

ON NOVEMBER 07, 2013 AT 6:40 PM

Cole Haan and teNeues Celebrate Elliott Erwit's New Photography Book

BY JIAN DELEON

Last night Cole Haan partnered with teNeues publishing to celebrate the iconic photographer's (who was just featured in the shoe company's Born in 1928 campaign), Elliott Erwit's Kolor. The two companies feted the release with a book signing at Cole Haan's Columbus Circle shop in New York City, which was catered by acclaimed restaurant Per Se while Brendan Fallis provided the sonic ambience.

Elliott Erwit's Kolor is Erwit's first book of color photography, and is a tribute to George Eastman of Kodak and his legacy. The images in the book date back as far as the 1950s and feature iconic photographs like Marilyn Monroe standing over the subway grate, and John F. Kennedy in the Oval Office.

Ever the style icon as well, Elliot Erwit showed up in a great check blazer, a bright shirt and tie, and finished off his rig in a pair of Cole Haan Great Jones Saddle Shoes accessorized with Woven Argyle Socks. Elliott Erwit's Kolor is available now at teneues.com for $125.