Remembering Dr. Donald R. Wilson

Dr. Donald R. Wilson, the former Chair of the Department of Surgery at the University of Toronto, passed away Jan. 4 at Sunnybrook Health Sciences - Veterans Hospital Centre. He was in his 100th year.

Dr. Wilson is widely recognized as a pioneer in modernizing medical education in Canada and elsewhere. He was the inspiration and leading advocate for making the education of future physicians more responsive to social needs and more focused on physician competencies that meet the patients' needs.

As former Surgeon-in-Chief, Toronto Western Hospital, Professor and Chair of the Department of Surgery, U of T, President of Royal College of Physicians & Surgeons of Canada and President of the Associated Medical Services, he brought an interdisciplinary and collaborative perspective to all of his medical education projects and activities. He has served as a role model for physicians interested in medical education as an integral part of their careers.

Among his career contributions are the Gallie Postgraduate Course and the Gallie Day in Surgery, the founding of the Canada Medical Forum, the creation of Maintenance of Competence Programs for Royal College Fellows, being the driving force and leader of the Educating Future Physicians for Ontario, the expansion of the History of Medicine Programs across Canada and the Coalition of Academic Libraries for Ontario Medical Schools.

The internationally renowned Wilson Centre, UofT, at Toronto General Hospital, was named in his honour as an acknowledgement of his many contributions to health professions education.

This guest blog post, remembering the late Dr. Donald Wilson, was written by Dr. William E. Seidelman with the assistance of Drs. Richard Reznick, Tirone David, Chris Feindel, Bryce Taylor and Ron Baird. Their assistance in documenting Dr. Wilson's participation in the first heart transplant performed in Toronto at the Toronto Western Hospital was invaluable. Please share your fond memories of Dr. Wilson with us in the comments section.

Sometime in 1988, the Board of Directors of AMS held a “retreat” at the Guild Inn in Scarborough, Ontario. It was a wet and cold day. The meeting was held in a relatively small room in the basement of the aging inn on the Scarborough Bluffs. The “retreat” had been called by Don Wilson in his capacity as President and CEO of the corporation to consider a plan for the future.

Heretofore, AMS had gone through two major stages: The first was that of a pioneering, physician-sponsored, not-for-profit, prepaid health care organization in Ontario; the first in Canada. The second iteration began when the Province of Ontario joined the Federal Medicare Program and responsibilities for prepaid health care services were assumed by the Ontario provincial plan. AMS transitioned from being a health care provider to becoming a charitable organization financed by the monies accumulated in the reserve fund required to secure its activities as a health insurer. Influenced by the advice of Dr. William Gibson of the University of British Columbia; a noted advocate for the history of medicine, AMS established major initiatives in medical history eponymously named in honor of its founder, Dr. Jason Hannah. These initiatives included; a collection of valuable classical publications in medical history to be known as the Hannah Collection in the Fisher Memorial Library of the University of Toronto; Jason Hannah Chairs in the History of Medicine to be established in each of the then 5 medical faculties in Ontario: Ottawa, Western Ontario, Toronto, Queens and McMaster; and an administrative office known as the Hannah Institute which, under the leadership of an Executive Director, would have administrative responsibility over the activities related to medical history including grants, projects and, together with the medical faculties, review and employment of the Hannah Professors holding a designated chair. AMS continued as the “holding company”, so to speak.

The Guild Inn event, under the leadership of Don Wilson, marked the beginning of a significant transformational phase in the corporate life of AMS.

A native of Saskatchewan, Donald Richards Wilson was the son of a teacher. His grandfather had been a minister. Don would often jokingly comment that his preacher-grandfather, when he assumed a new parish, would often have the church given a fresh coat of paint. At the Guild Inn we were planning the next coat of paint for the “parish” of AMS.

