Non - Solicitation Policy

Confluence Philanthropy is not a funding organization, nor do we channel philanthropic capital directly to discreet individuals, investment opportunities, or funds.

The Practitioners’ Meeting is intended to serve as a private space for foundation leaders and their advisors to meet and to strategize about the best use of assets in fulfilling their organizational mission. In order to retain the integrity of this convening we must maintain a strict policy of non-solicitation during and after the event. We ask that advisors and grantees do not solicit Practitioners unless invited.

Those who violate this policy will not be invited to participate in future meetings. Thank you for your support in protecting the intent of the Practitioners Meeting.

ABOUT US

CONFLUENCE PHILANTHROPY

Confluence Philanthropy supports and catalyzes the work of private, public and community foundations, individual donors, and investment advisors who are committed to moving philanthropy towards mission-aligned investment. At our 5th Annual Practitioners Gathering, philanthropic attendees represent a network of approximately $80 billion in asset under management. Confluence’s core membership represents approximately $34 billion in philanthropic assets, within a wider network of $134 billion in endowed funds. Together, this group significantly influences the field of impact investing.

Confluence is an international organization with the majority of our members based in the U.S., and with a handful in Europe, Canada, and Mexico. Our members represent a diversity of institutions, charitable asset types, personal and professional roles, and programmatic missions but they all share a commitment to a vision of mission-aligned philanthropy.

From its annual conference, to webinars and trainings, to working groups focused on specific areas of investment and change strategies, Confluence’s programs translate learning and connection into concrete action. We promote mission alignment through a variety of asset classes, investment vehicles and advocacy strategies, including cash, proxy voting, shareholder engagement, program-related investing, screening public equities, and private equity.

Our offices are based in New York City at The Rockefeller Brothers Fund and in downtown Oakland, California.

“THERE COMES A TIME WHEN ONE MUST TAKE A POSITION THAT IS NEITHER SAFE, NOR POLITIC, NOR POPULAR, BUT HE MUST TAKE IT BECAUSE CONSCIENCE TELLS HIM IT IS RIGHT.”

ADVISORS BAY MEMBERSHIP

BECOME AN ADVISORS BAY MEMBER

Through our Advisors Bay Membership Program, philanthropic investment advisors committed to mission alignment participate directly in Confluence, helping to break down walls between funding institutions and impact investment field, leading to new strategies and opportunities.

Advisors Bay uniquely showcases the leading investment advisors, money managers, investment consultants, and asset managers in mission-related investing. Advisors play visible leadership roles in helping to develop the content for more than 20 Confluence convenings annually; they serve as resources to the Confluence community, industry spokespersons, and partners in leading philanthropy.

ADVISORS BAY MEMBER BENEFITS

• Firm’s brand and summary description listed in the public area of the Confluence website
• Recognition among an elite group of the top firms in impact-investing
• Participation in Confluence working groups
• Opportunity to propose annual conference sessions
• Subscription to Advisors’ Bay Listserve
• Possible invitations for co-branding opportunities
• Larger sponsorship opportunities
• Potential speaking opportunities at Confluence events (not guaranteed)

HOW ARE ADVISORS CHosen?

Advisors are chosen to join Advisors’ Bay through a peer-referred process led by a Board appointed Membership Committee. Each Advisor must hold at minimum a three-year track record in mission-related investing and have three referrals from foundations or other members of our network (e.g., investment advisors to our member foundations, individual donors, family offices, etc.). They must then complete an application form to be reviewed by the Confluence Board of Directors. All Advisors are requested to make an annual donation of $2,500 (for-profit organizations) or $1000 (nonprofit organizations), which guarantees and includes one complimentary registration to the Annual Practitioners’ Meeting.

PROTECTING OUR MEMBERS PRIVACY

Advisors’ Bay is not a ‘pay to play’ service. Confluence will not under any circumstances share the contacts of our philanthropic members with Advisors. If a member would like to connect with an Advisor they must do so directly. Furthermore, Advisors are promised neither speaking engagements at our events nor access to any of the funder-only areas of our website. Advisors are encouraged to share their research and publications, which they may post to the listserve or share with Confluence staff to post in the library.
JOIN THE PRACTITIONERS PROGRAM

Confluence provides value to a wide spectrum of members including those freshly committed to mission alignment, those working incrementally within institutions, and those who have achieved 100% mission alignment who seek to exercise sector-wide leadership. Practitioner Members are wide-ranging from small, focused, family foundations to some of the largest endowments with a vision to leverage capital for multiple funding themes.

Membership to the Practitioners’ Program is open to philanthropic organizations and individuals who seek to deepen their practice in mission-related investing by working collaboratively and strategically with other grantmakers. Practitioners have general clarity about their MRI goals alongside organizational support, or a strong personal commitment, for their objectives.

WHY JOIN THE PRACTITIONERS PROGRAM?

Practitioners look to join in a peer-to-peer community through which they can share knowledge, construct ideas, deepen best practices, and foster collaboration.

