Supreme Court
Class Action Review:
Life after Campbell-Ewald,
Tyson Foods, and Spokeo

Trainers: Jocelyn D. Larkin (Impact Fund) and Deepak Gupta (Gupta Wessler)

After a term that analyzed plaintiff pick-off attempts, the dreaded “trial by formula,” and Article III standing, how did class actions fare? Join us for a review of the 2015-16 Supreme Court term — what was and wasn’t decided, the implications, and hot topics for the next term.

Working with Statistical Experts

Trainers: Laura Ho (Goldstein, Borgen, Dardarian & Ho) and Marc Bendick (Bendick & Egan Economic Consultants)

For many practitioners, statistical experts are a necessity, but also a mysterious and potentially expensive part of your case strategy. Our trainers will illuminate each phase in the lifecycle of a case through the lens of working with a statistical expert, providing helpful tips and best practices for making the relationship as beneficial as possible.

Latest Developments
in Attorneys’ Fees

Trainers: Lindsay Nako (Impact Fund) and Robert Schug (Nichols Kaster)

Whether briefed during settlement approval proceedings or after a judgment in your clients’ favor, your motion for attorneys’ fees often is prepared during or just after a busy time in your case. This program will review current California and federal law concerning attorneys’ fees, including an analysis of the forthcoming California Supreme Court decision in Laffitte v. Robert Half International. Our trainers will guide you through the steps to making a persuasive argument to the court and what to do ahead of time to make the briefing as effective as possible, whether your case is a class action or individual litigation.
