Jessica Stago is Bita'nii (Folded Arm) clan from the Dine nation and born for the White Mountain Apache. She is the Program Director of Business Incubation and cofounder of Change Labs, a business incubator and coworking space located on the Navajo Nation supporting Native entrepreneurs. Jessica works with Native entrepreneurs to build and grow their business in an environment that has historically suppressed Native innovation in the private sector. She earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics and a Minor in American Indian Studies at ASU W.P. Carey School of Business and has a Master of Business Administration from the University of Phoenix. She teaches business management for cultural arts at Dine College. She has also served on the boards of the Navajo CDFI, Navajo Chamber of Commerce, and the Arizona Family Health Partnership and currently is a board member on the Colorado Plateau Foundation. Jessica enjoys being outdoors, Zumba and Crossfit, and watching her 16-year-old son's basketball and baseball games.

David Desai-Ramirez is responsible for providing strategic leadership and management of operations, lending and consulting activities in Southern Illinois, Missouri and Kansas. Over the last three and a half years at IFF, David has worked on projects including early childhood center and K-12 expansion, fresh food access and nonprofit co-location. Prior to joining IFF in January 2015 David was the Senior Manager of Finance at The Desco Group, responsible for all portfolio finance functions including valuation, risk management, treasury and capitalization of the roughly $650M commercial real estate portfolio.

David is an active community volunteer including various boards / committees (City Garden Montessori, Gateway Center for Giving, WePower, COCA Associate Board, Nonprofit Missouri, Missouri Public Charter School Association and DeLaSalle Charter School in Kansas City) and previously served two years as a Court Appointed Special Advocate for a child in in St. Louis County.

Drustva Delgadillo joined KaBOOM! in 2018 as the Director of Strategic Partnerships. Under this role, Dru leads our blended resource development strategies in collaboration with mission-aligned organizations, city governments and philanthropic organizations to support greater equitable access to play for children and youth. Dru has nearly 15 years of resource development experience, and most recently, ran her own consulting firm where she helped mission-driven non-profit organizations develop and execute best-practice fundraising strategies. Previously she worked at Save the Children Action Network (Save the Children’s political action arm), Save the Children’s U.S. Programs, and the Council for a Strong America, a bi-partisan, non-profit umbrella organization for Fight Crime: Invest in Kids, Mission: Readiness, Ready Nation, and Shepherding the Next Generation. Dru also served as the Associate Vice President of Development at Hysell Wagner, LLC (HW), where she led the public fundraising strategy for HW’s client, the Boys & Girls Clubs of America. Dru’s field experience includes serving as a home visitor for Healthy Families Alexandria, serving migrant families from Central and South America. Dru holds a master’s degree in conflict analysis and resolution and a bachelor’s degree in government and international politics from George Mason University. Dru is a long-time Arlington, Virginia resident and is originally from Bolivia.

Tim is the Founder and Chairman of Next Street. His primary focus is external, working with key clients and oversite of the firm as member of the Board of Managers. He is also helping to shape the firm’s work in the emerging field of impact investing, which has the potential to transform the neighborhoods in which Next Street works.

Prior to founding Next Street in 2005, Tim held leadership positions at several large financial services enterprises in a career spanning more than 25 years. These roles included being Head of Investments for Putnam Investments, the CEO of HSBC Asset Management, and the CEO of County NatWest Securities. His professional experience ranges from investment banking to investment management, with a focus on managing and growing such businesses. Tim is Chair Emeritus of the Boston Children’s Chorus, a former Director of the Initiative for a Competitive Inner City, and is currently a founding board member of the New Growth Innovation Network. He has a B.A. in Politics, Economics, and Law from the University of Buckingham in the U.K.
Investing towards comprehensively healthy and equitable communities

Eric White
CAIA, Principal,
Cogent Consulting

Eric joined Cogent in 2016 after a decade at Slocum, a full service investment consulting firm serving more than 100 clients representing over $100 billion in assets. As co-founder and head of Slocum’s Responsible Investment Strategies Group, Eric worked with mission-driven organizations, advising on policy and program construction, investment manager selection, and program monitoring and assessment placing more than $300 million in impact investments across more than 20 religious, foundation, and corporate clients. As a Chartered Alternative Investment Analyst, he combines fund and security underwriting expertise with a global orientation, applying a practical, action-driven approach through a holistic perspective. A recognized leader in impact investing in the region, he has spoken at multiple conferences nationally.