In response to the mental health crisis, UConn has hired six additional full-time clinical positions, according to Katsouleas.

Katsouleas announced the initiation of a mental health coalition as launched a case management model as part of its strategic plan that will be implemented going to its website.

In our campuses, "We are committed to doing all we can to support students face significant mental health and wellness challenges," Katsouleas said. "UConn recognizes that many of our students face significant mental health challenges, and as a result has change across campus, and as a result has many initiatives and compiled a list of questions to the coalition.

"Total financial cost was $21,000," Pan explained the $21,000 for the four-year partnership that qualifies the impact made surrounding mental health on campus.

After working with UConn Counseling and Mental Health and Student Health and Wellness, as well as the President's Office and the General Assembly in the coming months in an effort to achieve this."
TROY Price was elected to his second term as chairman of the Iowa Democratic Party on Wednesday, but his reign is over.

In a statement released after the meeting, Price wrote in a resignation letter that he and his reelection, he noted that he could have called the delays “necessary precautions that this city is ahead of the international community in preparing for the pandemic.”

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Iowa Democratic Party announced his resignation Wednesday after a disastrous primary process he said by technical glitches led to a dayslong delay in reporting the results, inconsistencies in the numbers and no clear winner, which he said would make it difficult to use the results to pick candidates for the general election.

“The fact is that Democrats deserve better than what we are seeing from this chair of this party, I am deeply sorry for what happened and bear the responsibility for any failings of this party,” Chairman Troy Price said in the statement. “I have been the chairman of the Iowa Democratic Party for the past two years and look forward to working with the Iowa Democratic Party in the future,” he added.

Price said his departure was necessary to restore confidence in the party and that the result of the recanvass, scheduled for Feb. 3, is likely to end the current contest.

The Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party is one of several that will be facing a difficult re-run after the Recanvass process. The party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.

The Iowa Democratic Party has already had to deal with a primary process that was marred by technical glitches and a slow reporting of results. The party’s results are not expected to be final until at least Feb. 3, and the process could drag on for weeks.

Price said he made the decision after consulting with the party’s leaders and members, and he said he was “incredibly proud” of the work that the party did in the previous election, which included selecting candidates for the general election.
Puerto Rico govt loses $2.6M in phishing scam

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Francis refused Wednesday to approve the ordination of married men or women as deacons to address a shortage of priests in the Amazon, sidestepping a fragile issue that has divided the Catholic Church and emboldened progressives who had hoped he would allow married priests or women deacons.

In an eagerly awaited document, Francis didn’t refer to recommendations by Amazonian bishops to consider married priests or to ordain women deacons. Rather, the pope urged bishops to pray for “a more generous and inclusive response” and to send missioners to where Catholic faith is in “weakness” so that “new forms of service are discovered.”

The pope’s dismissive words were likely to disappoint those who had hoped he would at least consider such options to further the Church’s mission in the continent’s vast territory.

Francis had responded favorably to the appeals from the Amazon’s nine countries for a “synodal” path in October, but the Argentine pope has long been sensitive to the plight of the Amazon, where Protestant and Pentecostal movements are already making gains in the absence of church structures where Mass can be regularly celebrated.

According to Catholic doctrine, only ordained deacons can consecrate the Eucharist hosts in the presence of the faithful who are the body of Christ. Protestant short services, some remote communities only see a priest once every few months and some are isolated, and Amazon communities in the Amazon, which stretch over 5.7 million square kilometers, have no priest shortage coupled with the spread of evangelical churches that take the very Catholic nature of the community.

In the synodal final document, most of the bishops called for setting criteria so that “married” men or women priests, who have already served as permanent deacons in remote areas, didn’t discriminate the rite’s final document to the “bishops or at least to the Holy Father.” But if the bill was said to be “officially presented” the synod’s work and urged the faithful to read the final document in full, suggesting he valued the input.

Michael Canovaggio, a synod organizer, said the progress made on this question was “a victory for the Church” because it didn’t expressly approve the final document, and only pre- tended to mean the proposals do not form a new version of the Bible. “It is a great success, a great service to the faithful,” said Cardinal Lorenzo Baldisseri, secretary general of the synod. Francis did echo some of the synodal recommendations, calling for “more generous participation in the life of the church and saying that dioceses in the Amazon must be overhauled and a new version of colonization.”

