Dear Friends,

The following prayer is attributed to Rabbi Nachman of Bratslav:

Grant me the ability to be alone; may it be my custom to go outdoors each day among the trees and grass - among all growing things and there may I be alone, and enter into prayer, to talk with the One to whom I belong. May I express there everything in my heart, and may all the foliage of the field — all grasses, trees, and plants — awake at my coming, to send the powers of their life into the words of my prayer so that my prayer and speech are made whole through the life and spirit of all growing things, which are made as one by their transcendent Source. May I then pour out the words of my heart before your Presence like water, O God, and lift up my hands to You in worship, on my behalf, and that of my children!

This prayer of solitude has spoken to me over the past several months. During this time of isolation, Sue and I have spent a lot of time in our garden. We have been pruning, weeding, planting, and looking forward to harvesting our small but earnest plot of flowers, vegetables, and herbs. I must confess, I have never been an avid gardener – it always seemed like a lot of work. And yet, recently, the daily tasks of maintenance and stewardship have taken on an entirely new spiritual meaning as we track the progress of our garden. I find myself looking forward to watching everything grow and blossom in anticipation of the harvest that we will hopefully gather. Had you asked me six months ago if I thought I would be enjoying gardening, I would have laughed at the thought. But COVID-19 changes everything.

This has been a time for reassessment and finding out what is truly important in our lives. There is nothing like a crisis to put everything into perspective. Yesterday’s necessities have become today’s extravagances. As our world becomes smaller, our values and priorities come sharply into focus. In times like these, we look to familiar rituals; small pleasures and opportunities to give thanks for the blessings in our lives – even as we cope with the unknown.

Summer is normally a time for slowing down and taking advantage of the beauty of nature and spending time with the people who are most important to us. Take some time over these next few weeks to appreciate the little things in life – like a beautiful garden, the smiles on the faces of those whom we love, the technology that allows us to stay in contact with the people in our lives who are socially distant, but spiritually connected.

While the rest of our clergy, professional team, and lay leadership miss seeing everyone at Temple, we also feel a sense of pride in the way that we have been able to transition into “virtual” worship and life-cycle events. We have been able to be nimble, flexible, and economical in our use of resources. Just as this bulletin looks different than those which have preceded it, we have prioritized and refocused the time, energy, and costs that we had previously invested in our monthly bulletin and decided that a more streamlined publication was in order.

May these summer months provide all of us with moments of awareness and appreciation of God’s presence in the world: in our gardens, in the faces of our loved ones, in the simple pleasures that help us to ground ourselves in meaning and purpose.

AMEN

How to Find Temple Emanuel’s Livestreaming Videos

In your Web browser, go to the Temple Emanuel Denver Facebook page at facebook.com/TempleEmanuelDenver. The page is public, so you do not need to have a Facebook account to view.

On that page, there is a list of options down the left side, below the large Temple crown logo. In that list, the fifth item down is “Videos” – if there is a live stream in progress, there will be a red button next to “Videos” that says “LIVE” – click that button and you will be taken to the current stream.

All streams are recorded and archived, so if you go to our page when there is not a live stream in process, there will be a red button next to “Videos” that says “LIVE” – click that button and you will be taken to the current stream.

We will attempt to go live with any stream a few minutes before the scheduled time, so you may see a screen that says something like, “The live stream will begin shortly” for a couple of minutes before the service or program actually starts.

We look forward to having you join us online for our livestreamed services, Torah study, and other programming. Happy viewing!
KADDDISH LIST

The names listed below are taken from the memorial plaques in the Meditation Room. Names are read at the Friday evening and Saturday morning Shabbat services following the date of death. To find out how to purchase a plaque, contact Patricia Lackner, ext. 308. To have other names read on a Friday evening, call the Temple by Friday noon.
