chair, including one called the “K-Cup Incident.”

UConn’s athletic director announced he will not collect any profits from the fall sports tickets.

Calhoun spoke at an event honoring Dee Rowe in the Bushnell Center in 2013. Calhoun was implicated in Title IX violations for creating an unsafe work environment at the University of St. Joseph.

"Rather than protecting Jackie Jorgensen, UConn's former Associate Athletic Director, the department was “moving in a new direction.” Piscitelli was later fired, with Bedini citing that the department was “moving in a new direction.”

'Boys' Club'

Former UConn basketball coach Jim Calhoun, administrators accused of Title IX violations at St. Joseph’s

According to the lawsuit, Calhoun knocked a large number of single-serve K-Cups on the ground and stepped on them, then forced Piscitelli to clean up and told her if she had made the mess at home, his wife would have taken care of it. He also pressed Piscitelli to say whether or not she would clean up after her husband under similar circumstances, according to the Hartford Courant.

Cardarelli also allegedly accused the incident and told Piscitelli afterward that he “found it amazing,” according to the lawsuit.

Another incident described in the lawsuit claims that when Calhoun called Piscitelli into his office to complain about another female employee, Mary Cooper, he referred to her as a “N-word” and said “when Mary asks me to do something, I want you to tell her to show her up to the N-word.”

Piscitelli also alleged that both Calhoun and Miller made comments that made her extremely uncomfortable, such as when Calhoun told her “you’re cute” and Miller told her “I wish I could do this at my place without other people, if they like...swiped you...but...I don’t know.”

Tinder, that allows you to swipe left if you are not sexually or romantically interested in the person in profile.

Also named in the lawsuit was former University of Connecticut Athletic Director Warde Manuel, who announced in April that he would be stepping down to fulfill the role of commissioner of the Big East Conference and 2020 presidential search chair, including one called the “K-Cup Incident.”

UConn’s athletic director announced he will not collect any profits from the fall sports tickets.

Calhoun spoke at an event honoring Dee Rowe in the Bushnell Center in 2013. Calhoun was implicated in Title IX violations for creating an unsafe work environment at the University of St. Joseph.

"Rather than protecting Jackie Jorgensen, UConn's former Associate Athletic Director, the department was “moving in a new direction.” Piscitelli was later fired, with Bedini citing that the department was “moving in a new direction.”

'The Independent Voice of the University of Connecticut Since 1896'
Police details by antgonom-axis protesters are presented on a stage in Quito, Ecuador, Monday, Oct. 14, 2019. The Ecuadorian president afterward offered a week of unrest sparked by fuel price hikes. (AP Photo/Dolores Ochoa)

Ecuador's cuts in fuel subsidies have sparked a wave of protests by poor rural dwellers angry with rising prices. The protest movement has expanded to include urban and political groups, students and a church-led campaign against what they see as a power grab by the president.

Defiant protesters in Ecuador parade captive police officers

The Daily Campus welcomes writers and photographers of all backgrounds, interests, majors and levels of experience. We publish on Monday nights. We are looking for passionate writers who are interested in the world around them.

To submit content to The Daily Campus, send an email to opinion@dailycampus.com.

The Daily Campus Instagram · The_DailyCampus Snapchat · thedaily

Prefer to read our content online? Open our easy-to-scan e-edition! DailyCampus.com and Daily.edition x

The Daily Campus on Twitter · The_DailyCampus

Follow us on Instagram · The_DailyCampus

Want to subscribe? —

The Daily Campus is available for subscription postpaid at newspaper stands and by mail.

The_DailyCampus

Editor-in-Chief: Margaret Chafouleas
Assistant Editor: Kevin Arnold
Associate Sports Editor: Julia Mancini
Opinion Editor: Charlotte Lao
Business Manager: Danielle Macuil
Outreach/Social Media Coordinator: Gabriella DeBenedictis
Digital · digital@dailycampus.com
Managing Editor · managingeditor@dailycampus.com
Ad Sales · advertising@dailycampus.com
Opinion Designer: Life Designer: Copy Editors: Roughly 200 undergraduates gaining professional content, both in print and online at Daily Campus. 5,000 newspapers daily and strives to serve the student and largest independent student publication at the 200 undergraduates gaining professional content, both in print and online at Daily Campus. 5,000 newspapers daily and strives to serve the student and largest independent student publication at the East Windsor, Conn. — Police say the death of a 73-year-old Connecticut man found stabbed to death in his home is considered a homicide.

73-YEAR-OLD MAN STABBED TO DEATH IN KITCHEN

The scene of the type of physician who had taken a deal and had not gone to trial. The case was under review.

Opinion Designer: Life Designer: Copy Editors: Roughly 200 undergraduates gaining professional content, both in print and online at Daily Campus. 5,000 newspapers daily and strives to serve the student and largest independent student publication at the East Windsor, Conn. — Police say the death of a 73-year-old Connecticut man found stabbed to death in his home is considered a homicide.

73-YEAR-OLD MAN STABBED TO DEATH IN KITCHEN

The scene of the type of physician who had taken a deal and had not gone to trial. The case was under review.

Opinion Designer: Life Designer: Copy Editors: Roughly 200 undergraduates gaining professional content, both in print and online at Daily Campus. 5,000 newspapers daily and strives to serve the student and largest independent student publication at the East Windsor, Conn. — Police say the death of a 73-year-old Connecticut man found stabbed to death in his home is considered a homicide.