PRACTITIONERS PROGRAM GOALS

• To build a community of experienced practitioners in mission-related investing
• To increase the capacity of Confluence practitioners through technical assistance, peer-to-peer learning, and collaboration
• To accelerate the field of mission-related investing by fostering systemic thinking, effective partnerships, and innovation within philanthropy

BENEFITS OF PRACTITIONERS MEMBERSHIP

• One complimentary registration to the Annual Practitioners’ and discounted participation for additional representatives
• Priority to technical assistance provided by Confluence staff and advisors
• A community of practice that shares costs in building and maintaining collaborative funds
• Participation in member-initiated projects, working groups, and learning cohorts
• Invitations to Practitioner-level learning and strategy meetings
• Access to a host of Confluence resources and publications, as well as an extensive resource library in impact and responsible investing
• Networking opportunities to serve as spokespersons for the field at Confluence co-sponsored events

BECOME A MEMBER OF THE PRACTITIONERS’ PROGRAM!

Participation in the Practitioners’ Program is based on a sliding scale by organizational asset size. Foundations and individual donors are welcome to apply for membership by contacting CEO, Dana Lanza.

“THERE’S NO TURNING BACK... WE WILL WIN. WE ARE WINNING BECAUSE OURS IS A REVOLUTION OF MIND AND HEART.”

– CESAR CHAVEZ
JOIN THE LEADERSHIP OF CONFLUENCE PHILANTHROPY

Are you excited by the idea of building the field or mission-related investing? Would you like to expand your sphere to include more colleagues with like-minded ideas about philanthropy? Then why not join a Confluence Membership Committee?

Confluence members represent a diversity of institutions, personal and professional roles, and programmatic missions but they all share a commitment to a vision of mission-aligned philanthropy. From our annual conference, to webinars and trainings, to working groups focused on specific areas of investment and change strategies, Confluence’s programs translate learning and connection into concrete action.

The Confluence Board of Directors is currently recruiting members’ participation in the following organizational committees:

- Board of Directors
  - Conference Committee – Boston 2016
  - Membership Committee

Would you like to recommend yourself or a colleague to serve and help us to lead Confluence into the future? If so, please let us know!

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

By providing vision, leadership, and accountability the Board of Directors plays a vital role in ensuring that Confluence continues to produce programs and services that meet the needs of its members and builds the field of mission-related investing. The Board works closely with the Confluence CEO and staff to ensure the operational impact and financial integrity of the organization. Board Members may serve two, three-year terms. Confluence Board Service generates significant rewards. Board members have the opportunity to:

- Broaden their range of awareness and knowledge of the field of mission-related investing
- Provide valuable service to help strengthen and broaden the impact of Confluence Philanthropy’s programs
- Assist in building the field of mission-related investing by developing strategic initiatives and taking on leadership roles to further communication and collaboration
- Develop beneficial and enjoyable relationships with philanthropic peers outside of their own programmatic and geographic scope

Participation on the Board of Directors is eligible for Funders whom are Members in good standing only at this time. To learn more about joining the Board of Directors please feel free to reach out to any of the current Board Members, or Dana Lanza, our CEO.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

The 2016 Practitioners Meeting will be in Boston, Massachusetts. Conference Committee members will assist in designing the plenaries, assisting in the selection of speakers, and conducting outreach. The time commitment includes two group teleconferences and communication by email and phone as needed. Each Committee Member will be asked to identify a component of the conference that they would like to help with, and to assist in stewardship. This is a great way to become more involved with Confluence while meeting peers in the mission-related investing community. Service on the Conference Committee is eligible for Funders only at this time. The CEO selects Conference Committee Members.

THE MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE

The Membership Committee advises the Confluence Board of Directors in outreach, cultivation and review of Membership applications from un-endowed foundations, individual donors, and applicants to the Advisors Membership category. The Committee meets twice annually by phone as a group and collaborates strategically with the Confluence CEO throughout the year. Funders and Advisors whom are Members in good standing are eligible to serve on the Committee. The Board of Directors appoints Committee Members.

9:00 AM – 9:20 AM
Introduction To Localism
CALLIPPE

Localism is about building communities that are healthy, diverse, and sustainable—communities backed by local economies comprised of place-based businesses and supported by people invested in this vision. Localism is about building a new, more equitable economy, an economy that is resilient to climate change and conscious of the importance of ecological care and stewardship. Localism supports, rather than exploits, people and resources. The goal is real prosperity for all. In this session, noted thought leader Michael Shuman will elucidate the underpinnings of localism and share the ways in which funders can help build local economies through impact-investing and systems change.

Welcome:
Ali Long, President, The Springcreek Foundation

Keynote Speaker:
Michael H. Shuman, Author

9:00 AM – 10:20 AM
Introduction to Structures in Mission Related Investing
SURFBIRD B

What does a mission-related investment program look like? This session will explore the steps investors take to design and implement mission-aligned portfolios, and the considerations presented along the way. Beginning with investment policy statement development and then diving into the various investment structures available across different asset classes, we will take a complete look at the portfolio construction process for mission-related investors and how it can be customized to make sense for you.