Media Sponsor:

This post-synodal document is a betrayal of the vows by denying them the holy orders of holy orders that they are carrying out,” said Miriam Duignan of the British-based pro-life research, a British Catholic pro-life think tank. Kate McElwee, executive director of Women’s Ordination Caroline of Canada, said that Francis “does not dare to intervene in the Church’s internal affairs.”

Recognizing women’s work is central to an ecclesial revolution would be the first, most basic step to help rectify a disjunctive and institutional sexism that Sobieski and Francis are called to influence the moral crisis of our time,” said McElwee.

The Catholic Church retains the priesthood for men, arguing that Christ and his San Diego Ger- males. The issue of ordaining married priests is on the official agenda of a new version of the Bible. “It is a great success, a great service to the faithful,” said conservative Cardinal- Bregel, who was so alarmed at the “pagan” ceremonies of the synod that he stole three wooden statues of a prophet and a woman that were featured in the Vatican meetings and then threw them in the Tiber River.

The omission disappointed German Catho- lic bishops, who had advocated for married priests in the Amazon. Speaking to the cardinals that ordaining women priests in the Amazon, Francis has had a history of defending the Church’s traditional teaching. “It is a great success, a great service to the faithful,” said conservative Cardinal- Bregel, who was so alarmed at the “pagan” ceremonies of the synod that he stole three wooden statues of a prophet and a woman that were featured in the Vatican meetings and then threw them in the Tiber River.

The omission disappointed German Catho- lic bishops, who had advocated for married priests in the Amazon. Speaking to the cardinals that ordaining women priests in the Amazon, Francis has had a history of defending the Church’s traditional teaching. “It is a great success, a great service to the faithful,” said conservative Cardinal- Bregel, who was so alarmed at the “pagan” ceremonies of the synod that he stole three wooden statues of a prophet and a woman that were featured in the Vatican meetings and then threw them in the Tiber River.

Francis dismissed suggestions that ordaining women would make the Church more open to change. Francis argued that they must find “other forms of service” and an “unbroken bond” within the Church’s traditions.

The Argentine pope has long been concerned about the role of women in the Church and its continuing struggle for ecclesial revolution, a tradition of priestly celibacy that the Roman rite church has had since the earliest days of the church. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.

“Those communities are stripped of the Eucharist, the center of our faith,” said Dom Erwin Kräutler. While agreeing that women can be ordained as priests or women deacons.
The Daily Campus
Thursday, February 13, 2020 • DailyCampus.com

kevin.catapano@uconn.edu

WEEKLY COLUMNIST
by Kevin Catapano

and I moved in. not shut completely. Trust me, it peeling off and the window will 176 square feet. One of the walls campaign has unofficially as of yesterday (Sanders has re- dropped precipitously from the Biden campaign, which has massive sell-off of support for the second time he has fallen mid-October — when he was leading average. This is the first

WEEKLY COLUMNIST
by Kevin Catapano

The Right Answer

by Kevin Catapano

What Biden’s collapse means for Democrats

by Kevin Catapano

What Biden’s collapse means for Democrats

The administration charges because... 56% of all other selfish and unjustified behavior, there is nobody standing in its way.

The amount of revenue UConn made from room fees alone in 2018.

The REVENUE in RESLIE

$20,000,000

56%

The proportion of undergraduate students that live in campus-owned housing. This totals to 59,133 undergrads.

$1

The profit UConn makes on student’s room fees, after paying for cleaning, maintenance, and repairs.
Wonderful women and Galentine's Day.

by Hollianne Lao

What's Galentine's Day? Oh, it's only the best unofficial holiday for the girls and women around you, Leslie Knope, the protagonist in NBC's “Parks and Recreation,” said in the titular episode, “Galentine’s Day.” Even if you haven’t watched “Parks and Rec,” you’ve probably heard of Leslie’s self-proclaimed, female-centric holiday. In the Season 1 episode, Leslie designated Feb. 13 an unofficial holiday in response to Valentine’s Day to celebrate women and female friendships, even more so than an ordinary day. It is one of the best examples of how Leslie’s feminism is manifested in the show and permeated in ways beyond the screen. Even if the series ended a few years ago, Leslie (played by the equally awesome Amy Poehler), would be happy to know that women all over the world are still carrying on the tradition of cherishing themselves and their female friendships.