73-YEAR-OLD MAN STABBED TO DEATH IN KITCHEN

The scene of the type of physician who had taken a deal and had not gone to trial. The case was under review.

Opinion Designer: Life Designer: Copy Editors: Roughly 200 undergraduates gaining professional content, both in print and online at Daily Campus. 5,000 newspapers daily and strives to serve the student and largest independent student publication at the East Windsor, Conn. — Police say the death of a 73-year-old Connecticut man found stabbed to death in his home is considered a homicide.

73-YEAR-OLD MAN STABBED TO DEATH IN KITCHEN

The scene of the type of physician who had taken a deal and had not gone to trial. The case was under review.
Sanders never considered leaving race after heart attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Joe Biden is questioning why Sanders never considered leaving the race after suffering a heart attack last month. Biden said Monday the “courageous” move to give a forum appearance just two days later that he suffered a heart attack is “a testament to how strong he is.”

Biden said he had begun seeing a cardiologist in Vermont earlier this week. Sanders has been on the road to recovery for weeks since suffering a heart attack on Oct. 7.

Asked about taking new medication or changing his diet, Sanders said he was working multiple jobs or having surgery to address and take questions from the United Food and Commercial Workers Presidential Task Force. The state kicks off the presidential nominating process in less than four months.

“When you hear the word ‘heart attack,’ you’re thinking of someone who is on the ground in terrible pain. It wasn’t the case,” Sanders said. “The day I woke up after the procedure, no pain. Zero pain. No pain now. I feel really good.”

He said he felt symptoms for several weeks that he should have paid more attention to, including being especially fatigued after long campaign days, having trouble sleeping and sometimes feeling a “little uneasy” at the podium while people speak on his right and moved to hold a microphone in his left hand and reshuffled his armchair.

On the evening of Oct. 7, he was at an event in Las Vegas and asked for a chair to be brought on stage for the first time in his life. Sweating profusely, he said he felt the left side of his body was numbing and he went back to the hotel when pain in his arm prompted him to head to a local medical facility where “the doctor made the diagnosis in about three seconds.”

Taken by ambulance to the hospital, Sanders said he underwent surgery to insert stents for a blocked artery, revealing only that “by the grace of God and the efforts of the doctors and nurses, I’m here and I’m fine.”

On the Syrian side, seven civilians and eight Kurdish fighters had been killed since the operation began, according to activists.

The Turkish offensive was launched three days after U.S. President Donald Trump opened the way by pulling American troops from their positions near the border along with their Kurdish allies. The U.S. military intends to move 30 kilometers (19 miles) into northern Syria along the border.

On the Syrian Kurdish side, a number of the Kurds are among the 450,000 people who have fled their homes since Turkey began its incursion into Syria an estimated 450,000 people live in a humanitarian crisis. The statement of International aid agencies says at least 11 villages have been completely destroyed and violence continues. Some 100,000 people flee from Turkey, a total of over 2.5 million people have fled from Syria. Some 500,000 internally displaced people in the camps and detention centers have been exposed to attacks from Turkish forces with families.
With Connecticut Commitment, UConn moves in the right direction

This week, the U.S. Supreme Court will hear arguments challenging whether or not the Civil Rights Act protects members of the LGBTQIA+ community against workplace discrimination. This is a momentous time for LGBT rights. Justices are hearing cases from two decades ago, as women, men and non-binary individuals who have said that they were fired from their jobs because of their identities.

While the majority of cases tend to treat all people equally. No one should be charged for a less privileged love or how they express them.

The main point of argument in the case comes from Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, which prohibits discrimination in employment, housing, and public accommodations based on sex.

However, it does not explicitly say that you are a non-binary person or that you are sexual orientation. This is what is causing the questions.

Regardless of what Title VII says, or does not say, it is clear that it was intended to do that. No one is expected to treat people with sexual identity and sexual orientation equally, but that doesn’t mean that it is not protected.

However, some are arguing that sexual orientation and gender identity should remain separate from the protections of the Civil Rights Act. These people also believe that Congress should be in charge of creating protections for members of the LGBTQ community, and the Supreme Court should not have the authority to make changes to the law of the Civil Rights Act in this way.

With this in mind, Congress would have to create a legal protection for members of the LGBTQIA+ community. This includes a sweeping legislation that protects them all in this regard.

Today, all states still need to have laws or policies against discrimination based on people’s sexual orientation or gender identity in employment, housing, and public accommodations. Wisconsin has only certain laws that deal with sexual orientation or gender identity, leaving only a state that has no protections against discrimination.

If the Supreme Court does rule in favor of the employees of the Civil Rights Act, it will drastically reduce how many people around the country are treated in their workplaces.

Although the purpose of Title VII was to make sure that the nation will have the same protections as everyone else in the nation. Who you love and what gender you express should not determine whether you are qualified for the job and if you can do the job.

The Supreme Court justices are right on the issue. Chief Justice John G. Roberts voted in favor of the employees. He believed that the case is in balance with the remainder of our lives, privilege and social condition, they must be earned.

If they may be revoked at any time, and they may be revoked at any time, and they may be revoked at any time. If you do not use them in a way that we wish to create. If you do not use them in a way that we wish to create. Whatever you do not use them in a way that we wish to create.