Trainers:
Pamela Mang, Board President, Jessica’s Love Foundation
Jeff Scheer, Client Advisor, Federal Street Advisors

PRACTITIONERS INSTITUTE

9:20 AM – 10:20 AM
Why Local Matters
CALLIPPE

In this session we will explore the unique opportunities that place-based investing offers impact-investors. We’ll examine the ways in which place-based investing enables a whole-systems approach to addressing environmental and social problems and discuss why this approach is important.

Speakers:
Kesha Cash, Director of Investments, Impact America
Ali Long, President of the Board, The Springcreek Foundation
Asher Miller, Executive Director, Post Carbon Institute
Don Shaffer, President & CEO, RSF Social Finance

Moderator:
Pamela Mang, Board President, Jessica’s Love Foundation

10:20 AM – 10:30 AM
Break

10:30 AM – 11:30 AM
ABC’s of ESG
SURFBIRD B

Investors new to ESG and mission-investing can become confused and reluctant upon hearing the various terms, definitions, and branding strategies associated with the field. This session will encourage investors to begin by examining their own objectives and beliefs around mission, impact, and sustainability. Armed with the clarity of their convictions and a working knowledge of common approaches, investors can then “look under the hood” of available strategies and determine for themselves a suitable path to a mission-aligned investment program.

Trainer:
Laura Kunkemueller, Principal, Mercer

PRACTITIONERS INSTITUTE

10:30 AM – 11:30 AM
Introducing the 3 P’s: Types of Investment Vehicles
CALLIPPE

Public, private and philanthropic funding processes tend to operate from independent fiefdoms, even when working toward the same goals. A community investment ecosystem that enables these three sectors to collaboratively leverage their distinctive and additive roles as “impact investors” could enable creative new investment strategies and vehicles at the local level. This session explores advantages and restraints to working collaboratively across sectors, and ideas for how they can be reconciled.

Speakers:
Bonny Moellenbrock, Executive Director, Investors’ Circle
David Sand, Chief Investment Strategist, Community Capital Management

11:30 AM
Promoting Change Through Shareholder Engagement
SURFBIRD B

Effective shareholder engagement strategies can promote change in corporate practices that have direct impacts on environmental, social, and governance outcomes. This session will focus on how active ownership of shares can open up channels of communication with corporations, and how investment advisors can help to facilitate this process. Whether focusing on shares that are already owned, or on buying new shares for the express purpose of influencing behavior, shareholder engagement can be a powerful tool for helping asset owners to leverage their wealth for positive change.

Speakers:
Gun Denhart, Individual Donor
Brad Harrison, Mission Related Investment Analyst, Threshold Group
Maggie Kaplan, Donor & Executive Director, Invoking The Pause
Debra Wetherby, Chief Executive Officer, Shareholder and Wealth Manager Wetherby Asset Management

Moderator:
Liz Michaels, Chief of Staff, Aperio Group

1:45 PM
Promoting Transparency Through Collection & Publication of Impact Metrics
SURFBIRD B

Big data is on the rise, as are questions about what metrics to measure, the best methods of collection, and with whom data should be shared. There is a growing conversation among NGOs, philanthropy, and investors about the promotion of transparency between partners. Building on lessons learned by leaders in microfinance, social change, and impact-investing, NGOs are finding new ways to communicate metrics to investors, who are themselves rethinking the impact measurements they require from their partners. The Washington Post quoted Rebecca Thomas, VP of the Nonprofit Finance Fund: “The field is moving in the direction of collecting more data, but we tend to shy away from presenting it in public. It’s important to be clear about linkages between strategic goals, financial results, and social outcomes, and have the confidence to talk about them.” Panelists will share best practices for creating meaningful metrics, methods for incorporating data collection into business practices, and industry-wide movements for data sharing.

Speakers:
Evan Paul, Vice President, Products, Guidestar
Michael Slind, Senior Editor, Stanford Social Innovation Review
Andrea Woodside, Client Analyst, Imprint Capital

Building Local Economies Through Impact Investing
SURFBIRD A
(Open to all Pre conference attendees)

This workshop will provide an overview of some of the basic tenets of building local economies and the ways in which place-based investing can support these efforts. This is a great opportunity for those seeking to spend time in a small group setting with our speakers, three luminaries in the local economies movement. Questions to be addressed include: attributes of a local economy; systems change and building local economies; and what role Foundations play in supporting this movement. This is the place to bring your questions and ideas for deep group discussion.

Plenary: Revolutionary Voices: New Structures in Finance, Investment, and Thinking
CALLIPPE
What does it mean to be ‘Revolutionary’ in an age already so focused on disruption and innovation? Can Impact Investing transform main stream thinking from the mechanistic, transactional view of the world to one that embraces transparency, whole systems and the unpredictable nature of transformation? In this session we will hear from some of the early revolutionaries in the fields of responsible investing and impact investing. They will share their personal stories and reflect upon what they see as the current obstacles and the most exciting opportunities in these fields.