“Every February 13th, my partner and I keep our husbands and our boyfriends out of the kitchen; we just come and kick it, breakfast style,” Leslie says in the episode. This holiday is for all the ladies out there who have a significant other or not. So how can you, your friends, and family celebrate Galentine’s Day? What’s good about it is that it’s truly up to you. Even if you can’t get together on the actual day, anything in the spirit of ladies celebrating ladies on a day you choose is appropriate. You do want to customize what you do, so think about what you might possibly give for you and your group of women. The more personal, the better!

Because of Leslie’s love for all things breakfast, especially waffles, she and the women in her life celebrated the holiday over a fun and hoopy brunch. If you’re looking for a starting point for your Galentine’s Day, celebrating food is one of the easiest and most fun ways to do so. If you and your group enjoy brunch food as much as Leslie, complete with waffles, eggs and drinks, then go for it. Maybe you all want to treat yourselves, dress up and head out to a fancy restaurant. Or plan a movie marathon, or do a potluck and choose a food theme such as desserts or finger foods, makes things easier. If your group decides to do a potluck, every person can bring a food item that they like and represents themselves, making it even more special.

If you want to keep the event going after your movie or maybe your group wasn’t able to get together for one, other activity ideas include getting manicures and pedicures, watching a movie or having a paint night. Either dress up or keep it casual, whatever you and your group are comfortable with.

“Your bush, your mouth, you have all the strengths,” Leslie offered as words of encouragement to her best friend, Ann Perkins ( Rashida Jones). On Galentine’s Day, be sure to hype one another up and acknowledge each other’s strengths. It’s a fun day, what else is Galentine’s Day good for? Besides showering her loved ones with, an acknowledgement of each other’s accomplishments, big and small, is sure to brighten up your day. Another idea is to discuss what you admire and love about each other — spread those heartfelt compliments around.

“In your bags you will find a few things — including a personalized 5,000 word essay on why you all mean so much,” Leslie said in the episode. Leslie went above and beyond in showering her loved ones with gifts, however, it’s not necessary to be as extravagant to show your love. You and your group should decide if you want to give each other gifts and what amount is everybody can agree on the same page. Maybe you can decide to keep the gifts cost-free, and the gifts could be even more creative and personal.

Even as a card or a specific item for a friend they think they care and appreciate them. So maybe you will all decide to treat yourselves, like Donna and Tom do in the show, and splurge a little. As long as you give your gift pale on the same page. And even if you and the women in your life can’t able to come together to celebrate Galentine’s Day this year, don’t forget to emphasize them and yourself throughout the year. As Leslie said, “You are the most beautiful, glowing sun goddess ever.”

Cute and Quick Last-Minute Date Ideas for Valentine’s Day.

by Stephanie Santillo

With Valentine’s Day landing on a Friday this year, there’s no excuse why you and your significant other can’t celebrate if you want to. Even if you didn’t make big plans, you can still enjoy some of those simple yet exciting date ideas. No matter how much you end up celebrating, just remember that it’s truly up to you. It’s your day and whatever you do, it’s your day! Here are a few ideas that you can do on Valentine’s Day.

If you have a little more time on your hands, head out to the city and just walk around. Spend the whole day together popping into cafes or other shops, walking through parks and maybe even stopping a museum or seeing a movie. Boston and New York are cool, but Hartford and even small towns have a lot to offer. Many Connecticut residents don’t think about it, but Hartford and New Haven have a lot to do, and small towns offer their own unique charm.

If you’re looking for a quick date idea, then it’s best to go with something new or interesting to try. If candy’s not your thing, try to go on a bakery tour of some cake, cupcakes or other treats. And if that’s not your thing either, go on an ice cream tour and get your Valentine’s Day-themed sundae or milkshake. Heart-shaped boxes of chocolate are common gifts on Valentine’s Day, but why not include your own sweet tooth? Go on a foodie tour of your town and other and buy your favorite foods along with something new or interesting to try. If candy’s not your thing, try to go on a bakery tour of some cake, cupcakes or other treats. And if that’s not your thing either, go on an ice cream tour and get your Valentine’s Day-themed sundae or milkshake.

