

Sandy Dreis (Board Advisor)

Recently retired Sandy Dreis lives in Central Florida. She devoted over 35 years of her life to the renal community advocating for better care for renal patients. After spending 13 years on the clinical side of things as a RN, Sandy decided that it may be a good time to transition to the commercial side ...the dark side as some clinical folks might say... and spent the next 25 years working in Industry. She transitioned from working for the well-being of patients through the hands of a caring nurse to a well-established business leader. Sandy was recognized for her strategic thinking, her organizational skills and her ability to lead a group of individuals from all different functional areas and background to a common goal.

Through the years of experience Sandy grew to appreciate the value and importance of strategic relationships among patient groups, clinical teams, researchers, legislators, and commercial groups to ensure undeserved patient groups needs are met. Creating collaborations that are win-win-wins are vital for success.

Sandy is inspired by the families living with rare, chronic conditions and hopes to contribute in some small way to the quality of life of her Grandniece, Hazel, her parents, Carrie and Greg, and all the other brave families living with a child with a BOS diagnosis.
