Introduction

From Bugs Bunny to Grammy winners, our 2017-18 season was one to remember!

The mission of the Erie Philharmonic is to strengthen our community and region by providing high quality live orchestra concerts and programs that enrich, entertain and educate people of all ages.

Our 2017-18 season saw the orchestra focus on the three central tenants of our mission statement like never before, reaching an unprecedented number of people of all ages from across the region. From sold-out concerts and flourishing younger audiences to impactful outreach experiences and national publicity from Forbes and the Huffington Post, the Erie Philharmonic is redefining what it means to be an arts organization in the City of Erie.

We are also reaching out into the surrounding counties like never before, with more people attending three concerts in the Winter of 2018 than in all of our 2015-16 season combined.

So much is going well with the Philharmonic today, it’s hard to know where to begin. As I write this, we have just finished a successful negotiation with our musicians that will ensure uninterrupted music-making with the Philharmonic for the next five seasons. We are in the third of a four-year celebration of Beethoven’s music, which will culminate next season in a gala performance of Beethoven’s 9th Symphony. We just started the Bruce Morton Chamber Series this year, which will continue to bring great music to Erie residents free of cost, making use of our own wonderful musicians in the Philharmonic.

I am also delighted to have extended my own contract with the Erie Philharmonic. I really feel as if my relationship has blossomed with regards to my own work with our musicians, with our superb staff led by Steve Weiser, with the members of our dedicated and expert Board of Governors and Directors, and with our passionate audience. I continue to gain an enormous amount of satisfaction knowing that the work we put into this Erie institution helps to bring great music and vital performances to an ever-increasing audience in Erie County and beyond.

Our audience in the community is continuing to cement how important it is for Erie to have the Erie Philharmonic. Whether teaching music to preschoolers at the St. Benedict Center, speaking with retirees at Springhill, interacting with schoolchildren in classroom visits, running a 5K Race, sponsoring events at a local brewery, collaborating with community partners like the Erie Playhouse, or in dozens of the other creative ways, we are looking to forge important and lasting connections with our community outside the walls of the Warner Theatre.

I am immensely proud of how the work we have done so far is starting to pay-off in big ways. We continue to field an orchestra made up of talent that rivals any community, and we continue to attract top-name soloists who, when they are not in Erie, are performing with the Berlin Philharmonic, Chicago Symphony, and Pittsburgh Symphony. I am also thrilled to know that the plans for the completion of the Warner Theatre renovations are finally on track, and I am grateful that our musicians will finally have comfortable backstage space and a new orchestral shell and lighting to enhance our ability to deliver a great performance to you in a direct and vivid way.

Lastly, I would like to thank you for the generosity you continue to show us through your service, enthusiasm, and donations. You are the reason we can continue to make the Erie Philharmonic one of the most beloved and resilient institutions in Erie. We want to continue to make an impact on Erie in even deeper ways going forward, and with your help, we will achieve those goals and begin to develop in ways we haven’t even dreamt of yet!

With deepest gratitude and appreciation,

Daniel Meyer
Music Director, Erie Philharmonic
“We’re an overnight success…(whispers) 106 years in the making.”

These are exciting times for the Erie Philharmonic and we shouldn’t underappreciate all that we enjoy—and now expect—from Northwest Pennsylvania’s premier arts organization. The last few seasons were marked by: (1) sold-out performances; (2) soloists at the pinnacle of their profession such as Emanuel Ax and Sharon Isbin, who grace the stages of Lincoln Center and Carnegie Hall one week, and entertain guests at the Warner Theater the next week; (3) financial viability while orchestras nationwide struggle or fold; (4) increased free community-wide performances for children and chamber music fans; (5) increased charitable initiatives highlighted by our incredible piano donation program; and (6) a bedrock foundation built from contractual agreements with our Musicians Union, our Music Director, Daniel Meyer and our Executive Director Steve Weiser.

You built this. You, the Erie community built this orchestra, along with our previous Board members, donors, staff, conductors and musicians. For 106 years, the Erie Philharmonic has slowly, steadily laid the groundwork for today’s success, with undeterred effort and unflinching patience and commitment. To our dedicated supporters throughout our history: thank you for allowing us to stand on your shoulders. To our current team and supporters: be proud of this sterling community asset and forever treasure its hard-won strength and stability.

These last two years have been one of the greatest honors of my professional life to serve as President of the Board of Directors and I am excited to see the Philharmonic fulfill its limitless potential. I enthusiastically welcome the capable leadership of Lisa Adams who will assume the mantle as our next President in June.

Bravo to all of you and I’ll see you at the Warner!

John Knox
President, Erie Philharmonic Board of Directors

While it is very easy to be swept up in the emotional pull of larger victories during the course of one concert season, I love focusing on the smaller memories. These little snippets of time, hidden amongst the daily hustle and bustle of meetings, phone calls and emails, showcase the true story of the Erie Philharmonic.

This is the “why” of what we do.

Don’t get me wrong, we love big victories! Sold out concerts, Grammy winners, Bugs Bunny, Mac n’ Cheese - all amazing experiences that reached tens of thousands of people during the 2017-18 season. But our story extends beyond these events, beyond the Warner Theatre.

One example can illustrate this point perfectly. In September 2017, we expanded our piano donation program to include families, meaning we would facilitate the delivery of a gently-used piano directly into the home of a young piano student. In just nine months, we have donated more than 21 pianos to families from across the region. This alone is an amazing number but, by itself, is just that. A number. What you may not know is that I personally visited almost 100% of these donations. Being in the room when a child walks in and sees a new piano waiting for them is certainly a life-changing experience.

And then, normally about five minutes into my drive back to the Philharmonic office, a smile starts to grow on my face. All of our efforts - ticket sales, donation requests, grants, etc. - have led to this moment for that one student, who now has a brand-new instrument as a permanent part of their life. This is the “why” to what we do.

This is the Erie Philharmonic.

Thank you for being an invaluable part of this story. From big memories to the little moments in between, I look forward to welcoming you on our journey for years to come!

Steve Weiser
Executive Director, Erie Philharmonic
