Lessons

Be sure to arrive for your lesson on time or a little early, with all your books & materials.

Parents are encouraged to attend the lesson. Progress can be best facilitated when the parent: (a) knows what the student is responsible for each week, (b) supervises the home practice, and (c) reads the literature.*

Practicing

Developing a regular, daily habit of spending time with your instrument is the key to success. Scheduled time needs to be purposefully set aside on a daily basis.

It is effective for students to have a practice space, devoted entirely to their time with the instrument.

A small amount of practice with mental focus is superior to a large amount of practice when the mind is not engaged. The student should work to enjoy the practice as much as possible, consciously noting improvement.

Payments & Cancellations

Private lessons are $30 per half hour, $55 per hour. Payment is due for the entire month at the first lesson of each month. Individual payment plans are available upon request.

There is a $25 registration fee for new students, and is good for the entire family.

If you cannot make a lesson, at least 24 hours' notice is required. Makeup lessons will be offered if enough notice is given. No calls/no shows will forfeit the lesson time and payment will not be refunded. Consistent disregard of this particular policy may result in the lesson time being given to another student.

Please don't hesitate to call during the week with any questions that may come up.

Thank You,

Luke Trimble
