MISSION

Provide access to integrative therapy, primary care, and other complementary services to improve health outcomes and reduce healthcare costs for persons with long-term physical disabilities.
CATALYST
The Foundation was created when founder, Chanda Hinton Leichtle’s, life was saved by integrative therapies. On her deathbed, weighing only 59 pounds, her sister asked their family physician if Chanda could try integrative therapies.

“There is nothing to lose,” said the physician.

Almost immediately following treatment, Chanda and her family witnessed a miraculous improvement in her health. Once her health was stabilized and mental clarity regained, she created the Chanda Plan Foundation so that the benefits of integrative therapies could be advocated for and shared with others living with long-term physical disabilities.

PROGRAMS
Direct Services is the top funding priority for the Chanda Plan Foundation. The services provided are executed through providers on a local and national basis. At the Chanda Center for Health in Lakewood, Colorado, participants have access to multiple services under one roof. To honor those with transportation barriers, acute needs, and/or those living in other states, providers also deliver services at participant homes or their private place of practice. Our services treat symptoms and conditions of Spinal Cord Injury, Cerebral Palsy, Multiple Sclerosis, Brain Injury and Spina Bifida.

Message from Chanda Hinton Leichtle
Executive Director, Chanda Plan Foundation

As Executive Director, it has been the most rewarding year to date, because myself, staff, board members and most importantly, our donors were able to realize the fruits of our labor, which started over a year ago.

We closed 2015 with the decision to address additional needs of those we served by expanding our Location Based Services program. Through a $4M capital campaign in 2016, we were able to open the doors to the Chanda Center for Health in 2017. Phew!

With support from donors, participants started experiencing collaborative, accessible and therapeutic healthcare at the Chanda Center for Health in April 2017 for the very first time. We all celebrated this accomplishment with Chris Monfort, Hensel Phelps and many others by our side with a ribbon cutting ceremony in July.

Shortly after taking a breath, we quickly began growing our Location Based Services to meet the growing needs we defined several years back, including additional services and the capacity to serve more. Within 6 months of opening the Chanda Center for Health, we facilitated a 72% growth in participants.

It is hard to imagine that the Chanda Plan Foundation has been around for 13 years. While we continue to settle into our new home at the Chanda Center for Health, our national services and systemic change become a primary focus for the future.

I want to thank every person involved in making the Chanda Plan Foundation possible. Together we are building a new path where healthcare is innovative and truly dedicated to the individual.

Message from Ben Stockman
Board Chair, Chanda Plan Foundation

2017 was a monumental year for the Chanda Plan Foundation and we couldn’t have done it without you. The “Let’s Build” capital campaign came to a close and we opened the doors to the beautiful, one-of-a-kind Chanda Center for Health. The Center was designed to buck-norms for medical facilities and offer our participants receiving integrative therapies a true oasis for healing mind, body and spirit. One of Chanda’s founding principles is that health, wellness and disability can coexist – That principle couldn’t be made more apparent than it is today at the Center for Health!

The Center was designed for integrative health therapies to thrive in an optimal setting while also welcoming traditional services. The Chanda Plan Foundation made strides in this direction by introducing two new services to our participants, behavioral health and care coordination through the support of Colorado Health Foundation, Caring for Colorado Foundation and Craig H. Nielsen Foundation. In addition to the integrative therapies, our participants are scoring the impact of these new services extremely high.

The gifts made to the capital campaign by individual donors, supporting organizations and corporate sponsors have come together to manifest a community health center where wellness and disability do coexist. Everyone who had a hand in this remarkable accomplishment should take a minute to feel great about their contribution.

Meet Kyong

“Thank you for giving us hope and happiness,” says Kyong who sits next to her daughter, Catherina, at the Chanda Center for Health. After being diagnosed in November 2015 with Guillain-Barré Syndrome, a disorder resulting in paralysis due to the body’s immune system attacking the peripheral nervous system, Kyong was in a constant state of pain. A poster at Craig Hospital led her and her family to seek support from the Chanda Plan Foundation.

Today, Kyong says the acupuncture and massage services she receives allow her to live with less pain and be more independent. When she started treatment, she was only able to move her eyes, but after nearly two years of services, she can move her entire body more freely.

Not only does Kyong look forward to coming to the Center every week, she agrees with her daughter when Catherina says, “The Chanda Center for Health is an awesome place to be, and my mom wouldn’t be where she is today without it.” Kyong doesn’t like to picture life without the support of the Chanda Plan Foundation because of the pain that would take over her life. With improved quality of life gained from massage and acupuncture, she enjoys playing with her grandsons again.

Meet Kip

“I wish donors could see the independence they are giving me. I am experiencing more movement in my fingers, and while that may not seem like much to some, it makes all the difference to me.”

