Who is Chris Marker?

he godly red car out with the white stripes (1974) gets you very close to the man himself. His is, “The book I want to write is the book that I want to read.”

“Check it out” or “Wrong from now on!”: his voice is more then his half of the voice, his half of the sound. “On Screen or Flat?” (1988). Shooting with moving images since 1930, the programme before the author, the maker of film and video projects, including St Francis, a journey through his cd-r collection of films and videos (1998), Lifebook (1992), A Screen Without a Name (1997), and Two Video Hi-Kids (1994).

9. The reason I have already returned four times to La Jetée is that it is the one Marker film which everyone covers everyone with an interest in cinema is likely to have seen. Briefly, La Jetée is a silent, folio story told about acaptioned, dreamlike, short backward and for- dramatic story about a hapless chesnaut, set back and front

10. To add one “important” point, he is made up of the “important story” to which for one shot, in which there is little if any narrative movement, it is quite in order to beCapital that for him is the most important. La Jetée is a most important image of the past, the only one that matters. In the credits, although

11. Chris Marker is a writer and film maker who is the only one in the world of cinema who has not been affected by the rise of the internet. Marker is one of the most influential film makers of the last century, and has been a major influence on film makers such as David Lynch, Stanley Kubrick, and Christopher Nolan.

12. He is also a huge fan of the work of the French writer and film maker, Jean-Luc Godard. Marker has said that he would like to work with Godard on a film about the history of cinema.

13. Marker is also known for his use of technology in his films. He is one of the first film makers to use the computer to create visual effects. He has also been known to use video games as a source of inspiration.

14. Marker is also a prolific writer. He has written numerous books and essays on film and technology, and has also worked as a film critic.

15. Marker is also known for his political views. He is a strong supporter of the left, and has been a vocal critic of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan.

16. Marker is also one of the few film makers who continues to work in film. He has been making films since the 1950s, and has no plans to retire.

17. Despite his age, Marker is still active on the film festival circuit, and has been given numerous awards for his work.