The members of the Board at that time included; Mr. Jack Sword who had been a senior administrator and one-time Acting President of the University of Toronto; Dr. John Scott, a distinguished Toronto neurologist and leader of the Toronto Academy of Medicine; Ms. Ray Godfrey, a leading child-care advocate in Ontario; Dr. Boyd Upper, physician, administrator and executive with MDS who had been the AMS Chief Medical Officer; Dr. Robert McBeth, surgeon and head of the Canadian Cancer Society; Prof. Abyann Lynch PhD, internationally noted philosopher and pioneering leader in bioethics and me, a family physician, then at McMaster University.

The trajectory of Don Wilson’s life after Saskatoon included the Canadian military, the University of Toronto and the Toronto Western Hospital, and ultimately, Professor and Head of Surgery at the University of Toronto. Don’s clinical path was that of a pioneering cardio-thoracic surgeon who was a member of the team, including Drs. Ron Baird and Bob Miyagishima who performed the first ever heart transplant in Toronto at the Toronto Western Hospital.

In addition to the love of his family, the University and AMS, Don’s great passion was the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. As president of that organization, Don was involved in the acquisition and renovation of a magnificent old convent in Ottawa that became the elegant headquarter offices of the Royal College in which were also located the offices of, what was then known as, the Association of Canadian Medical Colleges.

But Donald Wilson’s overriding concern was that of education in health care.

The year before the AMS Board met in Scarborough, the province of Ontario had experienced a strike by the provinces’ physicians over the issue of extra-billing. The unsuccessful work stoppage had a damaging impact on the relationship between the professional medical community and the population at large. Don Wilson was deeply concerned about the apparent diathesis between the profession and the community. As a committed educator and sensitive individual, he felt that AMS should undertake an educational project that attempted to close the gap and bring the profession closer to the community it served. He also felt strongly that such an effort should be a collaborative one involving all of the faculties of medicine of the province who would have to share financial and professional resources. Leaders in education were brought together; from the local faculties, from the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, from across the country. Dr. John Evans, then with the Rockefeller Foundation, was consulted. A special retreat was held in May of 1989 under the chairmanship of Dr. Evans at which provincial and national leaders in medical education, together with representatives of the (Pew/Rockefeller) Health of the Public Project in the United States and the Negev Project in Israel, met to flesh out the vision for the AMS project. That meeting took place at the Sutton Place Hotel in Toronto in May of 1989, at the same time as people were assembling in Beijing in a huge protest in Tiananmen Square.

Out of the Sutton Place event emerged the Project Educating Future Physicians for Ontario; a project that has had an enduring effect nationally and internationally and reported on in detail elsewhere. One major innovation proposed by an EFPO leader, the late Dr. Bob Maudsley of Queen's University, was that of the EFPO Fellowships; faculty and student. One of the first EFPO fellows was Dr. Brian Hodges <http://www.ams-inc.on.ca/people/brian-hodges/>; now the leader of the AMS Phoenix Program.

A major financial contributor to EFPO was the Government of Ontario with the Council of the Ontario Faculties of Medicine (COFM) a critical partner in the implementation and monitoring of the overall effort.

An illustrative aspect of the humility and sensitivity of Don Wilson is exemplified by an encounter in the early days of the EFPO undertaking. In our attempts to engage the project with the community I introduced Don to Joan Milling, the then Executive Director of York Community Services, an innovative community health centre on Keele St. in Toronto; in a quasi-industrial, multi-ethnic, working-class neighborhood. As the conversation got underway it became apparent that Don had made a point of coming earlier and spent some time at the coffee shop across the street talking with regulars from the neighborhood who came there every day for coffee. Don had already done his own community survey. Not bad for a cardio-thoracic surgeon and former president of the Royal College!

EFPO was not the only color of paint chosen for the AMS "parish" at the Guild Inn. Don proposed that AMS publish a series of biographies of important Canadian figures in the history of health care in Canada known as "Canadian Medical Lives" which was edited by the retired neurosurgeon, Dr. Tom Morley.