Kip was paralyzed in 2012 after a motorcycle accident. He remembered thinking about what he could do to keep healthy, but the options were limited. After hearing about the Chanda Plan Foundation, he felt there might be some hope regaining movement with acupuncture and massage, but without expecting it, he also experienced a reduction in his pain level.

“I remember thinking these services can’t hurt for me to try, but now more than ever, I am certain these services are changing my life.”

“With the new movement in my fingers and hands, I am thoroughly convinced I’m heading in the right direction,” Kip claims. He states these services have contributed to an improvement in his overall life and believes that without the Chanda Center for Health, he would not be looking forward to the future. Kip is thankful to the donors that help make services available because “it’s definitely money well spent.”
Collecting outcomes is essential to us because it allows us to share the impact our programs offer and adjust treatment plans as needed. Our evaluation of outcomes was developed with several data sources in three areas: (1) Overall Outcomes, (2) Behavioral Health Outcomes, and (3) Care Coordination Outcomes. Outcomes are assessed by combining participant demographics, satisfaction of care, and health changes through pre-treatment surveys and semi-annual or end of treatment surveys.

OVERALL OUTCOMES
- 96% reported improved quality of life
- 91% stated services reduced the severity of their pain
- 45% reported fewer health care visits within a 3-month period
- 60% or more reported improved independence and community involvement
- 80% improved ability to function independently
- 74%-89% or more were satisfied with services

BEHAVIORAL HEALTH OUTCOMES
- 93% were satisfied with overall quality
- 81% were satisfied with the impact on overall health and well-being
- 66% were working on reducing pain
- 57% were working on reducing stress

CARE COORDINATION OUTCOMES
- 100% were satisfied with overall quality
- Top 5 reasons to meet with a Care Coordinator: Wellness, Financial Resources, Medicaid, Durable Medical Equipment, and Transportation

Meet Christina

After falling down a flight of stairs in 1992, Christina has been functioning with the aid of a power wheelchair. With frequent hospital visits and bouts of pneumonia being a predominate part of her journey, Christina’s doctor suggested she visit the Chanda Center for Health in the hopes that integrative therapies could help her reduce pain and spend more of her life outside of the hospital. And so she did!

“I am so happy I was introduced to the Chanda Center for Health because before knowing about it, I didn’t even want to get out of bed,” Christina reflects.

Christina has been receiving acupuncture and massage for over a year now, and according to her mom, it took very little time for Christina to claim an overall improvement in her life. Since starting services, Christina has stayed out of the hospital for a longer period than she ever has, and her pulmonologist is seeing greater capacity in her lungs.

Christina’s mom also sees the benefits of these services. “It’s worth it to watch your child enjoy life again. Our doctors were not expecting this, and we reassured them that acupuncture and massage are the things we are doing differently.”

“I cannot thank donors enough for the change I am experiencing in my life and for making these critical services available to me and others,” says Christina.

Meet Alexis

A motorcycle accident in September 2017 left Alexis with a spinal cord injury. With the injury being so new, she and her family are learning a new normal, and the journey into unfamiliar territory led her to the Chanda Plan Foundation. “I was searching for information on alternative therapies and the impact they have on sensation and function. The Chanda Plan Foundation was the perfect resource to explore options I was not previously aware of,” says Alexis.

In addition to acupuncture and massage, Alexis works closely with a care coordinator at the Chanda Center for Health. "Without the Chanda Plan Foundation, I would not be able to receive these services. The care coordinator has been instrumental in helping me organize my Medicaid benefits and potential home modifications."

While movement and increased blood flow are important to her and her body, adaptive exercise has done the most for her mentally and physically because she is able to move and build strength. “Without the Chanda Plan Foundation, I would have missed out on many resources and opportunities that are essential to my health and healing. I am grateful to all the donors that make these services accessible and affordable.”
Meet Oliver

Oliver grew up in the mountains of western Colorado. Being an active kid, it wasn't unusual for him to spend hours outside. In February of 1992, he was doing just that when he and a group of friends were jumping off a deck into fresh snow. When it was Oliver’s turn to jump, he landed head first, and after hearing a loud bang, he immediately thought, “I’m paralyzed. I can’t play football.”

While discussing integrative therapies for his spinal cord injury with his neurologist, Oliver was introduced to the Chanda Plan Foundation. “I was excited to begin services because after meeting a few staff and providers, I knew they understood my disability and how to work with me.”

Before the Chanda Plan Foundation, integrative therapies that were so beneficial for him were inaccessible due to cost; however, he shares his gratitude for the donors that make the organization and services possible. “My spasticity has reduced tremendously, my pain has reduced, and, most importantly, my depression and anxiety no longer affect me so severely.”

In addition to the services that Oliver utilizes, he enjoys the classes and community that the Chanda Center for Health offers. After twenty-six years of living with his spinal cord injury, Oliver is excited about new possibilities.”
