You could almost say that Melody Jay doesn't just play music—she lives and breathes a lifestyle. This year alone has taken her live sets to Los Angeles night clubs, the Sofitel in Tahiti, and the Turtle Bay Resort. Her most current mixtape, "Sugarcane", was released in May 2016 after a Pacific Coast tour. Playing a mix of Hawaiian and island, top 40's, afrobeat, buddah bar, reggae, and lounge, Melody's playlist is a delightful compilation of exotic beats that will keep you intrigued all night. In 2018, you can catch Melody performing live in Japan, Southeast Asia, and across the United States.

Melody's character isn't simply limited to what she does in the sound booth - she pursues her passion of positively influencing the lives of others by helping children. In Hawaii, she runs a statewide non-profit called YES Hawaii. In 2015 she spent time in Jamaica and volunteered at the Jamaica National Children's Home (JNCH) sharing music, food, love, laughter and Christmas gifts with the children.