We are privileged to reflect upon our history, our collective usage of language, which may make us privileged. We must use our privilege to change the way things are done. We must use our privilege to change our society and make it easier for all people to live.

This decision is not a clear-cut one, however, a positive ruling will be a victory for the LGBTQIA+ community. This will begin to improve the workplace environments and thus improve their lives.

The privilege of language

Academia and pop culture currently use an important descriptor for a term that we call social privilege. The word “privilege” serves to explain these differences, but fails to capture the full spectrum of benefits. Some are more or less privileged depending upon their wealth, class, race, gender, sexuality and even religion. This is a positive trend. It is an attempt to recognize social inequality.

This inequality is a very concrete aspect of our social institutions. We refer to the word “privilege” to explain these differences, but fails to capture the full spectrum of benefits. Some are more or less privileged depending upon their wealth, class, race, gender, sexuality and even religion. This is a positive trend. It is an attempt to recognize social inequality.

The use of the term to describe our world is completely dissociated from the term used in the context of a cultural context. While some see the term privileged as a source of inequality, and others see it as a source of privilege, and still others see it as a source of disadvantage.

The way that we use words is inexorably connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same.

This is why the use of the word privilege for material goods is completely wrong. We are discussing systems, institutional barriers to the securing of what we mean by the term “privilege.” Not privileges. These words are not always properly described. We don’t need shelter, education and medical care. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same. The way that we use words is connected to our social order. They are not always the same.

Veronica Eskander
CONTRIBUTOR

Does the Civil Rights Act protect the LGBTQIA+ community?

Katsouleas also promised to attempt to protect the LGBTQ+ community against workplace discrimination.

The Connecticut Commitment, a plan that includes undocumented students, was announced at the inauguration last week: President Tom Katsouleas also promised to attempt to protect the LGBTQ+ community against workplace discrimination. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles.

For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles. For one, it recognizes that many low-income students already face tremendous financial obstacles.
Few students don't seek help because of the stigma surrounding mental illness. The experience it was for him, it must have been an easier time paying attention to their mental illness, and it turned it into something very real. We got a deeper understanding of mental health education for a wider audience, and it turned it into something very real. We got a deeper understanding of mental health education for a wider audience, and it turned it into something very real.

While students are still growing and are more likely to join clubs, go to fun events on campus and also a lot of the details and illumination of belonging which trickles into academics, it can be harder depending on your race, color or gender.

If you or someone you know is struggling with mental health, it can be given directly a sense of belonging from their therapist and the affiliation they need to gain that sense of fitting in more than meets the eye. Many students need allyship, especially in the case of hate crimes and growing hostility belonging from their therapist and the affiliation they need to gain that sense of fitting in more than meets the eye. Many students need allyship, especially in the case of hate crimes and growing hostility.
SFA’s ‘TIME’ masterfully showcases science through an artistic lens

Gino Giansanti
CAMPUSSPOTLIGHT

What is time? What does time look like? What does it sound like? These are the questions the School of Fine Arts sought to answer in its latest collaborative project entitled, “TIME.” Associate Professor of Lighting Design in the Dramatic Arts Program, Michael Chybowski, first developed this idea 6-7 years ago after a conversation with a colleague. In November of last year, work began between the Dramatic Arts, Digital Media and Design and Music Departments of the School of Fine Arts. Together, faculty and students of the various programs were able to create a beautiful performance that illustrates the complexity, wonder and confusion of time. Time is something so prevenient in our lives and yet very few people can say they truly understand how it works.

The performance focused on the evolution of humanity’s understanding of time. Beginning with the classical and medieval period, and ending in modern day, “TIME” featured digital animations and images, as well as music selections performed by members of the University of Connecticut’s Concert Choir, band and orchestra, all these which created an entice yet beautiful juxtaposition of a dancing concept. “I wanted to provide a receptacle to try to visualize what time looks like,” Chybowski said. “While I don’t know what time looks like, I hope what I have created is suggestive of what people have thought of on their own.”

Faculty and students of the Digital Media and Design Program have been working on this project since the beginning, as well. Herman Kim, professor of Animation and Motion Design through the DMP program oversee the completion of the digital aspect of the performance. The past few semesters with different teams of students. Kim said that because of the size of the project, some of the original contributors have since graduated, with Kim’s current class taking the final product. Eri Lauer, a seventh-semester Digital Media and Design major and student in Kim’s class, worked with much of the editing of the performing arts’ animation. Lauer remarked that the class and major allows students to work both creatively and scientifically.

One of the most interesting aspects of the project was the implementation of science in a production put on by the School of Fine Arts. While most people argue that science and art are two pieces that do not coexist, this collaboration proved the importance of art to explain the elements of the scientific world, as well as the relevance of sciences in art. This is all part of the STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, Mathematics) movement, championed by artists and professionals within the artistic world. While insturcers emphasize heavily the importance of STEM in all aspects of learning, many people see art and creativity as key to the innovation process.

When asked about the STEAM initiative, Tim Mascarinas, DMA student in Character Chorung, who directed the choral ensemble of last night’s event, remarked that TIMA “showed how applying the arts as catalysts for students’ imaginations and helping students innovate through hands-on STEAM projects.” It’s very easy to separate the science from the arts, which actually works against the STEM initiative,” Mascarinas said. “The fundamental goal of STEM is to have one stream of individuals evolve from the scientific to the artistic. It’s difficult to separate the science from the arts, which actually works against the STEM initiative.”

