

Privacy Policy

At New Roots Immigration, we take our clients privacy seriously.

We do not release information other than use it for it's intended purpose which is to further your Canadian Immigration case. Third parties where there is a direct derivative use may also receive material from us - such as translators for your documents.

We do not sell your contact information or name to anyone or any organization.
Consultations with us are always confidential.