

Designed for Good

Designer Agga B. Raya (left) with her winning design from Heshima Kenya's Second Annual Fashion Challenge. The look's feature element is a handmade scarf made in Kenya by young refugee women.

On October 24, Chicago's hottest designers came together at the Bridgeport Art Center to inspire hope by creating fashion designs and accessories using scarves from the Maisha Collective, an income generation project of Heshima Kenya.

An all-star celebrity panel including Maria Pinto, Elise Hofer and Christina Hanson judged the designs. All proceeds from the Fashion Challenge benefit young refugee girls and their children in Nairobi, Kenya. Cocktails by Bombay Sapphire and Femme du Coupe, catering by Food for Thought, and fabulous prizes rounded out the unforgettable event.

Heshima Kenya scarves are sold on Etsy at www.etsy.com/shop/heshimakenya and at the organization's retail storefront at 4917 North Damen, Chicago. Visit heshimakenya.org to learn more about their work with refugee girls and their children.

