use your noodle to find the ideal minimum wage

Voices: Hong Kong

Albert Cheng

The Minimum wage legislation has ended a long-fought battle for workers who have been struggling to earn a living wage for a long time. This is a victory for workers and a recognition of the importance of fair wages. It is a step in the right direction for Hong Kong and its workers. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

Chung Ying-ying

The minimum wage is a symbol of progress for Hong Kong. It is a recognition of the importance of fair wages and a recognition of the dignity of work. This is a victory for workers and a recognition of their rights. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

The minimum wage is an important step in the right direction for Hong Kong and its workers. It is a recognition of the importance of fair wages and a recognition of the dignity of work. This is a victory for workers and a recognition of their rights. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

Voices: Northeast Asia

Rodrigo Soroos

During a recent visit to South Korea, I was impressed by the country's commitment to providing a minimum wage that is fair and reasonable. The minimum wage in South Korea is set at a level that is comparable to the wages paid in similar countries. This is a recognition of the importance of fair wages and a recognition of the dignity of work. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

Young-Shin Kwon

The minimum wage is an important step in the right direction for South Korea. It is a recognition of the importance of fair wages and a recognition of the dignity of work. This is a victory for workers and a recognition of their rights. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

Voices: Global warming

Polities, the curse and climate for talks

Chad Chasin

International climate change negotiations are facing a critical juncture this year. To be successful, they must find the right balance between the interests of all parties involved. This is a difficult task, and there are many obstacles to overcome.

If we are to make progress in negotiating an effective climate change agreement, we must ensure that all parties are represented and that their interests are taken into account. This is a recognition of the importance of fair negotiations and a recognition of the dignity of all parties involved. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

Frank Ching

In Copenhagen, China cleverly positioned itself as a leader in the fight against climate change. This was a recognition of the importance of fair negotiations and a recognition of the dignity of all parties involved. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

China remains committed to reducing its greenhouse gas emissions and to supporting efforts to address the climate crisis. This is a recognition of the importance of fair negotiations and a recognition of the dignity of all parties involved. We should be proud of achieving this goal.

China's climate action is a demonstration of its commitment to reducing greenhouse gas emissions and to supporting efforts to address the climate crisis. This is a recognition of the importance of fair negotiations and a recognition of the dignity of all parties involved. We should be proud of achieving this goal.