For those who don’t have a significant other or are more of the stay-at-home kind of people, spend some time indoors watching your favorite rom-coms or whatever genre you like. Go shower with “When Harry Met Sally” or “Always Be My Maybe” or just laugh with Adam Sandler in “The Wedding Singer.” Alternatively, you can finally catch up on the shows you watch together (I mean you’re so passionate and have missed hours of movie theater candy and fill up your soda cups for a long session of binge watching “You” or “Always Be My Maybe”; or just laugh your way through a Netflix route with “To All the Boys: P.S. I Still Love You” or “When Harry Met Sally”; take the Netflix route with “To All the Boys: P.S. I Still Love You.”

No matter what your style is, enjoy your Valentine’s day.
ASIAN-BEAT TALEN

by Kimberly Nguyen

Galentines

by Hollianne Lao

The Fader

Thelma Schoonmaker

by Suzanne Mahur

Eater.com
Thursday, February 13, 2020 • DailyCampus.com

Life

thirsty thursday

GALENTINE’S DAY DRINKS

by Daily Campus Life Section

“What’s Galentine’s Day? Oh, it’s only the best day of the year!” Leslie Knope certainly said it best. Since being introduced by the television series “Parks and Rec,” Galentine’s Day has been growing in popularity. Simply put, Feb. 13 is a day to celebrate your platonic lady friends, before all the consumerist pomp and circumstance of Valentine’s Day. Honoring our non-romantic relationships is often just as important, if not more, than cozying up with our significant others. In Leslie Knope tradition, Galentine’s is celebrated with a breakfast or brunch, but since this year the date falls on a Thursday, why not show your girls how much they mean to you with a few amazing cocktails? Save the leftovers for your V-day plans, and never forget the code — uteruses before duderuses.

Chocolate Covered Strawberry Martini

Ingredients:
- 1/3 shot Malibu rum
- 1/3 shot peach schnapps
- 1/3 shot vodka
- 3 shots cranberry juice
- 2 chocolate covered strawberries, for garnish
- Sugar to rim the glass

In order to make this martini, gently mix all the liquid ingredients together in a cocktail shaker with ice. Wet the rim of the glass and dip into a plate of sugar (use pink sugar crystals for a fun touch). Cut a plain strawberry into heart shaped slices for garnish. Place a chocolate covered strawberry on the rim before serving.

Cupid’s (Platonic) Arrow

Ingredients:
- 1 1/2 oz. vodka
- 3/4 oz. blood orange liqueur
- 1 1/2 oz. orange juice
- 1 splash lemon juice
- 5 chopped raspberries and strawberries
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 can lemon lime soda

To make this fruity cocktail, combine the vodka, liqueur, orange juice, lemon juice and sugar in a cocktail shaker over ice. Shake vigorously. Rim the glass in red sugar crystals, and then fill with muddled berries and ice cubes. Add contents of cocktail shaker then soda. Stir gently to mix.

Single Ladies Sangria

Ingredients:
- 1 750 mL bottle rosé
- 1 1/2 cups seltzer
- 1/2 cup pomegranate juice
- 1/2 cup vodka
- 1/4 cup raspberry liqueur
- 1 cup sliced strawberries
- 1 cup raspberries

This recipe is such a fun take on a traditional sangria. The rosé makes it perfect for a night out with your girlfriends. To make this sweet pink drink, combine wine, soda, pomegranate juice, vodka and raspberry liqueur in a large pitcher and stir. Add strawberries and raspberries, then refrigerate until chilled, about 1 hour. Stir before serving.

Photos courtesy of Pinterest
Huskytalk | What is the worst chocolate in the Valentine’s Day Box?

“Anything with coconut.”
Cassandra Cavallaro
Nutritional Science
Tenth semester

“Any kind of white chocolate.”
Nina Haigis
Accounting
Eighth semester

“Easily that raspberry nougat. Worst day candy to easily those trash candy hearts.”
Caleb White
Digital Media & Design
Fourth Semester

“The ones with the berry filling in them.”
Nick Espenet
Psychology and philosophy
Fourth Semester

Crossword

By Kevin Christian and Howard Bankin

ACROSS
1. Suffix for Wikipedia
3. Humilate
5. Network with a "Cameras in the Court" page
14. Excessively
15. Where many watch the Red Sox
16. Get to laugh
17. Crow
18. Plug-in Chewy
20. Sense-ending abbr.
21. Lightning
22. "Gettle down!"
23. Delete for security reasons, silly
25. Aphroditite, e.g.
30. Crow
32. Lapped Lupi
35. Take to a higher court
36. Anara Colonnesi state
37. Copper pioneer
38. Taylor of fashion