The School of Fine Arts stands out itself with its fabulous display of what collaboration between experts can create. Bravi.

Gino Giansanti
CAMPUSSPOTLIGHT

When I realized that I never truly gave this column, or myself a proper introduction, so hopefully this week makes up for that. So, as far as fiction goes, I am an huge fan of the Fast and Furious. I think the series is fantastic and well written and I absolutely love it. I have also been a long time fan of the Harry Potter series. I read the books as they came out and have read each book multiple times. My favorite book in the series is Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire. I think that book is a masterpiece. It is the perfect book to follow up the previous book and the best book in the series. I think that book is a masterpiece.

In comparison, “The Hunger Games” is what I consider to be the book that opened my eyes to reading from that of expectation to that of more in-depth understanding and analysis. It was the first book that I literally had to put down because I was so impacted by the themes and underlying narrative, and I know that I would not have the capacity to understand it. I knew some people think the theme is overt, but they truly are woven into the fabric of the novel.

I am putting these two books together because I could not decide which of them to consider. Both are incredible books that I am excited to read and are both highly recommended. The first book in the series that I read was “Shadow and Bone” by Leigh Bardugo. This book is a masterpiece. It is the perfect book to start a new series. It is a perfect introduction to the world of the Grisha trilogy. I think that book is a masterpiece. It is the perfect book to start a new series. It is a perfect introduction to the world of the Grisha trilogy.

In conclusion, “The Hunger Games” is what I consider to be the book that opened my eyes to reading from that of expectation to that of more in-depth understanding and analysis. It was the first book that I literally had to put down because I was so impacted by the themes and underlying narrative, and I knew that I would not have the capacity to understand it. I knew some people think the theme is overt, but they truly are woven into the fabric of the novel.

In conclusion, “The Hunger Games” is what I consider to be the book that opened my eyes to reading from that of expectation to that of more in-depth understanding and analysis. It was the first book that I literally had to put down because I was so impacted by the themes and underlying narrative, and I knew that I would not have the capacity to understand it. I knew some people think the theme is overt, but they truly are woven into the fabric of the novel. Poignant prose: “Daughter of the Blood” trilogy by Laini Taylor and “The Winner’s” trilogy by Marie Rutkoski

I am putting these two books together because I could not decide which of them to consider. Both are incredible books that I am excited to read and are both highly recommended. The first book in the series that I read was “Shadow and Bone” by Leigh Bardugo. This book is a masterpiece. It is the perfect book to start a new series. It is a perfect introduction to the world of the Grisha trilogy. I think that book is a masterpiece. It is the perfect book to start a new series. It is a perfect introduction to the world of the Grisha trilogy.

In conclusion, “The Hunger Games” is what I consider to be the book that opened my eyes to reading from that of expectation to that of more in-depth understanding and analysis. It was the first book that I literally had to put down because I was so impacted by the themes and underlying narrative, and I knew that I would not have the capacity to understand it. I knew some people think the theme is overt, but they truly are woven into the fabric of the novel.

In conclusion, “The Hunger Games” is what I consider to be the book that opened my eyes to reading from that of expectation to that of more in-depth understanding and analysis. It was the first book that I literally had to put down because I was so impacted by the themes and underlying narrative, and I knew that I would not have the capacity to understand it. I knew some people think the theme is overt, but they truly are woven into the fabric of the novel. Poignant prose: “Daughter of the Blood” trilogy by Laini Taylor and “The Winner’s” trilogy by Marie Rutkoski

I am putting these two books together because I could not decide which of them to consider. Both are incredible books that I am excited to read and are both highly recommended. The first book in the series that I read was “Shadow and Bone” by Leigh Bardugo. This book is a masterpiece. It is the perfect book to start a new series. It is a perfect introduction to the world of the Grisha trilogy. I think that book is a masterpiece. It is the perfect book to start a new series. It is a perfect introduction to the world of the Grisha trilogy.

In conclusion, “The Hunger Games” is what I consider to be the book that opened my eyes to reading from that of expectation to that of more in-depth understanding and analysis. It was the first book that I literally had to put down because I was so impacted by the themes and underlying narrative, and I knew that I would not have the capacity to understand it. I knew some people think the theme is overt, but they truly are woven into the fabric of the novel.

In conclusion, “The Hunger Games” is what I consider to be the book that opened my eyes to reading from that of expectation to that of more in-depth understanding and analysis. It was the first book that I literally had to put down because I was so impacted by the themes and underlying narrative, and I knew that I would not have the capacity to understand it. I knew some people think the theme is overt, but they truly are woven into the fabric of the novel.
What you need to know about National Coming Out Day

Since the creation of National Coming Out Day, many LGBTQ+ individuals are out to their close friends according to The Human Rights Campaign. People are encouraged to come out as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. It was set as October the eleven by this year as the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. In the times since the creation of National Coming Out Day, nine out of ten LGBTQ+ individuals have come out to their close friends according to The Human Rights Campaign. In the average age for coming out for millennials was six, while the average age for members of Gen X was four, as per a report done by the皈anna Center Research Project. As of the publication of this article, there is an effect on trans people, who have transgendered individuals from serving or enlisting in the United States military. The ban is reversed on a vote on 2016 decision by President Barack Obama that allowed transgendered individuals to serve in the military.

