2018 IN REVIEW

Exhibits
2018 ushered in four exhibitions at the Museum. Three of the exhibitions were displayed in the Community Gallery and one in the Special Gallery. Opening in January, 2018 was the Hayward Arts Council Members show. The exhibit included artworks from over 48 artists from throughout the East Bay.

The summer exhibition was a traveling exhibition from our partners at Exhibit Every, Black and White in Black and White. The exhibit included large format images printed from glass plate negatives depicting mostly early 20th Century portraits of African Americans in Lincoln, Nebraska. The amazing images had been carried around for many years in the possession of the curator Doug Krister who made his home in California, not knowing what treasures he had. After more in-depth research, Krister found that the photos had been taken by African American photographer John Johnson.

The exhibition presented the opportunity for our community to see a rare collection of images that they would not have seen otherwise.

Education
In 2018, HAHS served 2,994 Hayward area students through school tours, in-class presentations, and Discovery Kit rentals.

Through six programs, we served an additional 654 visitors. These programs included the Black History Month lecture with guest Professor JoAnn Seals, the Hayward Area Film Festival, Japanese arts and crafts program for families, a first hand recounting of “Stories from Camp” related to the Loyal Americans exhibition, a discussion about civil liberties, and our Day of the Dead family program.

Historic Properties
McLaughry House hosted 460 visitors through regular monthly open days and special programming. A small holiday boutique made its return during December, adding to the ambiance of the spirited decor. Nearly 1,770 visitors toured Meek Mansion during four free open days through the year and through special programs and programming.

San Lorenzo Pioneer Cemetery hosted 72 visitors and volunteers, who came to help with the care and maintenance of the cemetery.

In the fall, we held our annual Day of the Dead exhibition which brought another surge of participation from local artists and community members. The exhibit included traditional alteras, digital photos, pastels, acrylics, mixed media, photographs, and sculptures celebrating different interpretations of Dia de los Muertos. An interactive memorial section within the exhibition eventually included hundreds of memorials left by visitors to the exhibition in honor of their loved ones.

The interactive altar that encouraged children to build their own altar was also popular.

From the beginning of March through the end of the year was a special exhibition, Loyal Americans: Japanese American Internment During World War II. The exhibition was a true partnership with members of the local Japanese-American community who were instrumental in directing the content of the exhibition and offered artifacts for display in the exhibit. It was our highest attended exhibition ever. Visitors to the exhibit left hundreds of comments, supporting our work in presenting an often-controversial topic and sharing their own stories.

HAHS welcomed a total of 11,920 visitors to the museum for exhibits, receptions, and special tours in 2018. In total, HAHS served 19,360 people through all activities, including museum visitations, research assistance, programming and events, and field trips.
