

Catalyzing Climate Change Progress on Campus

A convening of student environmental leaders

Longhaul Farm, Garrison, NY
Saturday, April 1, 2017

Agenda

- 10:00am: Welcome, coffee and light breakfast
- 10:30-11:30am: Bevis Longstreth is a retired partner, Debevoise & Plimpton, Reagan appointee to SEC Commission, and former adjunct professor, Columbia Law School. Bevis will discuss his past experience with divestment campaigns and how to make a convincing argument to Boards of Trustees for the economic and fiduciary duty case for divestment.
- 11:30-12:30pm: Elizabeth Kahn is the NorthEast Organizer for Our Climate and Put a Price on It. Lizzy will be discussing the Put a Price on It campaign, the importance of carbon pricing, and also touch upon her role as a student leader in Syracuse University's successful $1 Bn divestment.
- 12:30-1:00pm: Jason Angell is the Executive Director of the Ecological Citizen's project. Jason will facilitate a discussion about how divestment and carbon pricing efforts might work together.
- 1:00-2:00pm: Lunch and farm tour.
- 2:00-4:00pm: Facilitated group discussion. Student leader report backs on current campus initiatives, progress and challenges. In addition, we'll hear from members of Barnard Divest about their recent successful divestment win based on a new strategy. Our goal is to explore ways strengthen campus climate change strategies moving forward.