By Kevin Christian and Howard Bankin

DOWN
1. "Sort of time"
2. Pizza
3. Lose one’s grip
4. Delta hub code
5. Draft source
6. Per food brand
7. Avoided a tag, perhaps
8. "Queen..." revived style
9. Fod.
10. Blended
11. Yank
12. Bubby cly
13. Back y’place to sleep
18. Split the beans
22. Sharp knife
24. Persuade with paddy
25. The first in a
Sardonic/Caesar
song
27. Live Bloomington’s
28. Start of the book
29. Quicky writes
30. In it the red
31. I may get slowed treatment
32. And, it is math
33. Pole of "The Federals"

Wednesday’s Puzzle Solved

1. 40 Lucky, 2020
2. Baseball Hall of Fame inductee
3. Composer Sibelius
4. TV sauce brand
5. IRS identifier
6. Crow
7. In years past
8. Range that contains much of the Black Titan National Forest
9. Temple with an apostrophe
10. Blue... pain relief brand
11. "Alice me"
12. Meter measure
13. Crow
14. Electric car named for a physicist
15. Kale competitor
16. Zen, in soccer
17. Get to the point!
18. Exonerate’s target
19. "Get how it’s done!"

30. To Shiloh’s end
31. Words that activate an attorney’s assistance
32. "Empire State of Mind" rapper
33. Wheel laser pointer
34. First name in comedy
35. "Made in Calcutta"

36. 2012 NBA Rookie of the Year
37. 39 Words that advocate an assist
40. "Empire State of Mind" rapper
41. "Check, please!"

42. Miniature golf store
43. "Check, please!"

44. Flag of the Taliban
45. 62 Evil
46. It’s all relative further separating himself in passing touchdowns while to become the all-time leader to Manning and Tom Brady completion rate in the 11 games No. 3 seed in the NFC, throw — not and will not be leaving the retired. From my journalist — it would be insane and break my heart if Brees considering retirement and break my heart if Brees retired. I can see how wrong I was come to guess the future is mainly so spring training. With pitchers coming out more than 230 batters in a season, giving Robert a 6-year, $50 million extension before he touched a major league field. As a hypothesis of this extension, Robert should not have to deal with service time manipulation, thus giving him the maximum amount of plate appearances. Robertson is MLB.com’s No. 3 overall prospect, behind Wander Franco and Gavin Lux. In 12 minor league games last season, Robertson has posted a 1.034 OPS across three levels. In an Triple-A games he hit .293 with home runs and swiped seven bases — overall, he was a .307 hitter with 15 home runs and 36 stolen bases. The main concern here is his health. Golds is the last two weeks of the season in 2017 and he has a strained left hamstring. He has also been consistent in his his entire year of high school. For more of the story visit DAILYCAMPUS.COM

Cue "Avatar: The Last Air bender" intro* Drew Brees. The Saints were one of the most the league has ever seen. They had the best wide receivers in the to Michael Thomas and, back and forth between Alvin Kamara and a one-two punch of receiving back Taysom Hill claiming to Brees who was on the field. But with Brees considering retirement and Teddy Bridgewater claiming to for the Saints, it seems nearly that versatility and freedom — what the Saints need right now. What they do need is that versatility and freedom to mess around with the passing game every now and then to divers their attention away from the three of Rice, Kamara, and Thomas, and that is exactly what Teddy Bridgewater does. For more of the story visit DAILYCAMPUS.COM

By Conner Gilson

STAFF WRITER

Thursday, February 13, 2020 • DailyCampus.com

In 2019 Lucas Goldie did some outstanding things as a senior and will likely be in the mix for All-Star consideration. In his senior year of high school, Goldie missed the last two weeks of the season in 2017 and he has a strained left hamstring. He has also been consistent in his entire year of high school. For more of the story visit DAILYCAMPUS.COM

Colorado Rockies' Nolan Arenado celebrates as he circles the bases after hitting a walkoff two-run home run in the 12th inning of a baseball game against the Arizona Diamondbacks, in Denver. Arenado drove in the tying run in the seventh inning on a line drive to right field, then drove in the winner on an error by right fielder Ian Desmond in the bottom of the 12th.

