In the Loop

The Revolution in Food & Agriculture

February 2017

The industrial, geo-political and socio-economic forces that shape consumer choice in food selection are very powerful. When calibrated towards positive outcomes, these forces could transform the health of both people and planet. Our February issue of In the Loop features a selection of recent articles that present challenges of the current system and highlight some of the exciting shifts underway to a new potential paradigm where corporate strategy, technology and government programs direct consumers to healthy choices. From the concept of "food as medicine" pushing further into the mainstream, to industry's opportunity to revolutionize access to healthy food for America's most vulnerable, we're experiencing what could blossom into the great re-calibration of our domestic and global food system.

Explore our selection of articles below for details on these recent developments and topics.