Speakers:
Geeta Aiyer, President and Founder, Boston Common Asset Management

1:30 PM
Financing the Clean Trillion: The Road to COP 2015
CALLIPPE FOYER
Join leading investors and grantmakers for a comprehensive discussion about pathways to reach the UNFCC’s call for a ‘Clean Trillion’ in investments to finance a global energy transition. The session begins with a grounding in the history of the UNFCC process and the important role played by grantmakers in building a movement around this effort. An update will be shared from the most recent international climate treaty meetings in New York and Peru in advance of the 2015 Summit in Paris. We will then move to a brief overview of the 100 Resilient Cities Collaborative, a philanthropic initiative to spur investment and policy making around urban resiliency by looking at the ways in which Bay Area cities are approaching this challenge. From there we will learn from seasoned investors about how to support the Clean Trillion goal by investing in public and private equity markets.

Speakers:
Ira Ehrenpreis, Managing Partner, DBL Partners
Peter Knight, Partner, Generation Investment Management
Marco Krapels, Investment Professional, Pegasus Capital Advisors, LP
Sandra Smithey, Environment Program Officer, Charles Stewart Mott Foundation

Water: The Ultimate Impact-Investment
SILVERSPOT
Investors are increasingly interested in achieving a social return on their investment as well as an environmental impact. Finding investments that reduce poverty, solve environmental problems, and produce a stable return can be challenging. Water is and will continue to be the ultimate impact-investment through both public markets and private equity. Explore how investment vehicles can be structured to give back and promote the needs outlined above.

Speakers:
Margaret Bowman, Deputy Director, Walton Family Foundation
Dr. Peter Gleick, President, Pacific Institute

Using Philanthropy to Build the Community Finance Sector
TIDEWATER A

Community Development Finance Institutions (CDFIs) are often locally-focused and have both technical expertise and deep bonds within the communities they serve. However, they may lack the strategic relationships or know-how to effectively engage with philanthropy or in the growing impact-investing field. In this session, funders will become familiar with the structure and purpose of CDFIs, and how they can be used as partners to support philanthropic goals. We will discuss the need to better understand and build the capacity of the CDFI sector. This session will provide an overview of the sector, a few examples of initiatives to strengthen areas of the CDFI sector, and routes for foundations to identify, assess, and build relationships with CDFIs.

Aligning the Capital Continuum to Build Resilient Food Systems
TIDEWATER B

How can we use impact investing to build a resilient food system across asset classes? What are the opportunities, risks, and trade-offs? Join us to learn from four different orientations and approaches to investing in food systems—a place-based Foundation initiative, east and west coast-based community finance institutions, and an investment management firm working in the global markets. This session will use case studies to illustrate ways in which we can finance a transition to more resilient food systems. The discussion will touch upon agriculture, fisheries, and the food supply chain.

Building Social Inclusivity for Maximum Impact
CALLIPPE

Achieving maximum impact requires that we prioritize and include those communities most in need of investment and jobs—communities historically largely comprised of low-income people and people of color. However, this task is not as easy as simply choosing a community on a map and swooping in with dollars. It requires knowledge about and sensitivity to the history and culture of a given community, as well as an assessment of that community’s capacity to absorb and deploy capital. As the global economy continues to expand with ever faster communications, more advanced technologies, and increasingly complex business networks, new and innovative opportunities for community investment have also emerged. This plenary discussion will explore how we can begin to build a truly inclusive impact-investing movement.

Morning Keynotes: These Times Are Changing
CALLIPPE

In 2008 the world began to change. At the time there were four major investment banks considered essential to the flow of capital, and within a week, the first major market crash in nearly a century alerted the public to the need for comprehensive change. These events opened our awareness, creating a space for discussion that challenges the public, private, and social systems that govern the U.S. and for new forms of investment to emerge. In this session we will engage with four movement builders from the fields of finance, climate and corporate accountability, healthcare, and social equity through a series of featured remarks. Each thought leader will provide a keynote to include audience discussion.

Alicia Garza, Special Projects Director, National Domestic Workers Alliance
Hazel Henderson, Founder and Author, Ethical Markets
Sandra Hernendez, President and CEO, The California Healthcare Foundation

Beyond Investment: The Argument for Place-Based Just Transition
SILVERSPOT

From the fossil fuel divestment movement to the new EPA Clean Power Plan, it’s clear that we are in a moment of historic transition. This transition is inevitable, but we will need to work hard to ensure that it is also both timely and just. In considering the role of investment capital in this transition, we must prioritize investment in the communities that are most familiar with the old energy economy. This session will use inspiring work from the coal fields of Eastern Kentucky as a case study to make three points: that place-based just transition work is critical, from both equity and movement-building perspectives; that investment in such work requires different forms of capital guided by a broad set of metrics; and that a strong partnership between investment and movement organizing—i.e., between economic power and political/cultural power—is essential.

