Addressing Competency #6: ACCAHC's PIHTA Kicks Off Webinar Series on Correcting "Perverse Incentives," Triple Aim, and Opportunities for IHM

November 6, 2014, 12:00 EDT
Register here: https://www3.gotomeeting.com/register/435223030

The first webinar, November 6, 2014, is titled: "Shifting 'Perverse Incentives' - Basics on Accountable Care and the Potential for Integrative Health and Medicine from an Official Who Helped Create the Rules." This is the first of a series to address Competency #6 of the Competencies for Optimal Practice in Integrated Environments: "Institutional Healthcare Culture and Practice." The shifts in payment and other incentives elevate the importance of Competency #6 - especially because most believe these shifts are finally creating an environment that may be more conducive to integration. The November 6 presenter is former Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services Deputy Director Karen Milgate.

The series, developed by Jennifer Olejownik, PhD, manager of the Project for Integrative Health and the Triple Aim, is called "A Short Course for Understanding the Opportunities for Integrative Health and Medicine in the Emerging Triple Aim Landscape." Olejownik is connecting with the ACCAHC member organizations that endorsed the Competencies for assistance in getting out the word. These are the Association of Chiropractic Colleges, Association of Accredited Naturopathic Medical Colleges, Council of Colleges of Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine, Association for Massage Therapy Educators and the Midwifery Education Accreditation Council. Additional presentations will include a presentation on "patient experience" from Jason Wolf, PhD, CEO of the Beryl Institute, an organization devoted to promoting quality patient experience, and a subsequent segment on quality improvement with expert Molly Punzo, MD. Punzo and Milgate are members of the PIHTA Advisory Team.

Side-note: Last month's Collaborator announced the webinar series from ACCAHC's Project to Enhance Research Literacy (PERL) targeting Competencies #5: Evidence-Based Medicine and Evidence-Informed Practice. The next webinar on November 4, 2014, features Research Working Group Belinda (Beau) Anderson, PhD, LAc and Jerrilyn Cambron, DC, MHP, PhD, addressing the basic question: What is Evidence-Informed Practice? The first two have been quite successful.

ACCAHC Executive Director Invited to Veterans Health Administration 2-Day Retreat on Integrative Health Integration

In early November, John Weeks - invited under his Integrator hat rather than as an ACCAHC representative per se, though with full awareness of his ACCAHC role - will be one of 5 outside experts joining with 40 Veterans Administration leaders in Salt Lake City to help create a game plan for that agency's inclusion of complementary and integrative practices.
The invitation came from Tracy Gaudet, MD, the director of the VA’s Patient Centered Care and Health System Transformation initiative and an 18-year colleague of Weeks through her former work in the integrative medicine programs at the University of Arizona and Duke. Copies of the ACCAH Collaborators’ and Educators’ Desk Reference will be made available to all attendees as will those of the Primary Care Project white paper Meeting the Nation’s Primary Care Needs. Weeks is using ACCAH networks to prepare for the meeting. Among the other ACCAH attendees are two Council of Advisers members Ben Kligler, MD, MPH and Lori Knutson, RN, BCHN, together with Clinical Working Group member Anthony Lisi, DC, who directs the VA's chiropractic program. If you have ideas or suggestions for Weeks, please contact him at jweeks@accahc.org

IOM Report Integrates Information on Community-Based Clinical Education Programs at Southern California University and Canadian College of Naturopathic Medicine

A wonderful outcome of Robb Russell, DC of individual college President’s Level member Southern California University stepping up to assist ACCAH last spring is inclusion of information about two of our colleges in a new Institute of Medicine report. Russell worked with Nick Degroot, ND of President’s Level member Canadian College of Naturopathic Medicine to organize a poster and a webinar presentation at the Institute of Medicine workshop in May 2014 entitled “Building Health Workforce Capacity Through Community-Based Health Professional Education”. The report with the same title is now available and includes short descriptions of the programs in two appendices. The FREE downloadable PDF is here. Russell’s webinar presentation is available on the IOM site here. Small steps for integration.

Presentations Available from the Policy Day to Honor US Senator Harkin

Many of the presentations from the symposium to honor the legacy of retiring US Senator Tom Harkin, held on September 29, 2014 at Georgetown University are available via the Resources section on the ACCAH site by clicking here. The first five are from a morning panel entitled “From the 2010 Stakeholder Report Forward: Integrative Health and the ACA -- Where Have We Come From? Where Do We Go Next?” The last three from an afternoon panel entitled “Emerging Trends and Opportunities in Integrative Health & Medicine”. ACCAH was a Diamond Sponsor of the symposium and had a significant role in developing content and managing the event that drew nearly 130 leaders. A final thanks to these ACCAH member organizations for their donations to the event that, bundled, make ACCAH a Diamond Sponsor.

Poster on ACCAHC's Competencies to Be Presented at Academy of Integrative Health and Medicine (AIHM) Conference

Executive Committee member Jan Schwartz, MA, BCTMB, and Beth Rosenthal, PhD, MBA, MPH have taken the lead in submitting an accepted poster to the Academy of Integrative Health and Medicine on ACCAHC's Competencies for Optimal Practice in Integrated Environments. ACCAHC chair Elizabeth A. "Liza" Goldblatt, PhD, MPA/HA and Education Working Group member Mike Wiles, DC, MEd are also part of the team. The poster will be presented by Schwartz at AIHM's upcoming Science and Connection: A new Era of Integrative Health and Medicine in San Diego, October 26-30. AIHM is an Associate Member of ACCAHC.

Nifty Two-Page Handout on the Core ACCAHC Professions Available through Education Working Group Team

Interprofessional practice requires knowledge about disciplines other than one's own. Basic information about the five licensed integrative health and medicine (IHM) professions is captured here in one easy-to-read table. The five professions are acupuncture and Oriental medicine, chiropractic, massage therapy, direct-entry midwifery and naturopathic medicine. Information is taken largely from the ACCAHC Clinicians' and Educators' Desk Reference on the Licensed Complementary and Alternative Healthcare Professions (CEDR). Additional information was obtained via a collaborative, iterative process with ACCAHC Education Working Group members led by Deb Hill, MS, project director for the Project to Enhance Research Literacy.

Thanks to Mike Wiles, DC, MEd and Jennifer Brett, ND, LAc for Service as Working Group Co-Chairs

Two long-time co-chairs of ACCAHC Working Groups are stepping down from co-chair roles but will stay on as member of the teams. Mike Wiles, DC, MEd, the vice president and provost at President's Level member Northwestern Health Sciences University has co-chaired the Education Working Group from the beginning. He co-led efforts to develop the final Competencies document and has been a leading member of ACCAHC's interprofessional education and practice work for which he remains as Ambassador to the Center for Interprofessional Practice and Education. Wiles has been planning to step down for some time.

The work of Jennifer Brett, ND, LAc as Co-Chair for the Clinical Working Group unfortunately became a victim of an ACCAHC policy that doesn't allow two co-chairs from the same institution. Brett, who directs clinical education for acupuncture and Oriental medicine at ACCAHC member college University of Bridgeport has been a steady volunteer. Her co-chair Marcia Prenguber, ND notes that among Brett's contributions have been her "sharing a wealth of experiences on collaboration and integration of faculty and students in a clinical setting, experiences in program development, and education on structure and guidelines in creating new avenues for learning." Like Wiles, Brett will continue involved. Thanks for your graciousness, Jennifer.