There is also a case in the Supreme Court being heard on whether or not someone can be fired based on sexual orientation. Under current law, people cannot be fired for their sexual orientation according to Title VII of The Civil Rights Act of 1964. Additionally, in accordance to The Human Rights Campaign, 41% of LGBTQ+ youth said their communities are not supportive of LGBTQ+ people. In another study conducted by The Human Rights Campaign, 36% of LGBTQ+ youth feel they cannot be open about their orientation and worry about being accepted by family or friends. The study also found that LGBTQ+ youth who are also twice as likely to be physically assaulted compared to their straight peers. So what can be done to promote a more inclusive environment for LGBTQ+ people coming out? Being accepting of who come out is a great way to be inclusive. Being an ally, from helping someone feel safe and supported, offers a way inclusively can be promoted. This can be as simple as asking someone who they are. By asking the person coming out what their sexual orientation is on, we can challenge our own perceptions and understand more about the experiences and challenges that are present in the LGBTQ+ community. The Rainbow Center is located on the 4th Floor of the Student Union, the Rainbow Center is located on the 4th Floor of the Student Union. They are open on Mondays and Fridays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and can be reached by phone at 860-486-5821 or by email at rainbow-center@uconn.edu. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation.

On national Coming Out Day, the Rainbow Center will celebrate the National Coming Out Day celebration in the Student Union. They will be open throughout the weekend, including a collaboration with UConn Student Health Services to host a walk with UConn's Pet Therapy dogs. The walk will be open to members of the LGBTQ+ community, the Rainbow Center is a community for all individuals. They are open on Mondays and Fridays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and can be reached by phone at 860-486-5821 or by email at rainbow-center@uconn.edu. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation.

In addition to coming out to friends and family, the Rainbow Center will celebrate the National Coming Out Day celebration in the Student Union. They will be open throughout the weekend, including a collaboration with UConn Student Health Services to host a walk with UConn's Pet Therapy dogs. The walk will be open to members of the LGBTQ+ community, the Rainbow Center is a community for all individuals. They are open on Mondays and Fridays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and can be reached by phone at 860-486-5821 or by email at rainbow-center@uconn.edu. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation. Founded in 1988, National Coming Out Day is observed on October the twenty-third every year as a way for gay and lesbian people feel free coming out to their friends and family. This day was chosen because it was the one year anniversary of the March on Washington for Lesbian and Gay Rights. The day is celebrated with various events and activities, including coming out to friends and family. The day is also used as an opportunity to raise awareness about the importance of coming out and the challenges that LGBTQ+ individuals may face in doing so. For those unaware of the term coming out, it can be defined as an LGBTQ+ individual telling someone their sexual orientation.
Money runs thicker than water

Veronika Ekander
STAFF COLUMNIST

In the stratified, xenocentric political climate that has come to define America, it is rarely impor- tant to both Republicans and Demo- crats. How much you care if you hired red or blue, everyone agrees that clean drinking water is a basic human right. However, in recent years, we have seen that not all Americans have access to this basic need. Studies have shown that millions of people across the country are still without access to safe drinking water. This is a travesty and a sign of a government that fails to protect the most vulnerable members of our society.

In order to combat this issue, the United States government has implemented several initiatives to improve access to clean water. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has been working diligently to enforce regulations that ensure that all Americans have access to safe drinking water. Additionally, there have been efforts to expand access to clean water in rural areas and communities that have historically struggled with this issue.

However, there is much more that needs to be done. The fight for clean water is not just about access, it is about protecting the environment and preserving the health of our communities. We need to continue to push for stronger regulations and policies that prioritize clean water for all Americans.

Opinion

Stop smiling and start crying

Cameron Cantelmo
STAFF COLUMNIST

One of the world’s most impor- tant resources is water. A billon people regularly drink millions of gallons of water every day, not just for hydration but for a myriad of other reasons. Water is essential for life, but it is also a precious resource that must be conserved and protected.

According to one study, up to 21 people in the United States live in areas where drinking wa- ter sources are contaminated. This is a clear indication of the need for more strict regulations and enforcement of such laws. The Trump administration’s move to roll back environmental regulations that protect our waterways is a clear indication of the need for more aggressive action to protect our waters.

The Healing Our Waters-Great Lakes Coalition is currently working to address this issue and is urging the federal government to take action to protect our waters. The coalition is calling for stronger regulations and enforcement of such laws, and for increased funding for water protection efforts.

Our government must take a stronger stance on this issue to ensure that all Americans have access to clean water. The time for action is now.
Volleyball: UConn faces challenging visit from Cincinnati, ECU

Judah Shingleton
CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT

The Bearcats are led by redshirt senior setter and junior outside hitter Jordan Thompson, who have put up 17 kills and 27 digs and 3. Modie Morris leads in assists with 136, followed by sophomores outside hitter Maria Mallon and righty Aníbal Sánchez, who have put up 15 and 13 digs this season. Morris leads in digs with 47. Thompson leads in kills with 3. Last season, seniors outside hitter Caylee Parker and middle blocker Erica Barta led the team in digs with 32 and 29, respectively. This season, the Bearcats are aiming to build on their two-game win streak and continue their with the Huskies.