Don also proposed, and the Board accepted, that AMS support an initiative in bioethics education in Canada under the leadership of AMS Board member, and pioneer in bioethics, Prof. Abbyann Lynch. Thus was launched two influential initiatives at Dalhousie University and the Hospital for Sick Children.

The Wilson era continued with additional efforts. Don was recognized for his contribution not only by AMS and the Royal College but also by the establishment of the eponymously named centre www.thewilsoncentre.ca for medical education of the University (Toronto) Health Network.

While the path was not without its bumps and stresses, thanks to the vision, wisdom and esteem of Donald Wilson, in concert with the support of AMS, the education of health professionals in Canada underwent a profound change that continues to this very day.

After a life that spanned a century encompassing significant contributions to the lives, health care and education of untold generations of Canadians, Dr. Donald Richards Wilson, formerly of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, leaves a distinguished immortal legacy.

Announcing the official launch of the History of Medicine and Medical Humanities Research Portal!

With over 400 pages of original description of libraries, archives, museums, digital collections, blogs, grants, and other resources in the history of medicine and medical humanities, this new resource is for all students, faculty, clinicians, and interested researchers. It includes listings from around the world, but includes a particular attention to Canadian history and Aboriginal health in Canadian archives.

The portal was created by the Hannah Unit at McMaster is made possible by funding from Associated Medical Services, the DeGroot School of Medicine at McMaster University, and the Faculty of Health Sciences at McMaster University.

Call for Papers - CMEJ Special Issue on Globalization and Health Professions Education: Canadian Dimensions – <http://www.cmej.ca/>

As you will note this is a unique opportunity to share your experiences and perspectives on how globalization is affecting health professions education practice. It is also an opportunity to help raise some critical questions about our field's engagement with globalization related issues. A variety of writing formats are invited (theoretical papers, personal reflections, research reports, literature reviews, essays etc).

The journal is also keen on receiving manuscripts from authors around the world who have experiences with Canadian health professions education in some way (i.e. individuals who have studied in Can and have gone on to practice in another country, Canadians who have completed their medical studies abroad and have returned to practice in Can, Individuals who have immigrated to Can from other countries to work in Can health professional education contexts, health professionals with experiences "importing" and applying Canadian health professions curricula and/or CanMEDs in other countries etc.

Education Development Fund - 2017 Call for Applications

The Council of Education Deans is pleased to announce that applications for this year's Education Development Fund (EDF) will be accepted as of December 1, 2016. This year's application deadline is: February 15, 2017.

Funded by the Education Vice-Deans, the Education Development Fund is intended to support new and innovative projects that align with our Faculty's strategic directions in education around the core values of innovation, integration and impact in education. It is a seed fund designed to encourage faculty who are newly engaged in educational scholarship to further their career development. Funding has traditionally been awarded to initiatives that focus on the design, implementation and evaluation of courses, programs and curricula including faculty development, continuing education and clinical learning initiatives. Hence, the deliverables for each cycle are closely aligned with the ongoing goals and objectives of education programs in the Faculty of Medicine.

Eligible projects should consider the goal of broad implementation across our academic programs represented by the Vice-Deans: Undergraduate Medical Professions Education, Postgraduate Medical Education, Graduate and Life Sciences Education in the Faculty of Medicine (including basic sciences, the rehabilitation sciences), and Continuing Professional Development.

More information about the competition and application process can be found online here and the application site itself is available here.

For questions about the EDF, please contact the Office of the Education Vice-Deans via email at edudeans@utoronto.ca.

We encourage all faculty to consider this funding opportunity. The EDF has a matched funding formula. As matched funding is limited, our Department has an internal peer review process set up for interested applicants to compete for the matched funds. Project/Research teams of qualifying proposals will also receive feedback for improving their proposals prior to submission to the EDF.