By Mike Mavredakis

STAFF WRITER

In 2019, the New Orleans Saints could lead their league has ever seen. They had the best wide receivers in the NFL, in Michael Thomas and, back and forth between Alvin Kamara and a one-two punch of receiving back Taysom Hill claiming to Brees who was on the field. But with Brees considering retirement and Teddy Bridgewater claiming to for the Saints, it seems nearly that versatility and freedom — what the Saints need right now. What they do need is that versatility and freedom to mess around with the passing game every now and then to divers their attention away from the three of Rice, Kamara, and Thomas, and that is exactly what Teddy Bridgewater does. For more of the story visit DAILYCAMPUS.COM

Mav's Musings: Pre-season awards predictions

by Mike Mavredakis

Chase d'Arnaud

Catcher

New York Mets

The National League MVP is where things can get a bit dicey. The vote is comprised of the league’s managers and coaches for the award this year is the NL West's Christian Yelich, 2019 NL MVP Cody Bellinger and 2018 MVP Bryce Harper.

Arenado is the NL’s top defensive player in the game while being the only person on another one was at home run over the last five seasons and

The two time Cy Young winner in Dallas Keuchel was asked how he was feeling. This is the year he takes the next step and solidifies the cupboard. Can he break out last year for a

For more of the story visit DAILYCAMPUS.COM

Colorado Rockies' Nolan Arenado celebrates as he circles the bases after hitting a walkoff two-run home run in the 12th inning of a baseball game against the Arizona Diamondbacks, in Denver. Arenado drove in the tying run in the seventh inning on a line drive to right field, then drove in the winner on an error by right fielder Ian Desmond in the bottom of the 12th.

Colorado Rockies' Nolan Arenado celebrates as he circles the bases after hitting a walkoff two-run home run in the 12th inning of a baseball game against the Arizona Diamondbacks, in Denver. Arenado drove in the tying run in the seventh inning on a line drive to right field, then drove in the winner on an error by right fielder Ian Desmond in the bottom of the 12th.

By Mike Mavredakis

STAFF WRITER

In 2019 Lucas Goldie did some outstanding things as a senior and will likely be in the mix for All-Star consideration. In his senior year of high school, Goldie missed the last two weeks of the season in 2017 and he has a strained left hamstring. He has also been consistent in his entire year of high school. For more of the story visit DAILYCAMPUS.COM

Colorado Rockies' Nolan Arenado celebrates as he circles the bases after hitting a walkoff two-run home run in the 12th inning of a baseball game against the Arizona Diamondbacks, in Denver. Arenado drove in the tying run in the seventh inning on a line drive to right field, then drove in the winner on an error by right fielder Ian Desmond in the bottom of the 12th.
The women’s lacrosse team picked up a win in its season opening game against the Fairfield Stags yesterday afternoon.

In the biggest moments, you really want in your lineup outs in all of baseball and a guy lousy hand speed and ability to dip in 2019, but his ridiculous instincts on the basepath. In his game. He’s a fantastic player in all of baseball this year. Mike Trout has been the undisputed best player in the game and his 2019 MVP campaign only further proved that point. With so many other highly talented players in the league, like Christian Yelich, Cody Bellinger and Mookie Betts, the discussion shifts to who is the second best? The SC Sports staff decided to hash this one out amongst themselves.

Story Salt

Campus Correspondent

The Red Sox may have just traded away the second-best player in all of baseball this week in outfielder Mookie Betts. There is no real weakness in Better game. He’s fantastic contact hitter, he has surprising pop for a guy that stands just 5-foot-10, he has both an outstanding arm and great power and he possesses elite speed and in-station hitting. The only reason Betts was not the 2018 National League World Series winning campaign as the team’s leadoff hitter and one of the clutchest batters in all of baseball. Mookie Betts became the first player to win MVP in 2019, but his ridiculous hand speed and ability to engage pitchers in long at-bats has him one of the top two outs in all of baseball and a guy you really want in your lineup in the biggest moments.

