LAUMEIER SCULPTURE PARK ANNOUNCES OVERVIEW OF 2023 INITIATIVES,
INCLUDING EXHIBITIONS, IN RESIDENCE PROGRAMS, AND EVENTS

(St. Louis, MO) - Laumeier Sculpture Park is proud to present a full-slate of exhibitions, educational offerings, public programs, and events in 2023. These initiatives will support the Park’s mission of engaging the community through art and nature as well as their commitment to being a welcoming and inclusive space for creative self-expression, life-long learning, and social gathering.

2023 Exhibitions
In 2023, Laumeier will present temporary exhibitions that showcase the Park’s dedication to working with local, national, and international artists who represent a range of cultural backgrounds and ages.

The year will launch with Yayoi Kusama’s (b. 1929) Narcissus Garden, on view February 11 - May 14 in the Aronson Fine Arts Center's Whitaker Foundation Gallery. This fully immersive exhibition and sculptural installation will invite visitors to traverse the pathways of nearly 1,000 mirrored spheres placed throughout the gallery. The noteworthy and historically important work is a prime example of Kusama’s signature motifs of repetition and mirroring to create a sense of infinite space. As the title suggests, the installation presents itself as a human made garden, embracing the inherent narcissism in the viewer’s desire to see themselves reflected within it. A reserved timed entry will be required to view Narcissus Garden throughout its run; reservation details will be announced soon.

Laumeier’s fall exhibition features St. Louis-based artist Vaughn Davis Jr. (b. 1995) in his first solo museum exhibition, on view August 26 - December 17. Davis’ work involves ripping, tearing, and draping pigmented canvases to transcend traditional notions of painting and push them into the realm of shape-shifting objects. Davis will also create two new flags for Laumeier’s Northern Grove flagpole. With these site-responsive flags, Davis will enter into a collaboration with nature, as his initial manipulation of the materials will be further subjected to the unpredictability of the weather and the forces of the wind.
Exhibition-related programs will be announced over the next several months.

2023 In Residence Programs
Laumeier’s Visiting Artist In Residence program creates an opportunity for accomplished artists from outside the region to conduct research, meet St. Louis community members, and explore issues of importance to this region. Each year, the Visiting Artist In Residence program showcases foreign-born artists based in the United States, which allows Laumeier to present a globally-inflected program and highlight the many cultural contributions of immigrant artists.

This year’s Visiting Artists In Residence are Pittsburgh-based Lenka Clayton and Phillip Andrew Lewis. Clayton and Lewis will be debuting a new outdoor sculpture titled Permanent Flying Kite, a soaring diamond kite affixed to a hill in Laumeier’s outdoor galleries that will appear to be in perpetual flight (on view August 26 - December 17). During their residency, Clayton and Lewis will develop several programs inspired by their installation, including a collaborative kite fly open to all Park visitors.

Since 2012, Laumeier has also designated an annual Cultural Thinker In Residence to develop programs that encourage interdisciplinary learning. Laumeier’s 2023 Cultural Thinker In Residence is AK Brown - The Fashion Connector. Brown is a St. Louis-based fashion innovator who uses her platform to educate audiences through services, insight, and connection. As a nine-year industry professional, Brown has grown her following around her expertise in blogging, styling, product development, public relations, business, and brand development. She will work with Laumeier throughout the year to create digital content and programs that will help connect Laumeier’s 2023 exhibitions and initiatives to a wider-range of St. Louis residents.

In February, Laumeier will select its two Community Artists In Residence for 2023. This program provides opportunities for local artists to expand their practice and engage with the community through workshops, events, and discussions. Each Community Artist In Residence will design and facilitate activities and programs. The application deadline for the Community Artist program is February 3, 2023. Interested artists can learn more and apply at www.laumeier.org/community-artist.