Tales from the Fire: Lessons from Socially Responsible Investing
TIDEWATER B

Each year we draw lessons from the field by looking through a different lens in the wide world of mission-related investing. This year we’ll take a look back at over two decades of learning from the field of socially responsible investing (SRI). Initiated in support of the anti-apartheid movement, SRI was considered revolutionary by conventional finance up until the recent past. Early SRI managers will use the benefits of hindsight to reflect back on some critical mistakes that were made and money that was lost, and how they overcame these pitfalls to bring SRI into the mainstream. Join us for reflection and discussion with pioneers in the field of SRI, and let’s explore ways in which the newly growing field of impact investing might benefit from SRI’s Tales from the Fire.

Investing with a Human Rights Lens: Using Investor Power to Bring About Positive Change
CALLIPPE FOYER

How are funders, NGOs, and investor advisors ensuring that human rights are protected, promoted, and advocated for on behalf of vulnerable populations in the global South? Increasingly, investors are examining the content of their portfolios and bringing considerations of sustainability to bear in the selection, retention, and disposition of investments. This panel will bring together foundation and NGO staff and experts from public and private equity to discuss the use of human rights as a category of analysis in their due diligence, prioritization in their investments in companies, and as part of ensuring sustainable portfolio returns.

The Values Discussion Every Mission Investor Needs To Hear
VERBENA B

A growing creative tension in the discipline of values-aligned investing is the nuanced difference between the tried-and-true methodologies of SRI/ESG investing and direct investing for impact. This session offers a lively conversation on how theories of change can be expressed in a variety of approaches to investing, whether it be to hold the existing markets more accountable through values-aligned ESG methodologies, or to build a hoped-for innovative (or even disruptive) market through impact-investing strategies. How are these two differing investment and management strategies embodied in the investment advisory firms found across the spectrum of mission-related investing? Is one approach better than another? Does a choice really need to be made? We will bring some clarity to what it means to invest for change, in addition to investing in alignment with one’s values. While we may not reach any conclusions, the discussion will be illuminating and high-voltage—and all this jargon WILL be explained!

“I MUST BREAK AWAY AND GET OUT INTO THE MOUNTAINS TO LEARN THE NEWS.”
– JOHN MUIR
Mauricio Agudelo is a portfolio manager for Calvert Investments, and is responsible for monitoring credit, finding relative value opportunities, and trading different fixed income classes. Mr. Agudelo began with Calvert as a trading assistant, then transitioned to assistant portfolio manager in 2006. Prior to joining Calvert, Mr. Agudelo completed internships at the United States Department of Agriculture in 2002 and 2003. He received a BS in finance from the University of Maryland and attended Robert H. Smith School of Business, where he received citations in business culture and language with a concentration in Spanish.

Shelley Alpern is Director of Social Research & Shareholder Advocacy at Clean Yield Asset Management. She has worked in the field of sustainable and responsible investing for two decades, showing leadership on issues ranging from climate impacts to corporate political contributions and workplace equality. She broke new ground in shareholder advocacy by filing the first shareholder resolutions to address Canadian oil sands developments, the use of phthalates in cosmetics, and Chevron’s environmental liabilities in Ecuador. She has received the SRI Service Award and Silent Spring Institute’s Rachel Carson Award, as well as accolades from the Gay Financial Network and the magazines Fortune and The Advocate for her leadership in organizing to advance workplace equality for LGBT people. Shelley has served on many SRI committees and task forces over the years, and is currently a Board Member of both the Center for Political Accountability and Salem Alliance for the Environment.

Geeta Aiyer—CFA, President, and Founder of Boston Common Asset Management—combines training and experience in finance with passion for the environment and social justice. Since the firm’s inception in 2003, Geeta has led Boston Common—which now has over $2 billion in assets under management—in building a strong investment record and substantially improving the policies and practices of portfolio companies through shareholder engagement.

Doug Bauer is the Treasurer of Confluence Philanthropy’s board and Vice President and Executive Director of The Clark Foundation, which focuses on helping individuals lead independent and productive lives. Doug is also Executive Director of the Scriven and Fernleigh Foundations. He was a Senior Vice President with Rockefeller Philanthropy Advisors and led the organization’s Strategic Initiatives Team; a Vice President at Goldman Sachs and President of the Goldman Sachs Philanthropy Fund; Director of Community Partnership at SmithKline Beecham and Executive Director of the SmithKline Beecham Foundation, where he focused on community-based health care around the world; Program Officer for Culture at The Pew Charitable Trusts; and manager of the Scott Paper Company Foundation. He is an adjunct faculty member at the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia Business School, a graduate of Michigan State University, and holds an MS from Penn and an MJ from Temple University.