The Huskies and Pirates have a five-year history of matches together, during which ECU won five matches and UConn won nine. The two teams have played 10 matches since 2008 to present day, the Huskies have a 6-11 record against Cincinnati, 6-6 record against ECU and 4-0 The American. From their first matchup in 2008 to present day, the Huskies have been the strong, all around team in the AAC, 8-8, 2-2 The American. The Bearcats have the strongest overall record of any team in the AAC, with their most recent win over the Huskies in 2018.

From their first game in 2008, the Bearcats have struggled to win against the Huskies. However, in recent years, the Bearcats have faced some tough competition, including their American Athletic Conference teams. The Huskies have faced off against their AAC opponents with mixed results, with some wins and losses.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A curse-breaking victory by welterweight boxing champion Errol Spence Jr. is expected to make a bigger name for himself within The American.

The Bearcats are led by redshirt senior setter and junior outside hitter Jordan Thompson, who have put up 17 kills and 27 digs and 3. Modie Morris leads in assists with 136, followed by sophomores outside hitter Maria Mallon and righty Aníbal Sánchez, who have put up 15 and 13 digs this season. Morris leads in digs with 47. Thompson leads in kills with 3. Last season, seniors outside hitter Caylee Parker and middle blocker Erica Barta led the team in digs with 32 and 29, respectively. This season, the Bearcats are aiming to build on their two-game win streak and continue their with the Huskies.

The Huskies and Pirates have a five-year history of matches together, during which ECU won five matches and UConn won nine. The two teams have played 10 matches since 2008 to present day, the Huskies have a 6-11 record against Cincinnati, 6-6 record against ECU and 4-0 The American. From their first matchup in 2008 to present day, the Huskies have been the strong, all around team in the AAC, 8-8, 2-2 The American. The Bearcats have the strongest overall record of any team in the AAC, with their most recent win over the Huskies in 2018.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Welterweight boxing champion Errol Spence Jr. is expected to make a bigger name for himself within The American.

The Bearcats are led by redshirt senior setter and junior outside hitter Jordan Thompson, who have put up 17 kills and 27 digs and 3. Modie Morris leads in assists with 136, followed by sophomores outside hitter Maria Mallon and righty Aníbal Sánchez, who have put up 15 and 13 digs this season. Morris leads in digs with 47. Thompson leads in kills with 3. Last season, seniors outside hitter Caylee Parker and middle blocker Erica Barta led the team in digs with 32 and 29, respectively. This season, the Bearcats are aiming to build on their two-game win streak and continue their with the Huskies.

The Huskies and Pirates have a five-year history of matches together, during which ECU won five matches and UConn won nine. The two teams have played 10 matches since 2008 to present day, the Huskies have a 6-11 record against Cincinnati, 6-6 record against ECU and 4-0 The American. From their first matchup in 2008 to present day, the Huskies have been the strong, all around team in the AAC, 8-8, 2-2 The American. The Bearcats have the strongest overall record of any team in the AAC, with their most recent win over the Huskies in 2018.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A curse-breaking victory by welterweight boxing champion Errol Spence Jr. is expected to make a bigger name for himself within The American.

The Bearcats are led by redshirt senior setter and junior outside hitter Jordan Thompson, who have put up 17 kills and 27 digs and 3. Modie Morris leads in assists with 136, followed by sophomores outside hitter Maria Mallon and righty Aníbal Sánchez, who have put up 15 and 13 digs this season. Morris leads in digs with 47. Thompson leads in kills with 3. Last season, seniors outside hitter Caylee Parker and middle blocker Erica Barta led the team in digs with 32 and 29, respectively. This season, the Bearcats are aiming to build on their two-game win streak and continue their with the Huskies.

The Huskies and Pirates have a five-year history of matches together, during which ECU won five matches and UConn won nine. The two teams have played 10 matches since 2008 to present day, the Huskies have a 6-11 record against Cincinnati, 6-6 record against ECU and 4-0 The American. From their first matchup in 2008 to present day, the Huskies have been the strong, all around team in the AAC, 8-8, 2-2 The American. The Bearcats have the strongest overall record of any team in the AAC, with their most recent win over the Huskies in 2018.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Welterweight boxing champion Errol Spence Jr. is expected to make a bigger name for himself within The American.

The Bearcats are led by redshirt senior setter and junior outside hitter Jordan Thompson, who have put up 17 kills and 27 digs and 3. Modie Morris leads in assists with 136, followed by sophomores outside hitter Maria Mallon and righty Aníbal Sánchez, who have put up 15 and 13 digs this season. Morris leads in digs with 47. Thompson leads in kills with 3. Last season, seniors outside hitter Caylee Parker and middle blocker Erica Barta led the team in digs with 32 and 29, respectively. This season, the Bearcats are aiming to build on their two-game win streak and continue their with the Huskies.

The Huskies and Pirates have a five-year history of matches together, during which ECU won five matches and UConn won nine. The two teams have played 10 matches since 2008 to present day, the Huskies have a 6-11 record against Cincinnati, 6-6 record against ECU and 4-0 The American. From their first matchup in 2008 to present day, the Huskies have been the strong, all around team in the AAC, 8-8, 2-2 The American. The Bearcats have the strongest overall record of any team in the AAC, with their most recent win over the Huskies in 2018.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A curse-breaking victory by welterweight boxing champion Errol Spence Jr. is expected to make a bigger name for himself within The American.
Men’s Hockey: Opening weekend at the XL Center has arrived

The Huskies (0-0-1) are coming off a 3-3 tie with Sacred Heart last Friday. Sophomore goalie Tomas Vomacka recorded the fifth-most votes of any player to make the All-Tournament team.

