

FIVES

FIVES is a band hailing from the deep creative well of the Baltimore/Washington DC music scene. Founded by singer/lyricist Marc Cashin and Matthew White, songwriter and keyboardist, their first record, "A Brief History" was released in 2013. Since then they have opened for artists such as O-Town and the Vespers, played SXSW to a sold out audience in 2015 and in August of 2016, their EP, "Heart & Thunder" was released to positive attention in the press and industry alike.

Upon release of the Heart & Thunder EP, YouTube invited the band to play their popular series #MusicMondays in their NYC performance space. Explosive live shows in their home town along with recent highly charged gigs in NYC have resulted in a burgeoning fan base who is attracted to their indie pop, sing along songs that have riveting lyrics to match the music. Their debut single, Heart & Thunder, the title track from the EP is a catchy, hook laden song about love, relationships and the power of sticking together.

Marc Cashin says, "I love playing music in this band. Most people don't get the chance to express their creativity on a daily basis or experience what it feels like to play in front of an audience, but there's something very exhilarating about making a lot of noise in front of a crowd of people. Only my time as a Baltimore City Firefighter has been able to come close in capturing that feeling. It may sound strange, but running into a burning building and running onto a stage make me feel the exact same way."

Matt adds, "When we formed the band, Marc and I had a vision for what we wanted to write and play and the band has evolved over time to reflect that vision. All the guys are dedicated to make FIVES a better band, adding to our live shows and making amazing music."

FIVES is currently finishing a new EP called LIGHTSHÖ. The band will be playing shows up and down the east coast starting spring of 2018 in support of the EP.
