The Criteria

CTO of the Year

- adds significant value to the company's performance through technology
- has a strong business renewal focus – radical rather than incremental
- communicates the company's technologies and their benefits to all stakeholders in an understandable way
- is an inspiring team builder and team leader

CTO's company

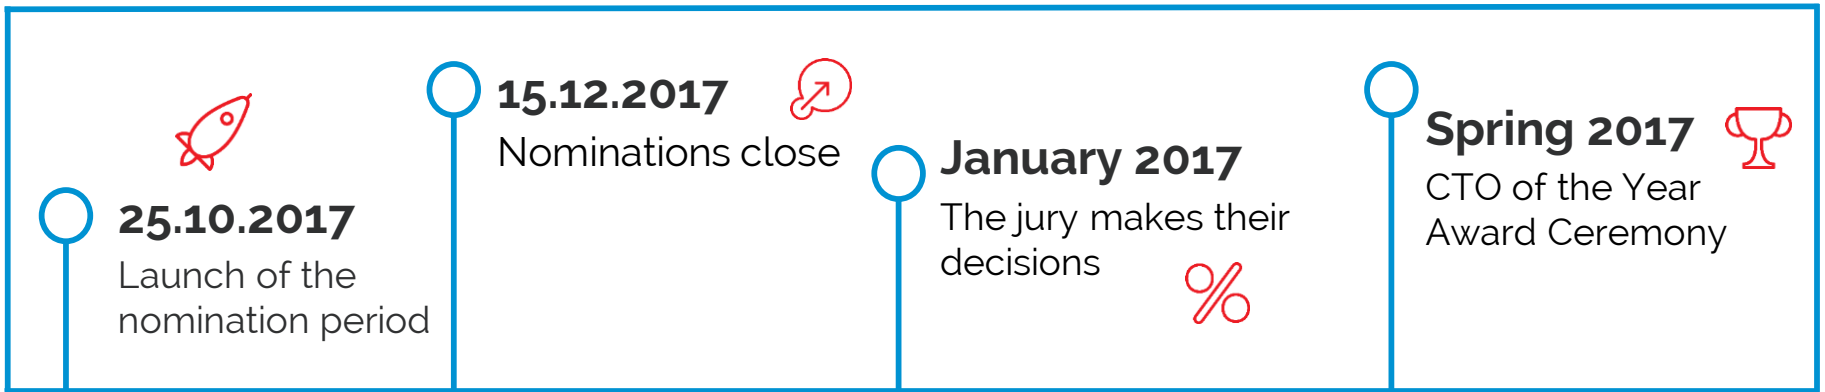

- has a technology-enabled product and service portfolio that is innovative, globally competitive and either already well known or rapidly gaining terrain
- has built a strong technology collaboration community
- has strong innovation process encouraging company-wide participation

Societal impact

- The CTO contributes to working groups, societies and other bodies working for development of the society at large and his or her industry in general.
- In determining the societal impact, contribution relative to the size of the CTO's company matters.