Andrew Behar is CEO of As You Sow, a nonprofit organization dedicated to increasing environmental and social corporate responsibility. Founded in 1992, As You Sow envisions a safe, just, and sustainable world in which environmental health and human rights are central to corporate decision making. The Energy, Environmental Health, Waste, Proxy Power, and Human Rights programs create industry-wide change through corporate dialogue, shareholder advocacy, coalition building, and innovative legal strategies. He brings over 30 years of experience as a Senior Executive and strategist in the clean-tech, communications, and life science sectors and has recently been elected to the US-SIF Board of Directors and Strategic Planning Committee.

Judith Bell is the president at PolicyLink, an independent, nonprofit resource for communities engaged with the federal Promise Neighborhoods program. She has been with PolicyLink since its founding in 1999; under her leadership it has developed into a national voice for access and opportunity for all people—particularly low-income people and communities of color. Bell was pivotal to the creation of the federal Promise Neighborhoods program and the development of the Promise Neighborhoods Institute at PolicyLink. In addition, she has led PolicyLink’s efforts to improve access to healthy food, including work on the national Healthy Food Financing Initiative. She leads PolicyLink’s involvement with the Convergence Partnership, a collaboration founded on the belief that health and place are inextricably linked. She is a regular speaker, trainer, and media voice on advancing equity. Prior to joining PolicyLink, Bell was director of the West Coast Regional Office of Consumers Union.

Aner Ben-Ami is Managing Director at Pi Investments, a single-family office committed to investing 100% of its assets in support of a more sustainable and just economy. Aner manages Pi’s direct investment portfolio and leads its effort to transition all assets to values-aligned investments. He is rethinking investment and ownership structures to better support long-term sustainable outcomes and align with values-driven businesses. Prior to joining Pi Investments, Aner was a project leader at the Boston Consulting Group. There he advised leading players in the cleantech space on issues including distributed generation, LED adoption, and smart grids. Earlier in his career, Aner focused on water, energy, and transportation projects in his work for Israel’s leading project finance and strategy consultancy. Aner holds an MBA from the Kellogg School of Management and a BA in Economics and History from Tel Aviv University. He served as an intelligence officer in the Israeli Defense Forces.

Emerson is widely published and has given presentations at conferences and professional meetings around the world, including the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland; the Clinton Global Initiative in New York City; and the Skoll World Forum in Oxford, England. He is Chief Impact Strategist for ImpactAssets, a nonprofit financial services firm; Senior Fellow at the Center for Social Investment, Heidelberg University; and has held faculty appointments with Harvard, Stanford, and Oxford business schools. Together with coauthor Antony Bugg-Levine, Emerson won the 2012 Nautilus Gold Book Award for Impact Investing: Transforming How We Make Money While Making a Difference.

Jeannine Esposito is Manager of Community Engagement for Self-Help Federal Credit Union and oversees strategic partnerships throughout its 22 branch California network. Self-Help FCU is one of the fastest growing community development credit unions in the country, serving 50,000 predominantly low-income members with responsible financial services. It is part of the larger Self-Help family of nonprofit community development finance organizations. During her time with Self-Help, Ms. Esposito has also worked in communications and development, and created a financial education program that includes individual credit coaching and a volunteer income tax assistance site. She has focused her career in nonprofit economic development and has worked with credit unions for 10 years. Prior to discovering credit unions she worked with an organization that assisted low-income women in starting their own businesses, a Latin American think tank, and an international microfinance advocacy group. She holds a BA in Spanish from Colgate University.

Patricia Farrar-Rivas is CEO, Chief Compliance Officer, and a founding principal of Veris Wealth Partners. She has been providing investment advisory and wealth management services since 1992, and is a principal consultant to the Envestnet Sustainability Platform and a member of both the Envestnet Advisory Board and the Standards Council for the Sustainable Accounting Standards Board. Prior to Veris, Patricia led the effort by Frank, Rimerman + Co. to launch its new investment advisory subsidiary, and co-founded Progressive Asset Management’s New York office. Earlier in her career, she worked with Veris co-founder Michael Lent and community leaders in Central America on economic development, local empowerment, and social justice. Upon realizing the degree to which the challenges they faced were embedded in economic factors, she turned her attention to advising asset owners on the potential impacts of their investments. She is a Certified Investment Management Analyst and a Certified Investment Strategist.

Todd Gartner is a Senior Associate for the World Resources Institute’s Food, Forests & Water Program. He run’s WRI’s Natural Infrastructure for Water project working with governments and businesses to invest in conserving and restoring forests, wetlands, and other ecosystems in order to secure freshwater supplies, reduce flood risks, and obtain other economic and social benefits. Todd works with a broad range of stakeholders including policy makers, development banks, national and municipal level government agencies, multinational corporations, and civil society to achieve water and land use objectives across the globe. His work focuses on identifying and mapping water and ecosystem risk relevant to downstream beneficiaries, making the financial and business case for natural infrastructure investments, and advancing the needed policies, incentives, design elements and financing mechanisms to achieve scale and desired outcomes.

