Chanda Plan Foundation Celebrates Grand Opening of Chanda Center for Health

Open House to be Held on July 22

DENVER – The Chanda Plan Foundation will celebrate the grand opening of its new Chanda Center for Health with an Open House on July 22 from 2-5p.m. at the center, located at 1630 Carr Street, Lakewood, CO, 80214.

The Chanda Plan Foundation officially opened the Chanda Center for Health on April 10, 2017. The center provides a holistic, person-centered approach that includes care coordination and behavioral health services, as well as integrated therapies such as massage, chiropractic services, acupuncture and adaptive yoga. The center will also soon offer primary care.

“The Chanda Center for Health ushers in a completely new and innovative model of health care for people with long-term physical disabilities,” said Chanda Hinton Leichtle, Founder and Executive Director. “Now is the time for us to thank the public for their support in completing this ambitious project. We are eager to share firsthand the amazing things we’re doing at the Chanda Center for Health and the amazing things we hope to do in the future. “

Chanda Hinton Leichtle and her sister, Crystal Hinton, established the nonprofit Chanda Plan Foundation in 2005 after Hinton Leichtle experienced significant health improvements through the use of integrative therapies for symptoms caused by a spinal cord injury. The results of an integrated approach to treatment include reduced pain and the need for pain medication, lessened time spent at medical visits, and increased hours engaged in community or work.

About the Chanda Plan Foundation

The Chanda Plan Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing access to integrative therapy, primary care, and other complementary services to improve health outcomes and reduce healthcare costs for persons with physical disabilities. The Foundation was established in 2005 by Chanda Hinton Leichtle and her sister, Crystal Hinton, and serves persons with symptoms of spinal cord injuries, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, spina bifida, and brain injuries, and offers integrated therapies including adaptive exercise, adaptive yoga, massage, acupuncture, and chiropractic as well as care coordination and behavioral health services. The Chanda Plan Foundation's person-focused Chanda Center for Health opened in April of 2017, and is the first of its kind, providing a single point of service for the health needs of persons with long-term physical disabilities.
