Two Kansas City Fashion Leaders Join Forces to Magnify Impact

Essense of Australia Continues Generous Support of Rightfully Sewn’s Seamstress Training Program

Kansas City, Mo. - Essense of Australia, a leading international bridal design house and wholesaler headquartered in Lenexa, Kansas, has made a donation to Kansas City non-profit Rightfully Sewn in support of their Seamstress Training Program.

“Essense believes in giving back and lifting those up around us, especially in the communities where we live and work,” said Martine Harris, Head Designer and Chief Creative Officer of Essense of Australia. “We also believe fashion and design have the power to transform communities and are proud to partner with Rightfully Sewn to help create opportunities as part of the Seamstress Training Program.”

Essense of Australia has been a continuing supporter of Rightfully Sewn’s mission and programs. As a fashion company in the Kansas City area dedicated to creating jobs and supporting the empowerment and education of those seeking a career in fashion, Essense of Australia aligns in values with Rightfully Sewn, which hosts the Seamstress Training Program to prepare individuals with obstacles to employment for jobs as sewists, alterationists, and production managers.

“We are so grateful for Essense of Australia’s multidimensional support,” said Jennifer Lapka, founder and president of Rightfully Sewn. “Their international stature and global fashion presence is awe-inspiring.”

Essense of Australia has participated in the Seamstress Training Program by attending job fairs hosted at the end of each class and donating dresses for students to practice their alteration skills. Tisha Mitchell, Vice President of Design Operations at Essense of Australia, serves on the Rightfully Sewn board, and the company was the Presenting Sponsor of Rightfully Sewn’s 2019 Golden Gala.
