

Seastar Publishing is proud to announce the release of Kath Murdoch's stunning new book
The Power of Inquiry

“There are not enough guide books deeply grounded in good science and packed with practical seeds of possibility and tried and tested illustrations. This book has both.”

Guy Claxton. Emeritus Professor of Learning Sciences, University of Winchester

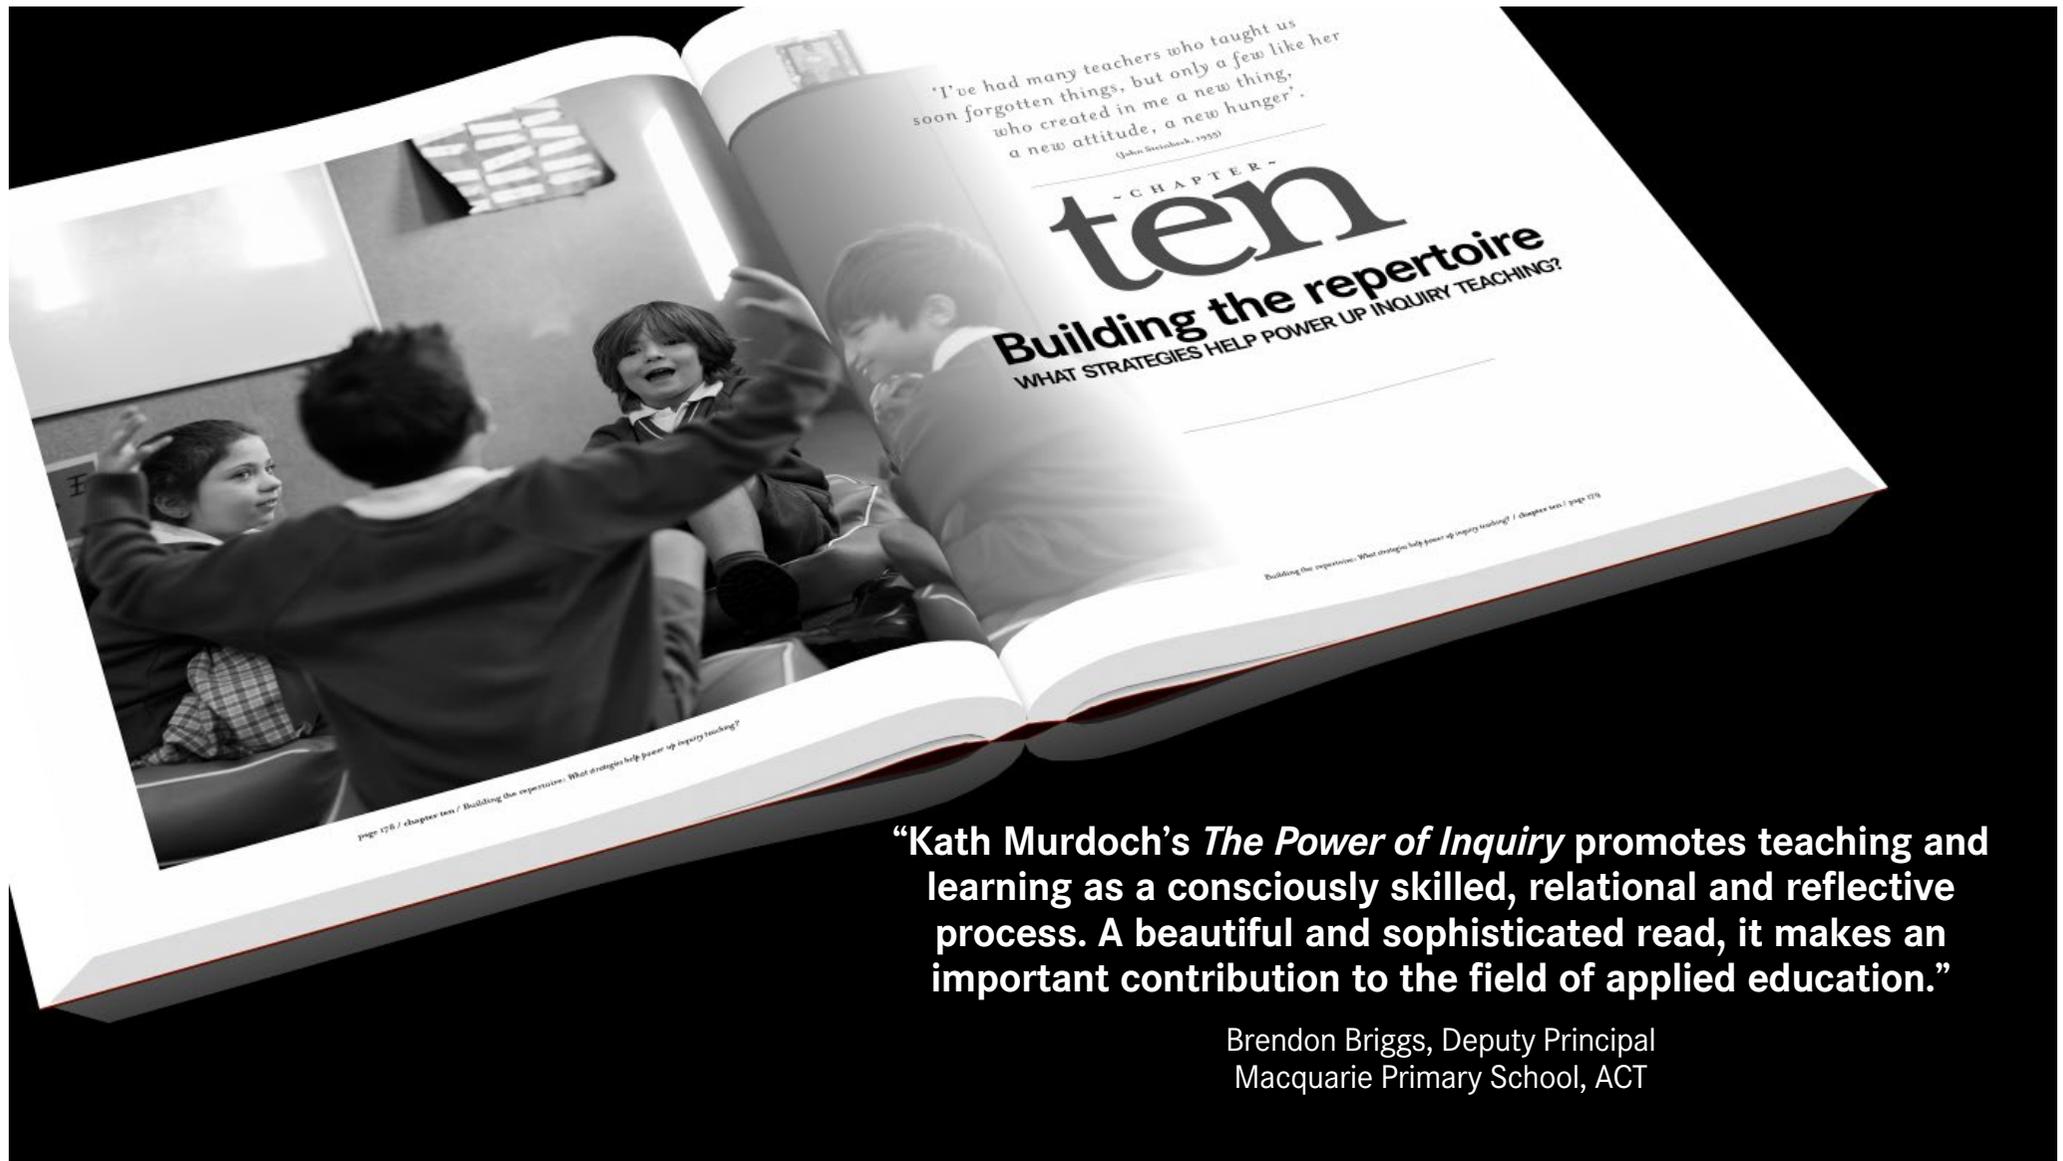

“The Power of Inquiry is like a guiding light that illuminates the way for teachers and students to share in a process that ignites passion, wonder and awe. This beautiful book, like all good inquiries, is not prescriptive but offers us so many possibilities for how we might work effectively with our students. It will inspire you and provoke deep thinking about learning.”

Kellie Morgan, Director of Early Years and Junior Years
Melbourne Girls Grammar.

Seastar Publishing is proud to announce the release of Kath Murdoch’s stunning new book, The Power of Inquiry: teaching and learning with curiosity, creativity and purpose in the contemporary classroom.

With over 30 years of experience in the field of inquiry based learning and a wealth of experience working in classrooms all over the world, highly respected educator Kath Murdoch’s latest book is a must for any teacher interested in contemporary, learner and learning-centred practice. Organised under 10 essential questions, each chapter of this book provides both a theoretical overview and practical guidance for the implementation of purposeful and effective inquiry teaching. This book makes a perfect shared text for whole staff discussion and a valuable support to teams as they plan for student learning.

“Kath Murdoch’s The Power of Inquiry promotes teaching and learning as a consciously skilled, relational and reflective process. A beautiful and sophisticated read, it makes an important contribution to the field of applied education.”

Brendon Briggs, Deputy Principal
Macquarie Primary School, ACT
