

Jesa Galloway (Secretary/ Patient Support Chair)

Jesa was born and raised in Philadelphia, PA. She and her husband, Brandon, have also raised their four children (Brynn (10), Julian (8), Adrian (5), and Lennon (1 ½), in Philadelphia up until this year. Jesa and her family just recently moved to Feasterville, PA. Jesa has obtained her BA in Psychology and Education in 2002 and her MA in Clinical/Counseling Psychology from LaSalle University in 2005. Jesa also went on to become a Licensed Professional Counselor in the state of Pennsylvania in 2008 and currently works in a private practice and for a non-profit organization, providing assessments and counseling to youth and their families. Jesa has been with CORA services, Inc. for the past 10 years.

Jesa had always had rough pregnancies with all four of her children and three of her children were treated in the NICU for several weeks after their birth, but Lennon was different. Jesa and Brandon always believed that was something very different and special about Lennon. Lennon spent the first seven and a half months in two different NICUs before going home with her family. Test after test were run and surgery after surgery occurred, but all that Jesa and Brandon were left with were a bunch of “we don’t know” in regards to Lennon’s condition. It wasn’t until weeks after Lennon’s first birthday and her near-death experience due to an unexpected seizure, did Jesa and Brandon receive Lennon’s official diagnosis of Bohring-Opitz Syndrome. Jesa and Brandon finally felt a sense of relief (and fear) that this is where Lennon is. Since that time, Jesa and Brandon with the help of their friends and family have geared up to start a charity for Lennon and the BOS population. Jesa has always strived to gain knowledge and “do more” ever since Lennon was diagnosed and is very grateful to be part of the BOS foundation Board of Directors.