The Huskies are one of five teams currently in the top five. There are currently three schools from the American Athletic Conference in the AP Top 20 (USM, Memphis and Cincinnati), and UConn has relocated the 1999-2000 MAAC Championship.

Many players and coaches from Connecticut colleges and high schools were in attendance at the game. Thursday night against UMass, which they opened up their season Friday, as the Huskies returning the favor with a 5-2 win in January.

The Engineers also have a 2-1-1 record, as the Huskies and Engineers split last week's two-game set, with the Huskies winning 3-1 in October and the Engineers returning the favor with a 3-2 win in January. After this weekend, the Huskies don’t play another game at home until Sunday, Nov. 3.

The offense has done its fair share for the Huskies as well. Coming into this matchup, UConn is averaging around 35 shots per game. The Huskies are forcing their opponents to spend more energy on defense, which will give UConn more offensive opportunities as their opponents become tired as the game progresses. Eight players have scored goals as far this season, with Morgan Wolicki and Nikki Harkness having scored two each.

One player on the Wildcats to keep an eye on is Paige Rynne. The junior has already scored three goals this season, and she currently ranks third in the nation in goals. The Wildcats are a very strong team on offense, and are especially dangerous when on a power play, as it has gone 4-0 so far this year.

On Saturday, UConn will play New Hampshire at 4:05 p.m. at the Mark Edward Freitas Ice Forum. The teams have only met twice in the past, with the Wildcats winning both games.

The Engineers also have a 2-1-1 record with a 2-1-1 record with a 2-1-1 record, as the Huskies and Engineers split last week's two-game set, with the Huskies winning 3-1 in October and the Engineers returning the favor with a 3-2 win in January. After this weekend, the Huskies don’t play another game at home until Sunday, Nov. 3.

The offense has done its fair share for the Huskies as well. Coming into this matchup, UConn is averaging around 35 shots per game. The Huskies are forcing their opponents to spend more energy on defense, which will give UConn more offensive opportunities as their opponents become tired as the game progresses. Eight players have scored goals as far this season, with Morgan Wolicki and Nikki Harkness having scored two each.

One player on the Wildcats to keep an eye on is Paige Rynne. The junior has already scored three goals this season, and she currently ranks third in the nation in goals. The Wildcats are a very strong team on offense, and are especially dangerous when on a power play, as it has gone 4-0 so far this year.

On Saturday, UConn will play New Hampshire at 4:05 p.m. at the Mark Edward Freitas Ice Forum. The teams have only met twice in the past, with the Wildcats winning both games.

The Engineers also have a 2-1-1 record with a 2-1-1 record, as the Huskies and Engineers split last week's two-game set, with the Huskies winning 3-1 in October and the Engineers returning the favor with a 3-2 win in January. After this weekend, the Huskies don’t play another game at home until Sunday, Nov. 3.

The offense has done its fair share for the Huskies as well. Coming into this matchup, UConn is averaging around 35 shots per game. The Huskies are forcing their opponents to spend more energy on defense, which will give UConn more offensive opportunities as their opponents become tired as the game progresses. Eight players have scored goals as far this season, with Morgan Wolicki and Nikki Harkness having scored two each.

One player on the Wildcats to keep an eye on is Paige Rynne. The junior has already scored three goals this season, and she currently ranks third in the nation in goals. The Wildcats are a very strong team on offense, and are especially dangerous when on a power play, as it has gone 4-0 so far this year.

On Saturday, UConn will play New Hampshire at 4:05 p.m. at the Mark Edward Freitas Ice Forum. The teams have only met twice in the past, with the Wildcats winning both games.

The Engineers also have a 2-1-1 record with a 2-1-1 record, as the Huskies and Engineers split last week's two-game set, with the Huskies winning 3-1 in October and the Engineers returning the favor with a 3-2 win in January. After this weekend, the Huskies don’t play another game at home until Sunday, Nov. 3.

The offense has done its fair share for the Huskies as well. Coming into this matchup, UConn is averaging around 35 shots per game. The Huskies are forcing their opponents to spend more energy on defense, which will give UConn more offensive opportunities as their opponents become tired as the game progresses. Eight players have scored goals as far this season, with Morgan Wolicki and Nikki Harkness having scored two each.

One player on the Wildcats to keep an eye on is Paige Rynne. The junior has already scored three goals this season, and she currently ranks third in the nation in goals. The Wildcats are a very strong team on offense, and are especially dangerous when on a power play, as it has gone 4-0 so far this year.

On Saturday, UConn will play New Hampshire at 4:05 p.m. at the Mark Edward Freitas Ice Forum. The teams have only met twice in the past, with the Wildcats winning both games.
Why Dodgers fans are making me mad

Friday, October 11, 2019 • DailyCampus.com

Each took him deep. A pair and recording seven pitches while walking three batters in the tenth inning after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.

Though my predictions have not come to fruition, I’m not frustrated. In the crammed stands, it’s a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde situation. It’s a Dr. Frankenstein’s version of the Triple Crown.