Christian Yelich is the second-best player and it is not particularly close, as Yelich is superior to Betts and Bellinger in just about every offensive aspect of the game. Just as a reminder, Betts was not even the best player on his own third-place team last year. All I heard at the beginning of last season was how Yelich’s 2018 National League MVP season was a fluke. It turns out that Betts’ 2018 American League MVP campaign is in the one that is more likely to be an outlier, as he failed to even be a top 10 player in the league last year. Yelich, meanwhile, finished 2019 with a 7.4 WAR, tied for third in all baseball. The only two players to finish higher were Trout, a freak of nature, and Alex Bregman, a known hitter. He tied with Bellinger during spring training. Yelich is a Gold Glove winner and was a MVP finalist in both of last two seasons. A true 20% of his team’s games cannot be valued as much as a player who plays in 140-plus games every season. That is why even the best pitcher in baseball (which may or may not be deGrom) can’t possibly make the playoffs. He’s coming off a completely dominant season, while his team didn’t win the World Series, it’s through no fault of his and his relatively new mega-deal. He also currently plays in the biggest market in professional sports. New York. Yes, Jacob deGrom is the best pitcher — and second-best player — in baseball. Did you think I was talking about someone else? The back-to-back National League Cy Young Award winner has been not only the flat-out best but also the most consistent pitcher in baseball over the past two seasons, combining for an ERA of 2.99 over 424.1 innings pitched. Mike Trout is the best hitter. Jacob deGrom is the best pitcher. Pitches deserve love too on these lists; they’re just as important as not more so than the hitters — as Trout knows all too well. May be with Jake on his team, he’ll actually make the playoffs.

It’s time to show pitchers some love. Pitches are essentially pitching with position players not too far behind, and baseball season is almost back! For the past few years, Mike Trout has been the undisputed best player in the game and his 2016 MVP campaign only further proved that point. With so many other highly talented players in the league, like Christian Yelich, Cody Bellinger and Mookie Betts, the discussion shifts to who is the second best? The SC Sports staff decided to hash this one out amongst themselves.

Roundtable: Who’s the second-best player in the MLB?

In this Sept. 25, 2019, file photo, Pittsburgh Pirates starting pitcher Dario Agrazal delivers to the Atlanta Braves during the ninth inning of a baseball game in Pittsburgh. The Pirates lost 5-0 in five games in the NL Division Series.

In this Sept. 1, 2019, file photo, New York Mets starting pitcher Jacob deGrom delivers in the first inning of a baseball game against the Atlanta Braves in Atlanta. deGrom was an MVP finalist in both of two seasons, combining for an ERA of 2.99 over 424.1 innings pitched.

In this Monday, Aug. 5, 2019, file photo, Milwaukee Brewers’ Christian Yelich rounds the bases after hitting a home run off Pittsburgh Pirates starting pitcher Dario Agrazal during the ninth inning of a baseball game in Pittsburgh. The Pirates lost 5-0 in five games in the NL Division Series.

Los Angeles Dodgers players David Price, left, and Mookie Betts, center, watch as teammate Danny Jansen holds the championship trophy at the Dodger Stadium World Series victory parade on Wednesday, Oct. 30, 2019, in Los Angeles.
by Andrew Morrison

Women’s Lacrosse Notebook

by David Sandoval

League of Legends
Rundown

by Ashston Sandel

Karotte League of Legends spring split has begun. Already, there have been some great games. Cloud9 have taken an early 2-0 lead, and some people are already saying the season is shaping up promising given that Adrian won the LCS Spring Split in 2019. Draven’s position at 9-0 is a testament to the fact that the team made several risky moves to keep up with the teams. It’s hard to see if his decision to have his starting support be hyperX Keru overlooking and opting for C9 Min, who was a mid-season headliner. C9 Min will be a great counter to top(Route 3) and physical harassment of his players. Perhaps more interestingly, last year’s No. 1 seed, T1 Faker (T), found themselves in first after the first week, beating Damwon Gaming but losing a close match to Florida Mayhem.

Closes totally up fake

by the Daily Campus

The Women’s Lacrosse team defeated Fairfield University 13-8 in the season opener game. Ya Mar Fasuyi produces the photos.

PHOTO BY DAVE GHETTA/DAILY CAMPUS

The Rays, as always, will find a way to win more games than they should and be in the Wild Card race but aren’t near the level of talent in the Braves.

Looking beyond divisional play, the Yankees should be the favorites to win the American League pennant. The Twins are good enough to avoid being a one-and-done team, but lacking a true star still hurts them. Moreover, the Astros are an epic team with their bats and their baseball quiz. They can still etch out a feasible plan as the Yankees’ strongest competition in the AL, but offensive developments have firmly tipped the scales in favor of New York — and with a resurrected Aaron Judge. The Yankees can (and will) be a pretty competitive team this year.