Knowledge Translation Professional Certificate (KTPC™) – March 6-10, 2017

KTPC is a five day course that was developed for knowledge translation (KT) professionals (eg. KT Specialists, researchers/practitioners who focus on KT, Knowledge Brokers, and the like). The course content is relevant across sectors and has drawn international interest and attendance. KTPC integrates KT theory and practice, culminating in the development and presentation of a KT plan, grounded in your own work. We also encourage supervisor involvement, if possible, to help you build organizational capacity for KT. Applications for March 2017 are now being accepted. Apply by Friday December 23rd, 2016! For details or to receive a copy of the application form, please contact Srdjana Filipovic, Program Manager, Knowledge Translation, Learning Institute, The Hospital for Sick Children, at (416) 813-7654 Ext. 228189 or srdjana.filipovic@sickkids.ca.

Scientist Knowledge Translation Training (SKTT™), February 16-17, 2017

The Scientist Knowledge Translation Training (SKTT™) course was developed on the premise that scientists, and increasingly, other practitioners and educators, are agents of change in creating research impact, promoting research utilization, and ensuring that research findings reach the appropriate audiences. There is a skill set surrounding KT practice, and it is these competencies that the training course was designed to impart.

The SKTT course is intended for anyone who has an interest in:

- Sharing research knowledge with (multiple) audiences beyond the traditional academic community
- Increasing the impact potential of their research
- Applying KT principles for sharing knowledge

CFP 7th Philosophy of Medicine Roundtable: Medicine, Public Health and Healthcare

June 23-24, 2017 - University of Toronto

It will be preceded by a symposium on June 22 at the University of Toronto titled 'Clinical Judgment: Multi-Disciplinary Perspectives'. Roundtable attendees are warmly invited to attend the symposium (details coming soon).

Philosophy of Medicine Roundtable: Call for Abstracts

We welcome papers in any area of philosophy of medicine, public health or healthcare, including epistemological and metaphysical issues in medicine (but not bioethics), from a variety of philosophical approaches. We particularly encourage submissions focused on epistemological issues related to population and public health. To submit an abstract, please upload a 500-word abstract to EasyChair by 1 February 2017. Abstracts will undergo blinded review and should not contain information that will allow identification of the author. The submission link is below:

<https://easychair.org/conferences/?conf=philmed2017>

Questions regarding submissions or the Roundtable should be directed to Jonathan Fuller (jonathan.fuller@mail.utoronto.ca) and Jeremy Simon (jeremy.simon@nyu.edu).

Local Organizers: Jonathan Fuller, Benjamin Chin-Yee and Ross Upshur.

Scientific committee: Rachel Ankeny, Alexander Bird, Alex Broadbent, Havi Carel, Fred Gifford, Harold Kincaid, Miriam Solomon, Julian Reiss, Jeremy Simon, David Teira.

This Roundtable is supported by the Faculty of Medicine, Medical Alumni Association, and Dalla Lana School of Public Health at the University of Toronto.

CALL FOR PAPERS: Creating Space VII: Dreaming the Myth Onward: The Stories We Don't Always Tell
A CCME pre-conference, Winnipeg, April 28-29, 2017

WHITE COAT, Warm ART Exhibit ~ Winnipeg Manitoba April 29th to May 1st, 2017.

We are pleased to announce the 8th "White COAT, Warm ART Exhibit" which is held annually in conjunction with the Canadian Conference on Medical education (CCME). This exhibit will showcase the creative talents of medical and other health sciences faculty, residents, students, and physicians and other health professionals from across Canada. This will be a juried exhibition. Entries will be accepted in a wide variety of categories, including oils, watercolour, photographs, pastels, etchings, pen and ink, etc. Some limited space will also be available for the display of small sculptures.

TWO Categories - YOU MUST SPECIFY WHICH CATEGORY YOU ARE SUBMITTING TO:

- 1) Live Exhibit: Artists selected for the live exhibit must either plan to bring their art themselves to the exhibit or arrange to have it brought by someone else. Any Shipping arrangements (delivery AND Packing for Return Shipping) must be arranged entirely by the artist (we don't have the resources to arrange shipping). Any shipping (& Insurance) expenses are born by the artist.
- 2) Digital Exhibit: If you don't plan to attend the exhibit or are unable to have your art brought by a colleague, please submit to the "Digital Exhibit".