You’ve had the best team in the country, gave UConn fits including three game-winners. However, Delaware is quite multiple against the Huskies and Hens have squared off against different players. And yet, Delaware was an even stronger defense than UConn or Providence, surrendering just nine total goals in games. No surprise, redshirt senior Cheyenne Sprecher has made 56 saves in nine total goals in 10 games.

No. 3 field hockey returns home looking for bounce back

Andrew Morrison

The Los Angeles Dodgers have been the butt of many jokes over the last year. Last season, he has had to come to the mound while walking three batters in the tenth inning after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute. The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.

Kevin Arnold

ASSOCIATE SPORTS EDITOR

So the 2019 postseason is already over for UConn. Though my predictions have not come to fruition, I’m not frustrated. It is a terrible feeling. It really is.”

Clayton Kershaw looks down at the ground. The Dodgers have been struggling through their post- season. UConn has struggled without a goal-getter. Jordan Harris.

The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute. The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.

Clayton Kershaw looks down at the ground. The Dodgers have been struggling through their post- season. UConn has struggled without a goal-getter. Jordan Harris.

The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute. The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.

Clayton Kershaw looks down at the ground. The Dodgers have been struggling through their post- season. UConn has struggled without a goal-getter. Jordan Harris.

The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute. The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.

Clayton Kershaw looks down at the ground. The Dodgers have been struggling through their post- season. UConn has struggled without a goal-getter. Jordan Harris.

The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute. The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.

Clayton Kershaw looks down at the ground. The Dodgers have been struggling through their post- season. UConn has struggled without a goal-getter. Jordan Harris.

The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute. The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.

Clayton Kershaw looks down at the ground. The Dodgers have been struggling through their post- season. UConn has struggled without a goal-getter. Jordan Harris.

The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute. The Friars took a 5-0 lead in the first half after capitalizing on a corner kick in the 50th minute.
Monday's Women's Soccer Result

Huskies Face Challenge in Tulane

Danny Barletta

Staff Writer

Huskies had a problem on defense on Saturday, and it was a problem they couldn’t overcome.

After not winning and not scoring for four straight games, the UConn women's soccer team picked up a huge win at home on Thursday against Houston.

The Huskies (5-7-1, 1-4 The American) have also had successful understatement. They completely dominated in the running game, with four-game losing streaks, and have not won since Sept. 15.

Both teams entered the game with four-game losing streaks, so something had to give. The Huskies (1-4, 0-2 The American) hung 42 points on Army, taking 12 of them for 70 total yards of the season and Eveillard's first goal since 2017.

Before Eveillard took over in the second half, it looked like more of the same.

The offense couldn’t get much going, only recording three shots the whole first half. Hurley was able to get on the board in the 19th minute on a pass by Amy Nguyen to freshman defender and into the net. It was Hurley's second assist of the season and Eveillard's first goal since 2017.

The Huskies then started to get more shots off, outshooting Houston 1-0-19 in the second half. However, despite how successful the Huskies' rushing attempts were, they saw the Huskies decide to run the ball and we're going to try our hardest to stop them.

It was Darius Bradwell who left the teams in a 2-1 win against USF when they allowed TU (2-5-3), the team with 264 rushing yards, and they have not won since Sept. 1.

The Huskies (1-4, 0-2 The American) have had success in the running game, having six players rack up the ball at least five times, three, five of them had at least 30 yards, and a different combination of five each had a rushing touchdown.

The Huskies (1-4, 0-2 The American) have had success in the running game, having six players rack up the ball at least five times, three, five of them had at least 30 yards, and a different combination of five each had a rushing touchdown.

While scrolling Twitter on Saturday, I got the impression that Tulane football was having a good day (thanks, @FanTheCrewDawg). Upon further research, “good” was a massive understatement.

The Green Wave (4-1, 0-0 The American) bring 54 points on Army, the most points the Black Knights have given up since 2017. They completely dominated in the running game, with four-game losing streaks, and have not won since Sept. 15.

The Huskies (1-4, 0-2 The American) have had success in the running game, having six players rack up the ball at least five times, three, five of them had at least 30 yards, and a different combination of five each had a rushing touchdown.

The Huskies (1-4, 0-2 The American) have had success in the running game, having six players rack up the ball at least five times, three, five of them had at least 30 yards, and a different combination of five each had a rushing touchdown.

However, despite how successful the Huskies' rushing attempts were, they saw the Huskies decide to run the ball and we're going to try our hardest to stop them.

It was Darius Bradwell who left the teams in a 2-1 win against USF when they allowed TU (2-5-3), the team with 264 rushing yards, and they have not won since Sept. 1.

The Huskies (1-4, 0-2 The American) have had success in the running game, having six players rack up the ball at least five times, three, five of them had at least 30 yards, and a different combination of five each had a rushing touchdown.

The Huskies (1-4, 0-2 The American) have had success in the running game, having six players rack up the ball at least five times, three, five of them had at least 30 yards, and a different combination of five each had a rushing touchdown.

However, despite how successful the Huskies' rushing attempts were, they saw the Huskies decide to run the ball and we're going to try our hardest to stop them.

It was Darius Bradwell who left the teams in a 2-1 win against USF when they allowed TU (2-5-3), the team with 264 rushing yards, and they have not won since Sept. 1.