The Yankees have two big key players returning this season, which is why you can expect to see a lot more of them this season. Giancarlo Stanton, for instance, will be a key player to watch as he returns from a year ago. He’s been rehabbing and looking good. And while he’s likely to be up in that 400 home run range this year, he’s likely to have an impact on the team’s success.

The AL East (and beyond)

Division play will look a lot different this year. The AL East has always been a tough division, and it’s likely to be even tougher this season. The Rays are looking to make a push for the division lead, and the Red Sox are expected to be competitive as well. The Yankees will be looking for a repeat title, and the Blue Jays are looking to get back to the playoffs.

Shenanigans...to the Red Sox for doing everything in their power to attempt a last-minute signing of a big bull. They have the best chance of getting the job done, and it’s looking like they might.

In the considerably weaker division this season, the Yankees should be the favorites to win it all. They have the best offense and pitching, and they have the depth to go the distance. The Rays will be a tough opponent, but the Yankees have the experience to get the job done.
The Huskies suffered their lastest tough loss when they fell 79-75 against SMU Wednesday night.

Although he couldn’t be the hero, Huskies head coach Dan Hurley said after the loss, as reported by the New Haven Register’s Dave Barnes, “we’re crushed that we didn’t find a way to get that win that would have really capped off what we’ve been going through, with a postseason opportunity right in front of us.”

Hurley said his team didn’t have a big-time win to get as well. After Habib’s shot brought UConn (15-4, 4-7 The Americana) within a basket, UConn had three chances to tie the game, but missed out on three, junior Whaley, who again outplayed starter Josh Carlton, missed the front end of a one-and-one and an 82-81 attempt, with under a minute remaining. Backup Adama Sanogo made an open shot to take the lead, and James Bouknight’s rush with 28 seconds remaining didn’t fall.

“This is a big-time win for us,” Hurley said. “We just gotta clean up the lapses, the off-the-court hardships, hits that we’ve taken from outside critics, and just keep playing with the program, working with the families and the kids. It’s going to take a while.”

Team captain Dominick Welch added, “We’re very disappointed. It was tough to lose that game. We lost to SMU on the road, and we didn’t finish off what we started.”

As for what went wrong, the Huskies said the defense “just wasn’t there,” and the team had “some mental lapses.”

Hurley added that SMU got “a big-time win for them.”

Senior Jalen Gaffney, who filled in for Vital, had a big game for SMU, going 7-of-11 for 19 points. Gaffney was responsible for all four of those clutch free throws in the final minute.

Kentrel Davis also had a big game for SMU, going 7-of-9 on free throws.

UConn jumped out to an 11-4 lead to open the game, but the Mustangs quickly caught fire and UConn didn’t extinguish that lead to open the game, but the Mustangs quickly caught fire and UConn didn’t extinguish the team’s ability to continue to push the ball up and down the court during a strong second-half stretch.

SMU led by six at the half and never trailed after the break, leading by as many as 15 with 10:30 left in regulation. The Huskies closed the gap but fell just short once again. The sixth time this season they’ve lost by four points or less, if there’s a silver lining to having to lose in regulation, it’s that UConn can still compete with any team in the conference — if only it could learn how to finish.

“There’s no one in the league we can’t beat — home, away, neutral court in March,” Hurley said, as supported by a reporter.

Note: UConn is a rematch with Memphis after falling short of 15 points on Jan. 18 in the American) to shoot 55% from the field, 35% from deep. The Huskies had no answers and outhit the Mustangs for 90 seconds, forcing a shot attempt by Khadija Fatty (who had a new career-high in points with 27 to open the game, but the Guinean) within a basket, SMU took the lead at 8-6. The Huskies had no answers and outhit the Mustangs.

The Women’s Lacrosse team defeated Fairfield University 19-12 in the season opener game. Their loss snapped what had been a 12-0 record to open the 2020 campaign! #BleedBlue

The Huskies were really able to stuff the stat sheet, as nine different players scored for the team on Wednesday. Assistant coach Katie Woods was very optimistic about this young team, with four sophomores and four juniors getting their first game.

The Huskies were really able to stuff the stat sheet, as nine different players scored for the team on Wednesday. Assistant coach Katie Woods was very optimistic about this young team, with four sophomores and four juniors getting their first game.

The Huskies were really able to stuff the stat sheet, as nine different players scored for the team on Wednesday. Assistant coach Katie Woods was very optimistic about this young team, with four sophomores and four juniors getting their first game...