TO RELEASE NOTHING HERE SEEMS STRANGE

ON NEW WEST RECORDS JANUARY 31, 2012

Limited Edition 7-inch Available Now

Los Angeles, CA (November 29, 2011) -- Buxton, a five piece folk-rock ensemble from Houston, TX, is excited to announce that their New West Records debut album Nothing Here Seems Strange will be released January 31, 2012. A limited edition 7-inch is currently available featuring the album's first single "Boy of Nine". Buxton's music is a study in contrasts: rock and folk, subtle yet eccentric, lush harmonies over prickly guitar. Buxton, who are coming off a strong east coast tour including a sold out CMJ show, will hit the road once again bringing their explosive, folk-based rock songs to West Coast cities including San Diego, San Francisco and Los Angeles where they will play a benefit show for the non-profit 826LA. The band then heads to NYC for a special event at the Gramercy Theater in support of the non-profit Art Start Organization.

Buxton's fusion of lovely harmonies, jarring explosions of energy and meticulously applied instrumentation is led by Sergio Trevino on Vocals/Guitar with Jason Willis on lead Guitar/Mandolin, Chris Wise on Bass Guitar, Justin Terrell on Drums and Austin Sepulvado on Guitar/Vocals. Haley Barnes often joins the group on keyboard and harmony vocals. The band, with two self-released albums, is already garnering critical praise with the Houston Press declaring "Simply put, these guys are getting ridiculously good."
