To be sure, even a competent counsellor’s role would be severely limited

Trefor Moss says a previously more restrained Beijing is now asserting its claims at the expense of ties

Frank Ching says the city’s efforts to start national education have been too slow and too heavily driven by Beijing

Birth of Sansha city signals death of diplomacy in South China Sea dispute

A pitch-perfect proclamation of Britain’s place in the world