Maggie Kaplan has been the Managing Partner of her family investment company for over a decade. She works closely with a dedicated team of professionals, including her investment advisors at Wetherby Asset Management. Maggie dedicates her primary energies to four areas of philanthropic interest: environment and sustainability, economic empowerment of women and their families (particularly using microfinance), education of the “best and brightest” change agents, and expressive arts and spirituality. Organizations she supports include the American Himalayan Foundation, As You Sow, Bioneers, Environmental Entrepreneurs, Global Citizen Year, MCE Social Capital, New Leader Scholars, NRDC, Presidio Graduate School of Sustainability, Spirit Rock Meditation Center, Wildlife Conservation Network, Women’s Initiative, and the Weizmann Institute and Technion Institute of Technology, both in Israel. Maggie founded and continues to serve as Executive Director of an innovative, environmental, small grants program “Invoking the Pause”, designed to advance public awareness and engagement about climate change issues.
Charly Kleissner is an impact-investor. He believes that the deeper meaning of wealth is to make a positive contribution to humanity and the planet, and argues that Modern Portfolio Theory has to be re-conceptualized to seamlessly integrate positive impact into a Total Portfolio Theory. He sees impact-investing not as an intellectual exercise, but as an expression of who he really is. Dr. Kleissner co-founded KL Felicitas Foundation and Social-Impact International, which help social entrepreneurs worldwide to accelerate and increase their impact. KL Felicitas Foundation recently demonstrated that impact-investors can construct a 100% Impact Portfolio and simultaneously achieve competitive financial returns in all asset classes while making a tremendous impact. Dr. Kleissner co-founded Tonici and the ‘100%IMPACT Network,’ global networks for impact-investors. Dr. Kleissner serves as Chairman of the Advisory Board of the Global Hub Company and as Board Director and Chairman of the Investment Committee of Impact Assets.

Thomas is most proud, however, of actively parenting his two children. He graduated from Duke University with a BA in Political Science, and is a Certified Investment Management Analyst and is Series 7 and Series 66 licensed.

Francesca Vietor serves as Program Director for Environment, Public Policy, and Civic Engagement at The San Francisco Foundation, focusing on efforts to improve the environmental health of vulnerable communities, build resilience in the face of climate change, and protect the natural environment. Francesca is a Commissioner on the San Francisco PUC, where she leads policymaking for the City and County of San Francisco’s water, wastewater, and municipal power services. She was executive director of the Chez Panisse Foundation, where she advanced nutrition education and food justice issues; president of both the Urban Forest Council and the Commission on the Environment; and chair of Mayor Newsom’s Environmental Transition Team. She has worked for several nonprofits, including Rainforest Action Network and Greenpeace, and serves on the boards of SPUR and Environmental Working Group. Francesca holds a Bachelor of Sciences degree from Georgetown University and pens a blog for The Huffington Post.

Richard Woo is the chief executive officer of The Russell Family Foundation (TRFF) in Gig Harbor, Washington. The Foundation supports grassroots leadership, environmental sustainability, and global peace. Richard joined the Foundation in 2000, as the first executive director outside of the Russell Family. He is a past board member of Philanthropy Northwest, the Council on Foundations, and Asian Americans & Pacific Islanders in Philanthropy. Before arriving at TRFF, Richard worked for nearly a dozen years at Levi Strauss & Co. in San Francisco on community relations, corporate social responsibility and philanthropy. He served for three years as executive director of the Levi Strauss Foundation—overseeing global grant making in 40 countries. Early in his career, Richard spent a dozen years in Northern California nonprofits working on community health and youth development. Richard earned an English degree from the University of California, Davis.

Matthew Weatherly-White founded CAPROCK Group and shapes its initiative in impact investing. He is a sought-after speaker, keynoting the 2013 European Commission’s Annual Award for Social Innovation; guest lecturing at Harvard, Tuck, Kellogg, and Booth business schools; presenting at conferences throughout the US and Europe; and serving as advisor to several impact-investing funds. Matthew was a partner in The Owyhee Group, a boutique advisory team within Smith Barney, where he was a member of Citigroup’s elite Leadership Development Program and helped craft the firm’s Private Wealth Management platform, an initiative designed to support ultra-high-net-worth families. Matthew received a double-major degree from Dartmouth College. He helped to launched and served as chairman of the board for the Lee Pesky Learning Center, which he continues to serve. When not working, Matthew can be found in the mountains, encouraging his daughter to enjoy wilderness with the same irrational exuberance as her father.

Debra Wetherby founded Wetherby Asset Management and continues to be integrally involved in the firm’s investment process; she also works on investment and planning issues for some of its more complex clients. Previously, Deb worked at Morgan Stanley in Private Client Services, and in the Audit and Management Consulting departments at Price Waterhouse. Deb holds an MBA from UC Berkeley and a BS in Commerce from the University of Virginia. She is a CFA (inactive), CFA, and CFP®. Her honors include being listed as one of the Top 50 Women in Wealth Management, Top 50 Fee-Only RIAs, and Top 50 Wealth Management RIAs. Deb has spoken and taught on topics ranging from finance to the collective power of women helping women. She is active in several community organizations, including current or prior service on the Marin Community Foundation, BRAC USA, the UCSF Foundation, and the National Endowment for Financial Education.

