

Carpenter's Son

Written by Adam Land and Melanie Disa
© 2015 Adam Land and Melanie Disa

Can You pick up the pieces, we pray to You Jesus
Make us one in the body, for now and all time
Can You raise up a shelter where the weary are welcome
And we worship You Jesus, all blessed and lifted high

We love the Carpenter's son
You mend the broken parts, restore all that's lost into one
We praise the merciful son
You mend the broken hearts, restore what's been lost into one

Can You pick up the pieces, we pray to You Jesus
Make us one in the spirit, for now and all time Though the burden is heavy, from the sins of so many Still the Cross of salvation will be blessed and lifted high

We love the Carpenter's son
You mend the broken parts, restore all that's lost into one
We praise the merciful son
You mend the broken hearts, restore what's been lost into one

We love, we love

You came as a carpenter's son to build your merciful kingdom to remake what was broken in the light that has no end
You're the light that has no end

We love the Carpenter's son
You mend the broken parts, restore all that's lost into one
We praise the merciful son
You mend the broken hearts, restore what's been lost into one