Exploring Social Theory: An Open Forum

Arno K. Kumagai MD
Tuesday, January 21, 2020
12:00 - 1:00 pm
Wilson Centre conference room, Toronto General Hospital
200 Elizabeth St, 1st floor Eaton South Rm 559
RSVP: mariana.arteaga@uhn.ca - also to get copies of the readings

Readings:

Arno K. Kumagai MD
Arno is Professor of Medicine and Vice Chair for Education, Department of Medicine at the University of Toronto. He also holds the F.M. Hill Chair in Humanism Education at Women’s College Hospital, University of Toronto, where he has a clinical practice focused on working with individuals with type 1 diabetes. He received his B.A. in Comparative Literature from U.C. Berkeley and his M.D. from UCLA School of Medicine. He completed a residency in Internal Medicine and an Endocrine fellowship and postdoc in the UCLA system. He was on faculty at the University of Michigan Medicine from 1996 to 2016 and joined the University of Toronto’s Department of Medicine in April 2016. After a career in basic science research, Arno switched gears went into medical education. He has published extensively on the use of narratives in medical education, transformative learning, dialogical teaching, and teaching for equity and social justice. He also serves on the Editorial Board of Academic Medicine.

The Social Theory Open Forum is replacing the former social theory journal club hosted by the Wilson Centre. The Open Forum will still be in the format of a journal club, and meetings will still be at the Wilson Centre, but scholars will be invited to present their work and lead the discussion around it.