Andrea Woodside joined Imprint Capital in October 2011. She supports management of many of the firm’s client relationships, assists business development activities, and plays a key role in the portfolio management and reporting process. Prior to Imprint, Ms. Woodside worked as a research assistant at the University of Minnesota in the Environmental Sciences, Policy, and Management department, where she managed projects ranging from consulting with homeowners to reducing residential fertilizer use to interviewing dairy farmers about best management practices. In addition, Andrea has experience working at two environmental nonprofits, the Earth Island Institute and Friends of the Mississippi River. At the Earth Island Institute, Andrea collaborated with Ashoka’s Youth Venture to produce a local food fundraiser, raising money to spearhead a food justice program for low-income Bay Area youth. Andrea graduated with honors from the University of Minnesota in May 2011 with a BS in Environmental Policy.

Robert Brooke Zevin has been a leader in socially responsible investing since 1967. At the same time, seeking to protect his clients against the losses that are so often the result of conventional investment approaches, he pioneered the use of modern portfolio theory. Robert has mentored and trained many people in the social investing movement as employees and as friends. He started what is now Walden Asset Management in 1975, which makes it the first explicitly socially responsible unit to be created in any bank. He was also a principal architect of the first Calvert Social Investment Fund in 1982. Robert was a leader in the movement to divest from apartheid South Africa. His 1987 expert testimony in defense of the Baltimore pension funds’ right to divest led to a precedent-setting decision.
WORKING GROUPS, LEARNING COHORTS, AND SPECIAL INITIATIVES

In just a few fast years Confluence Members have built out a number of working groups and special initiatives in order to learn collaboratively, while building the field of mission-related investing. Funders and Advisors Bay Members are welcome to join one of our working groups which offer learning, discussion, and resources. Participation in a working group is a complimentary benefit for Confluence Philanthropy Members.

MISSION FISH WORKING GROUP
By engaging grantmakers and individual donors through a series of webinars, in-person round table discussions, and special projects Confluence is helping to bring new streams of finance to sustainable fisheries. The group focuses globally and locally in regions throughout the U.S.

WATER INVESTORS
Through information sharing, informal communication, an educational webinar series and in-person meetings, the Water Investors Working Group is working to develop a learning community around investing in sustainable water. The group is exploring both an ecosystems approach and an ESG approach to investing in water sustainability. Interested funders are highly encouraged to join these emerging conversations.

THE PROXY STEWARDSHIP PROJECT
With guidance from an ad hoc working group of endowment leaders, The Proxy Stewards have crafted a set of universal proxy-voting principles for adoption by the wider community of foundations and university endowments. These will be used to encourage managers of co-mingled funds to vote investment proxies along environmental, social, and governance guidelines. As part of this initiative, the working group is developing a set of resources and tools to support endowments to practice conscientious proxy voting. The Proxy Stewardship Project is a special initiative of Confluence’s broader Proxy Power Program.

NATIVE GREEN FUND AND LEARNING CIRCLE
Collaboratively structured by a working group of donors and publicly-funded grantmakers, The Native Green Fund is a program-related investment fund offering below market rate loans to green tribal development projects across Arizona and New Mexico. Developed by Confluence Members, the Fund is managed by Native Home Capital, a community development finance institution in Arizona. As an outcome of the experiences of the Fund, Confluence Philanthropy is leading the Native Green Learning Circle; a yearlong national dialogue of native leaders and funders to develop and improve frameworks for investing with native communities.

CLIMATE FINANCE LEARNING CIRCLE
The Climate Finance Working Group is newly forming. It will work to better understand the opportunities—as well as some of the barriers and issues around risk—for investment in clean energy, including energy efficiency and green infrastructure. This group is open to foundations and advisors bay members that have an institutional commitment to MRI and who are ready to make investment decisions. Activities include learning webinars and strategic in-person discussion. The group works in collaboration with the Divest-Invest Philanthropy Campaign.

NEXT GEN FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM
The Next Gen Fellowship Program is a 6-month intensive peer-to-peer learning program for trustees and individual donors under 35 seeking to align their values with the management of their assets. In partnership with Resource Generation, participants receive formal training and structured peer-to-peer support in mission-related investing. Participation is by application and is on a fee-basis. Cohort 4 begins this Spring.

The Confluence Practitioners Meeting is created through a unique democratic process. Members of the Practitioners Program, along with their Investment Advisors, propose concepts that are then voted on by the Practitioners Program Members. Sessions receiving the highest number of votes are uplifted to plenary status, while other sessions receiving a majority of the votes become small sessions. Those individuals with selected sessions are invited to then help to plan that session.

We would like to both congratulate and thank those Members and Investment Advisors who have helped to shape the Fifth Annual Practitioners Gathering, as well as others, whom we have leaned and relied upon for the vision and expertise. We look forward to our best event yet!
