Do you want to have the option to stay where you are until you turn 21?

You can stay on your supervision order until you are ready or you turn 18.

Are you ready to end your supervision order or ready to leave home?

You should speak to your workers about this to start planning for your future. You might still be able to get Aftercare until you turn 26.

You should speak to the people around you about this, such as your social worker, to start planning for your future. You might be able to get Aftercare until you turn 26.

You can either:
1. Stay on permanence order until you turn 18.
2. Stay in care voluntarily until you turn 21.

You might be able to move to a similar placement and stay until you turn 21 – speak to the people around you, such as your social worker. You might be able to get Aftercare until you turn 26.

Stay where you are and talk to the people around you, such as your social worker, about why you are not ready.
