OUR VISION

The Project for Integrating Spirituality, Law, and Politics (PISLAP) is founded on the belief that all human beings yearn for a world of love and real human connection, where we can live meaningful lives and fully recognize each other's humanity. We believe that there exists a universal spiritual bond that transcends any religious, cultural, or social differences.

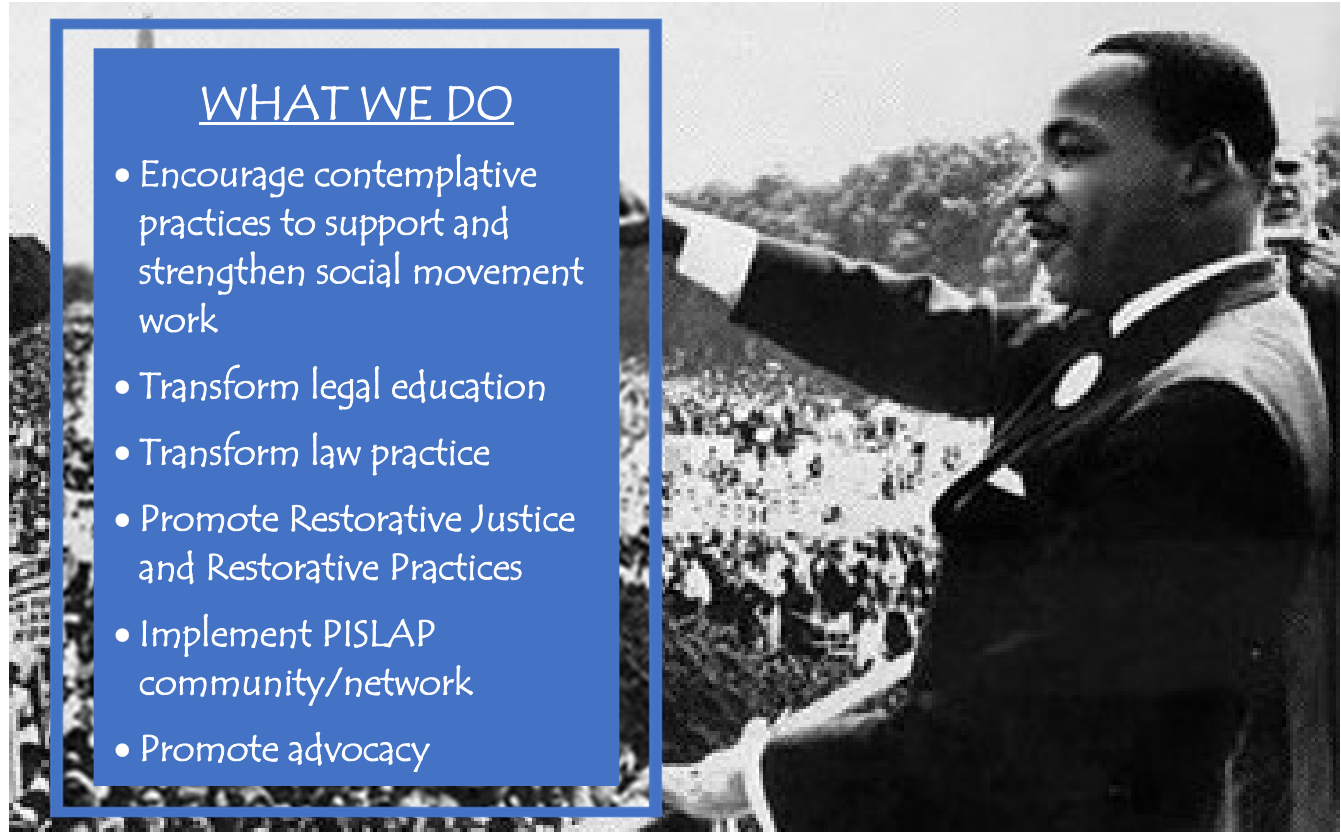

To make manifest this spiritual bond that unites us, we envision the creation of a legal culture which:

1. Fosters empathy, compassion, and mutual understanding;
2. Sees the resolution of conflict as an opportunity to awaken us to a deeper understanding of the dignity and value of all peoples; and
3. Affirms the integrity of the individual as well as the importance of fostering social responsibility, environmental awareness, and the creation of a loving, just, and sustainable world.

WHAT WE DO

- Encourage contemplative practices to support and strengthen social movement work
- Transform legal education
- Transform law practice
- Promote Restorative Justice and Restorative Practices
- Implement PISLAP community/network
- Promote advocacy

As Martin Luther King, Jr. said: "Justice is love correcting that which revolts against love."

Our current legal system does not reflect this ethos; it is based on a competitive, antagonistic, and overly individualistic view of humanity that belies our common spiritual existence.

Our mission is therefore to lead a multi-disciplinary movement integrating spirituality, law, and politics that transforms the existing legal system in ways that promote healing, cooperation, and the advancement of human consciousness. As lawyers, politicians, professors, and concerned citizens, we are committed to speaking up about our spiritual values and transforming our governments, law schools, and legal institutions to reflect those values, with courage, integrity, and commitment to something greater than our individual desires and needs. By taking a holistic and spiritually-informed approach to law and social change, we are correcting all that which revolts against love in our legal system, and by extension our world.

This is not just a movement but rather a way of life, one which honors and reflects our true nature as spiritually connected beings.
