THREE'S COMPANY Local chamber music ensemble Trio Céleste (trioceleste.com) is hitting all the right notes this month in celebration of its five-year anniversary. Come April 15, pianist Kevin Kwan Loucks, violinist Iryna Krechkovsky and cellist Ross Gasworth will take the stage at New York City's Carnegie Hall for a debut performance (tickets $40, chambermusicoc.org). Joining them onstage: guest artists from around the world who are affiliated with Chamber Music | O.C., a nonprofit helmed by the trio and violist Michelle Gasworth (Ross' wife) that promotes the art through performances, education and community outreach. Musicians from as far away as New Zealand are flying to the renowned concert hall to be part of the evening's Mendelssohn string octet, while a world premiere composed by Paul Dooley will feature Trio Céleste with three students from the foundation's educational division, plus five guest artists. "We are cultivating the next generation of young musicians, so we thought it would be a great opportunity for some of them to collaborate with us on the world's most important stage," says Loucks. If you miss the students at Carnegie Hall, you can catch them at Chamber Music | O.C.'s final showcase of the season, the Rising Stars Recital, June 11. We like the sound of that! —Allison Hata