Artistic Selection: For the live exhibit, preference will be given, to pieces of art that capture the human experience of practicing and/or learning medicine, however art that is not related to that specific theme, is welcomed. Selection for all pieces will be based on artistic merit, and demonstrated skill in effecting a particular artistic vision in the media chosen. Accompanying artist statements will be read and considered during the selection process and may be used (with the artists permission) at a later date in descriptions of the exhibit.

Judging will be carried out online so all entries (both categories) must be sent in for judging as digital images. For paintings and sculptures, please include a clear, bright digital image of the artwork showing as much detail as possible.

- Include in your email: 1) Title of Piece, Size, Media 2) your name, contact information (phone number, email address), 3) where you are (what school?) and what you do (e.g. medical student [year]?, resident?, faculty?...etc), 4) Email, and 5) a short artist's statement (60 words max: for example, you may want to describe the work of art itself, or describe the role of art and its importance in your life, how your artistic endeavors may have affected your life (e.g., learning, life balance, wellbeing, compassion, creativity, etc.)
- Email submission to: whitecoatwarmart@gmail.com
- Artworks must be created by submitting faculty, residents, students or those involved in the healthcare/ wellness field
- Art displayed at other exhibits are welcomed.
- A maximum of 2 artworks per artist can be submitted.

Visionaries listening to Visionaries www.thewalrus.ca/LGvisionariesprize

In keeping with Canada's 150th anniversary celebrations, and Ontario's future leadership role, the search is on for the top innovative and creative young thinkers in Ontario

In partnership with the Walrus Foundation, the Honourable Elizabeth Dowdeswell, Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, announced further details about the Lieutenant Governor's Visionaries Prize.

An incredible opportunity for innovative and creative young thinkers across Ontario to identify and present their solutions to challenges facing Ontario over the next 50 years to some of the top leaders and thinkers in our province.

"Disruptive technologies. Political detachment. Poverty, water shortages and food insecurity. These are just some of the potential challenges facing us in the coming years. To achieve a world that works for everyone will require bold and creative ideas. I invite you to seize the opportunity presented by the Lieutenant Governor's Visionaries Prize to design creative solutions, making an Ontarian contribution to those with whom we share this earth." The Honourable Elizabeth Dowdeswell, Lieutenant Governor of Ontario

Six finalists in each of six categories will have a chance to publicly showcase and defend their proposed policy solutions before a live audience and the judges at moderated sessions across Ontario, and the winners will be awarded the Lieutenant Governor's Visionaries Prize in October 2017. Head judge Piya Chattopadhyay will be joined by panel judges Waneek Horn-Miller (Reconciliation,) Steve Paikin (Governance,) Annette Verschuren (Inclusive Prosperity,) Edward Burtynsky (Environmental Stewardship,) Sanjay Khanna (Social Cohesion,) and Dr. Ilse Treurnicht (Scientific and Technological Innovation.)

The Lieutenant Governor's Visionaries Prize is managed by the Walrus Foundation in partnership with the Office of the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario and is supported by the Ontario Government through its Ontario150 program as part of Canada's sesquicentennial celebrations. The Walrus Foundation is a registered charitable non-profit organization with an educational mandate to create forums for conversations on matters vital to Canadians. The foundation is dedicated to supporting writers, artists, ideas, and thought-provoking conversation. In 2017, Canada will celebrate its 150th anniversary. As a founding province of Confederation, Ontario will be marking the occasion by supporting events and programs across the province that showcase our diversity, encourage Ontarians to get involved and celebrate and leave a lasting legacy for communities across the province to enjoy. This is a chance to reflect on our history and look ahead towards the next 150 years in Ontario. The Ontario150 program is intended to engage Ontarians of all ages, but especially our youth to help lay the groundwork for strong economic, social and cultural legacies for the next generation.
