Thirteen Ways of Looking at a Black Boy by Tony Medina offers a fresh perspective of young men of color by depicting thirteen views of everyday life: young boys dressed in their Sunday best, running to catch a bus, growing up to be teachers, and much more. Each of Tony Medina’s tanka is matched with a different artist—including recent Caldecott and Coretta Scott King Award recipients. Illustrators are Shawn K. Alexander, Kesha Bruce, Floyd Cooper, Chandra Cox, Cozbi A. Cabrera, R. Gregory Christie, Skip Hill, Ekua Holmes, Keith Mallett, Brianna McCarthy, Tiffany McKnight, Robert Liu-Trujillo, and Javaka Steptoe.

Tony Medina, two-time winner of the Paterson Prize for Books for Young People (DeShawn Days and I and I, Bob Marley), is the author/editor of eighteen books for adults and young readers. A Professor of Creative Writing at Howard University, Medina has received the Langston Hughes Society Award, the first African Voices Literary Award, and has been nominated for Pushcart Prizes for his poems. His newest books are an anthology called Resisting Arrest: Poems to Stretch the Sky, on police violence and brutalities perpetrated on people of color, and a debut graphic novel, I Am Alfonso Jones.

Key Features
- Offers a counter-narrative to the negative representations and perceptions of African-American boys and men
- Introduces younger readers to the short Japanese poetic form of tanka
- Starred reviews in School Library Journal and Kirkus Reviews

This shining title deserves a spot in all poetry collections.
—School Library Journal, starred review

A book that celebrates the humanity and power of black children. It’s a beautiful, poignant work.
—Fatherly

The Charmer

Between you and me
All of the girls like my smile
The boys be jealous
Call me bubblehead and laugh
The girls roll their eyes and sass
H IS FOR HAIKU

An ABC-book that uses poetry to transform small moments into big moments

In H Is For Haiku: A Treasury of Haiku from A to Z, the late poet Sydell Rosenberg, a charter member of the Haiku Society of America and a New York City public school teacher, and illustrator Sawsan Chalabi offer an A-Z compendium of haiku that brings out the fun and poetry in everyday moments.

Sydell Rosenberg (1929-1996)

Rosenberg lived, wrote and taught in New York City. Syd was a charter member of the Haiku Society of America in 1968 and served as HSA’s Secretary in 1975. Her short poems – notably haiku and senryu – as well as other poetry, were published in various magazines and anthologies. Syd received her M.A. in English as a Second Language from Hunter College in 1972. It was Syd’s dream to publish a book of haiku for children.

Sawsan Chalabi

Sawsan Chalabi is a Lebanese-American illustrator and designer. She earned her MFA in Illustration from Savannah College of Art and Design. When she is not at her computer making digital illustrations, she can be found in her studio getting messy with inks and paint. Her work has been published with several magazines and publishing houses such as Cricket Magazine, Bust Magazine, Wine & Spirits Magazine, Applied Arts Magazine, Penguin, and Lee & Low Books, among others. She currently resides in Washington, D.C. where she explores the power in the silent communication of art.

Key Features

- Introduces young readers to the short Japanese poetic form of haiku
- Encourages readers to slow down and see the wonder and poetry in everyday moments
- A worthy addition to the classic alphabet book canon

Colorful, playful illustrations complement the poetic text. The illustrations feature whimsical word art that enhances the reading experience. –Writers’ Rumpus

In Thank You, Crow by Michael Minkovitz with illustrations by Jose Medina, Crow brings little treasures to the boy who saves him so that together they can go on a big adventure. In the process, Sebastian discovers that friends can be found in the unlikeliest of places and that a little kindness and imagination go a long way.

Who can’t enjoy a book that so engages the mind and expands the imagination—and in which everybody is so polite, too.
—Kirkus Reviews

Minkovitz is a Georgia native who gained a unique perspective growing up in the only Jewish family in a tiny, rural community before ending up at New York University’s Tisch School, where he graduated with a degree in filmmaking. He later graduated from the Savannah College of Art and Design with a Master’s degree in film, but he’s also had fun being a news photographer, an SAT tutor, and running his family’s business. He is overjoyed to create and publish his first book with his husband, Jose.

Jose Medina is an illustrator from Venezuela who now resides in Savannah, Georgia. After beginning his art education in Caracas, he finished his illustration degree at the Savannah College of Art and Design in 2017. His art addresses complex ideas in a way that is simple and engaging, focusing on social and political activism while incorporating humor and lightheartedness. Thank You, Crow is Jose’s first book, and he was thrilled to work on it with his husband, Michael.

Key Features
• Encourages kindness and gratitude
• Encourages imagination and play
• Shows how friends can be very different from one another but still build a relationship around mutual respect
THE DAY WE LOST PET

A unique, nonreligious way to discuss death and grief with the story of a balloon family’s loss of their beloved Pet

Part creation myth, part fairy tale, The Day We Lost Pet tells the story of a family that comes together to mourn the death of their beloved Pet. These endearing balloon characters harness the language of poetry, science, and nature in order to understand one of life’s most difficult moments.

THE BLUE POOL OF QUESTIONS
A tale that asks readers to take comfort in questions versus easy answers

A man who doesn’t quite fit in arrives in a city full of busy people who don’t have much time for him. One day, he asks so many questions that they form a giant pool in the middle of the city. Eventually, the man gathers up the courage to dive into the pool looking for answers, but what will he find? The Blue Pool of Questions underscores the importance of curiosity, the necessity of asking questions, and the courage required to break free from the status quo.

A GIFT FROM GREENSBORO
What does life look like for a black kid and a white kid who are best friends in the decade after the Civil Rights Act? It looks like friendship!

A Gift from Greensboro is at once an elegy, a celebration of the magic of childhood friendship, and a meditation on growing up in the wake of the sit-ins that ushered in the Civil Rights Movement. Paired with intricate, layered illustrations, this poem recognizes that true friendship knows no boundaries and that love drives positive change.
